Highway Plan Is Backed By State Heads

Governors Close 47th Conference Commending Program

CHICAGO, Aug. 12 (AP)—The nation's governors closed their 47th annual conference today with a parting round of political shots and a bid for a "greatly expanded" highway building program.

Straddling the hot issue of highway financing, the governors adopted a compromise resolution commending only "the objectives" of President Eisenhower's highway program.

It ducked the question of hiking taxes or issuing bonds as Eisenhower proposed to pay the bill. It also ducked the question of urging a special session of Congress to put the program across.

Should Be Expended

The governors did say they believe "far more" of the money the federal government collects from gasoline and other taxes on road users "should be expended on highways."

These taxes, they said, now bring in more than 2½ billion dollars a year but less than 900 millions is devoted to highways. The resolutions committee, which produced the policy statement on highways, reportedly was divided sharply on whether Congress should be asked to put all the 2½ billions into roads.

The governors elected Washington's 55-year-old, third-term, Republican governor, Arthur Langlie, as their conference chairman. They voted to hold next year's session in Atlantic City, N. J.

Before locking up shop, the governors received a Russian delegation touring American farming areas and an invitation to come to Moscow.

The final political salvo on the sidelines was fired by Gov. Frank Clement, Tennessee Democrat.

Clement gave renewed and enthusiastic endorsement to Adlai Stevenson to repeat for the Democratic presidential nomination next year. He held himself available for second place on the ticket. And he told a reporter he in no way was trying to head off Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn), who tried for the nomination in 1952 and might again in '56.

Gov. Averell Harriman of New York and two men who weren't even present — Eisenhower and Stevenson — were the central political figures of this gathering of governors.

Politics Was Dominant

While governors checked partisanship at the door of business sessions on highways, mental health and intergovernmental relations, politics was the dominant theme elsewhere.

Rain Floods New York City

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (AP)—More than half a foot of rain flooded the New York metropolitan area today in the heaviest August downpour in history. The city was on a hurricane alert, but water not wind was the immediate problem.

The latest Weather Bureau report said there is a chance the hurricane might miss the city. Even if it hits head-on, the bureau added, it should not be much more than a gale.

Advance gale winds were whipping Long Island and churning up heavy seas that pounded its shore line. Many tree branches were broken. Entire blocks of Nassau County residents were evacuated from flood waters.

Since 3 p.m. EDT Thursday, an official 6.08 inches of rain had fallen in New York City and it was still coming down. In some parts of the city, the total had exceeded 8 inches.

11 Freed Airmen Reach States, Planes Set To Wing Them To Homes

Airman Schmidt Faces Prospect Of Wife Who Has Been Remarried

TRAVIS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif., Aug. 12 (AP)—After 32 wracking months in a prison in Red China, 11 American airmen crossed the Pacific today and found planes ready to speed them to their homes.

But there was one who faced a heart-saddening prospect. He was Airman Daniel Schmidt, 22, of Portland, Ore.

"I'm going to work this out myself," was all he would say about a prospective meeting with his wife, Una, who last September, she said, married another man in the belief that Schmidt was dead.

The Air Force said Schmidt's wish for privacy would be respected. It said there would be no official word about him or his affairs unless he made a statement.

1,000 Witness Return

About 1,000 persons gathered before the huge air strip here to witness the return of the 11 fliers who parachuted over North Korea when their bomber was shot down.

The airmen came from Honolulu in two planes. Relatives of only two men were there to greet them. The fliers had voted against a mass movement of relatives to the West Coast. They said they preferred family greetings at their homes.

The field commander said that by 11 p.m. PDT all the men would be on their way to their families.

Cpt. Elmer F. Llewellyn was the first out. He left for Missoula, Mont., at 11 a.m. Three other planes with nine other fliers, were on the schedule to depart 12 hours later.

Dag Hammarskjold, United Nations secretar-general, sent a special message of welcome to the men.

Hammarskjold told a news conference at the United Nations today he still is negotiating for the return of any U.N. command prisoners still held in China.

Col. John K. Arnold Jr., of Silver Spring, Md., senior officer among the 11 who returned today, and speaking for them, told reporters: —

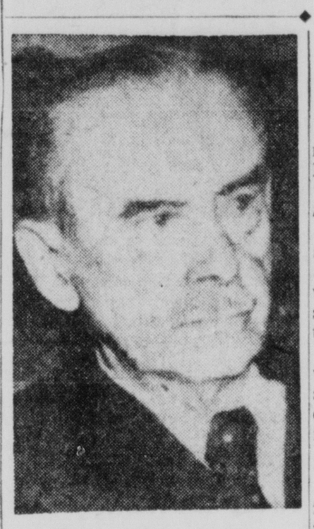

All Looking Well

"I categorically deny that anything they said or did comprised a confession of espionage charges."

In other statements since their release near Hong Kong last week, the men told of torture and relentless questioning, and of their trial as spies.

All the fliers looked well as they walked down the ramps from their planes, but some appeared tired.

The other airmen are Maj. William H. Beaumer, Lewisburg, Pa.; Capt. Eugene Vaadi, Clayton, N.Y.; Capt. John W. Buck, Armathwaite, Tenn.; Lt. Wallace Brown, Montgomery, Ala.; Sgt. Howard W. Brown, St. Paul, Minn.; Airman Harry Benjamin, Worthington, Minn.; Airman John W. Thompson, Orange, Va., and A1C Steve Kiba, Akron, Ohio.

Troops Await Tense Outcome Of Korea Riot

BULLETIN

SEOUL, Saturday, Aug. 13 (AP)—U.S. troops repelled with gunfire and tear gas a 3,000-man assault yesterday on the compound housing Red truce inspectors at the east coast port of Kangnung. One Korean was reported wounded in the melee.

SEOUL, Saturday, Aug. 13 (AP)—Riot-armed U.S. troops, accused by South Korea of killing one Korean and wounding two others, today waited out the final, tense hours of President Syngman Rhee's ultimatum for Communist truce inspectors to quit the country by midnight.

The U.S. military reaffirmed its determination to protect the truce inspectors against any effort to forcefully evict them.

South Koreans, who have been demonstrating for a week, called for a huge 100,000-man show in Seoul today, staged by the country's national defense youth corps.

President Rhee has not said what he would do if the Czech and Polish inspectors fail to comply with his midnight deadline. He was reported seeking a two-fold pledge from Washington as the price for halting violence:

1. An assurance the United States would help South Korea find a solution to peaceful eviction of the Communists. Rhee accuses them of spying.

2. An order for U.S. troops to put away their guns used in guarding billets of the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission.

Under Korean armistice terms, the U.N. soldiers are charged with protecting truce team compounds. A U.S. official said today "we are determined to carry out our commitments."

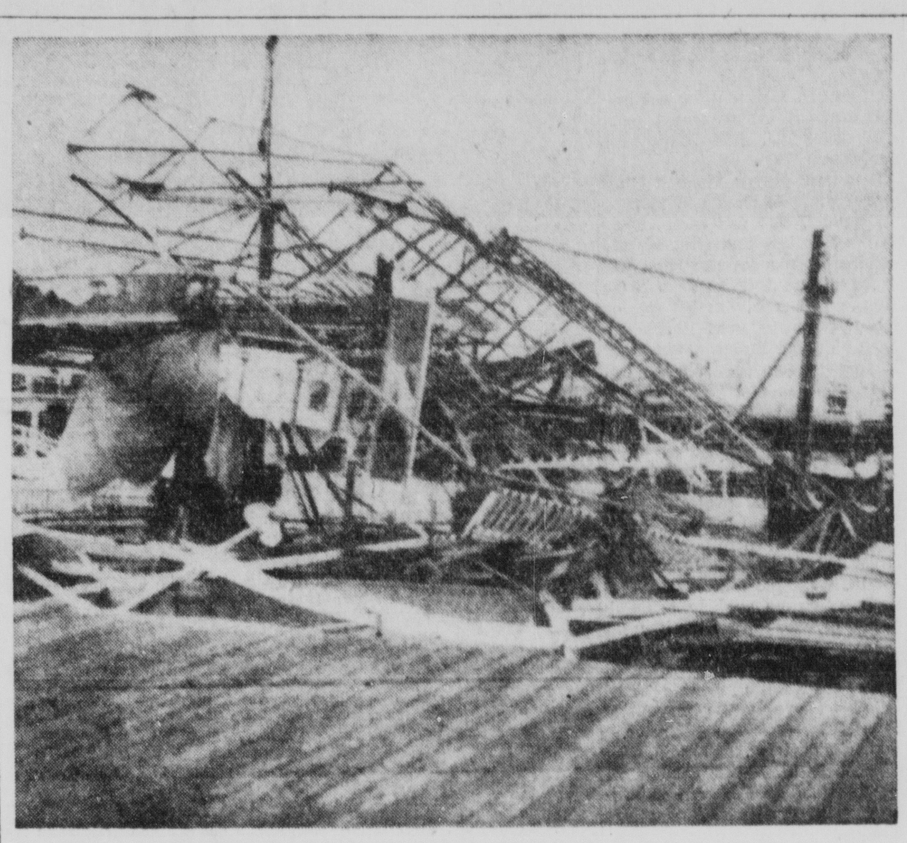

More than 20 U.S. soldiers have been injured during the demonstrations.

The U.S. 8th Army acknowledges that a U.S. guard on a patrol boat fired in the pre-dawn darkness Friday near Wolmi Island in Inchon Harbor, site of a truce team compound. A spokesman said three Koreans were spotted trying to steal canned milk from a barge.

Kim Chung Hung, director of South Korea's national police, said the guard killed one Korean and wounded two others who were trying to get their small boat off a mud flat.

Later 1,000 South Koreans were turned back by tear gas grenades while trying to pull down the gate posts to the Wolmi compound.

Wherever members of the truce team went, they were accompanied by U.S. guards, with carbines at the "ready."

Damaged By Hurricane

Damage Set At $2 Million In Carolinas

Hurricane Lumbers Slowly Northward 12 Miles Per Hour

BULLETIN

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 12 (AP)—Hurricane Connie, worn down to gale-size in her pounding trip up the Carolina coast, broke up into a series of small squalls over eastern Virginia tonight.

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 12 (AP) — Hurricane Connie whirled off the Virginia coast tonight after lashing the Carolina mainland and continued north where death and torrential rains already heralded her approach.

The tropical blow whose erratic movements have kept the east coastal United States on an on-and-off hurricane alert for the past three days figured in at least 19 deaths. Damage was mounting and North Carolina alone had a bill for more than two million dollars for her frenzied visit.

At least 10 persons drowned in upper Chesapeake Bay off of North Beach, Md., in the break up of an old three masted schooner converted to a pleasure cruise craft. Twelve were rescued but six others were missing.

In New York City, doused by more than a half foot of rain in the past 24 hours six deaths were attributed directly or indirectly to the storm.

Seaboard Is Warned

And Washington, D.C. reported the deaths of four persons in an automobile that plunged into swollen Rock Creek in the middle of the city.

Connie's eye passed over Virginia Beach, 20 miles east of Norfolk, at 9 p.m. Winds of 55 miles an hour lashed the resort which had been buttoned up against the blow for two days.

The entire Eastern Seaboard, warned to get its guard up again, watched anxiously as her course grew more erratic. Winds up to 50 miles an hour already had spread northward as far as Maryland, with prospects that they would increase.

The ominous black and red hurrican flags still flew from Cape Hatteras to the Delaware Breakwater and storm alerts were up north of Delaware to Provincetown, Mass.

Tropical storm Diane moved to 1,150 miles east of Miami, generally along Connie's path. Diane's center winds were up to 90 miles an hour, well over the 75 miles that draws the line between a gale and a hurricane.

Preliminary estimates of damages to North Carolina beaches in the Wilmington area total about two million dollars, State Civil Defense Director Edward Griffin said. The total will go much higher since these estimates did not apply to beaches and cities north of Wilmington such as Morehead City and Beaufort, N. C.

Beach Hard Hit

Hardest hit apparently was Carolina Beach, Griffin said, where damage was estimated at $1,300,000. Public property losses accounted for $300,000 of that figure.

Other total damage estimates for North Carolina beaches as compiled by Griffin included: Kure $200,000; Wilmington Beach $50,000; Long Beach $36,000; Southport $312,000; unincorporated beaches in Brunswick County (below Wilmington) $28,000.

Chrysler Corp. Faced By Threat Of Strike Poll

DETROIT, Aug. 12 (AP)—Accusing Chrysler Corp. of hedging by not meeting benefits established at Ford and General Motors, the CIO United Auto Workers today ordered a strike poll of its 139,000 Chrysler employes.

UAW and American Motors, meanwhile, continued bargaining on a new contract in hopes of averting a possible midnight strike when the old pact expires.

A few hours before the UAW's 175-member Chrysler Council ordered the strike poll, the company announced it had made a wage offer which "meets the pattern of benefits granted by Chrysler Corp.'s major competitors."

The UAW said this was not so. The Chrysler Council voted unanimously to reject the offer and ordered the strike poll completed by Aug. 22 —ten days before the current contract expires Aug. 31.

Chrysler said it had offered a layoff pay plan guaranteeing 60 to 65 percent of normal take-home pay for laid off employes up to 26 weeks. Such a plan is in both the Ford and GM contracts.

The union said Chrysler, however, refused to include in the layoff pay plan some 8,000 white collar employes represented by the UAW.

In comparison with Ford and GM agreements, the union also said that Chrysler:

1. Offered substandard benefits in its health insurance program, with higher contributions required of workers.

2. Attempted to "dilute and weaken" the existing system of union representation by restricting the number of UAW stewards in auto body plants.

3. Proposed to weaken the seniority system, and refused to meet an established pattern of 10 per cent premium pay for third (midnight) shift workers.

Author Thomas Mann, 80, Dies In Swiss Hospital

ZURICH, Switzerland, Aug. 12 (AP)—Thomas Mann, one of the great modern authors, died in the Cantonal Hospital here tonight following a thrombosis. He was 80.

Mann was flown back to the hospital here from a vacation in Holland last month suffering from phlebitis, a vein inflammation.

He had appeared to be recovering, but his physician, Prof. Wilhelm Loeffler, said tonight his "general condition of weakness" caused his death after the heart attack struck him.

The German-born author, who won the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1929, celebrated his 80th birthday among his family and friends in Switzerland on June 6.

One of Germany's greatest modern authors, he was driven from Germany by Nazi persecution before World War II and became an American citizen.

He returned to Europe to live the rest of his days in 1953 with his wife Katja and his daughter Erika. Here they occupied a small house overlooking the Lake of Zurich.

He explained that he returned to Europe after 15 years in America because he was "European at heart."

Only last May he enjoyed an unusual triumph. The 700-year-old city of Luebeck, his birthplace, made him an honorary citizen and leading families of the city turned out for the ceremony.

It was his first novel, "Buddenbrooks," depicting the degeneration of a well-to-do family of the old German port that started controversies and offended some leading families. For years he was treated as a renegade by the citizens of Luebeck.

The author of "Magic Mountain," "Joseph and His Brothers" and other modern classics in recent months had been busy with completing an expansion of "The Memoirs of the Imposter Felix Krull," a small work which originally appeared in 1910.

The expanded story is to appear in the United States this fall from the press of Alfred A. Knopf as "Confessions of Felix Krull."

President Inks Wage Measure

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—President Eisenhower today signed a bill establishing a new $1 an hour minimum wage for 24 million workers covered by the federal Fair Labor Standards Act.

The new floor becomes effective next March 1.

The President approved the bill although he had asked Congress to increase the present 75 cent minimum only to 90 cents. Union labor leaders urged a $1.25 figure.

The new law is expected to mean wage increases for about 2,100,000 employes, mostly in the South. Some textile and sawmill workers are among those earning less than $1 an hour now.

Just about half of the nation's 48 million wage and salary earners are covered by the minimum wage provisions of the federal law.

Atom Energy Used To Light Entire Town

GENEVA, Aug. 12 (AP) — The United States disclosed today that atomic energy had been used for the first time in history as the sole source of light and power in an entire American town.

The experiment was carried out without fanfare July 17 at Arco, Idaho, near craters of the Moon National Monument, and lasted only about an hour.

But for that hour, the town depended solely on nuclear power supplied by an experimental power plant operated by the Argonne laboratory at the Atomic Energy Commission's testing station, 20 miles away.

Conventional power supplies were cut off when the electricity was fed into the regular lines from the atomic station.

"The lights went out when they made the switch," said Mayor Ralph N. Ellison, in Arco today. But after that "we couldn't tell difference" during the hour of the experiment.

"It was kind of a secret ahead of time," he said. "The town board knew about it in advance, of course. Then after it was over we were all talking about it. It was quite a topic of conversation for some time. We thought it was quite an honor."

The town, which had a population of only 300 when the atomic station started to build, now has between 1,200 and 1,500 residents, depending on the status of construction. It is the center of a livestock area and farmers in the region grow potatoes and small grains. Normally Arco gets its electronic power from the Utah Power & Light Co.

Several weeks ago, by-product power from an experimental submarine reactor at West Milton, N.Y., began to be fed into the general system of an electric utility, but it was used only as a supplement.

Russia has a nuclear power plant in the Moscow area, which has been in operation since mid-1954, but its power also is being fed into regular lines.

Scientists of 72 nations continued technical discussions at the international atoms-for-peace conference today on the merits of different type reactors, the use of radioactive isotopes in biology and medicine, and developments in chemistry and physics.

Sgt. Gallagher To Take Stand

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (AP)—Sgt. James C. Gallagher will take the witness stand in his own defense at his Army court - martial on charges of murdering fellow American prisoners in Korea.

In making the announcement today, his lawyer said the 23-year-old Brooklyn soldier will be the final defense witness. He is expected to testify sometime next week.

Gallagher is accused of abusing three fellow-prisoners in a Red Chinese camp during the Korean War and throwing them into 40 below zero weather to die. He also is accused of collaborating with his captors.

Conviction carries a maximum penalty of life at hard labor.

Big Three Plans Oct. 27 Meeting In New York

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—The State Department said today the foreign ministers of Great Britain, France and the United States will probably get together in New York next month to lay the groundwork for their Oct. 27 Geneva conference with the Russians.

Lincoln White, State Department press officer, told a news conference it is conceivable that if the western Big Three ministers are all in New York for the United Nations General Assembly meeting which begins Sept. 20, they will have sessions of their own on the side.

The British and French ambassadors in Washington have conferred frequently with State Department officials on plans for the Big Four foreign ministers meeting in Geneva. The two ambassadors were on the State Department calling list again today.

The Geneva conference starting Oct. 27 will be a followup to the Summit Conference last month, when the heads of government directed their foreign ministers to try to deal with these problems:

1. Disarmament, including President Eisenhower's proposal for eventual inspection of one another's military installations.

2. Reunification of Germany and formation of new security arrangements for Europe.

3. Breaking down of barriers to trade, travel and communications between East and West.

Collision Of Hurricanes Causes Uncertain Course

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 12 (AP) — A collision of the outer circulation areas of the two Atlantic hurricanes occurred today, and both storms are showing the peculiar behavior known among weather men as the Fujiwharra Effect.

Gordon Dunn, chief forecaster in the Weather Bureau's storm warning center here, said the newest storm, Diane, increased the velocity of winds whirling around its center to about 100 miles an hour, and is being rotated toward the north around the edge of Connie.

The older storm, Connie, now raking the North Carolina-Virginia coast, is moving erratically and is being held back by Diane's influence. Except for Diane, Connie would be romping off toward the Northeast.

"Connie is an adult storm whose circulation area is 1,500 miles long and 850 miles wide," Dunn explained. "Diane's circulation area reaches outward 500 to 500 miles. It is a juvenile among hurricanes.

"The centers of the two hurricanes are 1,100 miles apart. Thus with Connie's 850-mile wide circulation, and Diane's 400 miles or so, there is a collision of the outer forces of circulation and the Fujiwhara Effect has begun.

"In this effect, one storm tends to rotate around the other. That's why Diane is being pushed northward, and Connie is being held back and moves erratically."

Diane at 2 p.m. EST was about 1,100 miles east and slightly to the north of Miami, moving toward the northwest or north-northwest at about 11 miles an hour.

The Fujiwhara Effect makes it almost impossible for Diane to divert to a more westerly course, and the southern half of the eastern seaboard is considered in the clear as far as this storm is concerned.

If Connie can find a strong low pressure trough to lead her out of the area where the massive collision of forces has trapped her, she will begin to move, said Dunn.

This would leave a path for Diane to follow, whether that path, when it opens up, is toward land remains to be seen, said the forecaster. At the very earliest Diane is three days from the mainland.

She may take a swipe at Bermuda as she rolls along, but even that isn't definite at present.

Girl Stowaway To Return Home

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12 (AP)—The Girl who stowed away on the Canadian destroyer flies home to Hawaii in style tomorrow.

Sixteen-year-old Joycelyn Joan Pilapil is scheduled to leave by plane, accompanied by a federal matron.

She was placed on five-year probation and ordered returned to her parents in Hilo after appearing in Federal Court on a delinquency charge yesterday.

With that order, the government picks up the cost of jaunty Joycelin's ticket home. The U. S. marshal had hoped to cut costs by putting her aboard a Navy transport but that apparently couldn't be arranged immediately.

Her trip over on the destroyer Athabaskan didn't cost anything either—except some embarrassing moments for the Royal Canadian Navy.

Chrysler Corp. Faced By Threat Of Strike Poll

DETROIT, Aug. 12 (AP)—Accusing Chrysler Corp. of hedging by not meeting benefits established at Ford and General Motors, the CIO United Auto Workers today ordered a strike poll of its 139,000 Chrysler employes.

UAW and American Motors, meanwhile, continued bargaining on a new contract in hopes of averting a possible midnight strike when the old pact expires.

A few hours before the UAW's 175-member Chrysler Council ordered the strike poll, the company announced it had made a wage offer which "meets the pattern of benefits granted by Chrysler Corp.'s major competitors."

The UAW said this was not so. The Chrysler Council voted unanimously to reject the offer and ordered the strike poll completed by Aug. 22 —ten days before the current contract expires Aug. 31.

Chrysler said it had offered a layoff pay plan guaranteeing 60 to 65 percent of normal take-home pay for laid off employes up to 26 weeks. Such a plan is in both the Ford and GM contracts.

The union said Chrysler, however, refused to include in the layoff pay plan some 8,000 white collar employes represented by the UAW.

In comparison with Ford and GM agreements, the union also said that Chrysler:

1. Offered substandard benefits in its health insurance program, with higher contributions required of workers.

2. Attempted to "dilute and weaken" the existing system of union representation by restricting the number of UAW stewards in auto body plants.

3. Proposed to weaken the seniority system, and refused to meet an established pattern of 10 per cent premium pay for third (midnight) shift workers.

Grouse Season Opens In England

LONDON, Aug. 12 (AP) — Guns boomed on the moors of Scotland and Northern England today as aristocratic gentlemen started the seasonal shooting of the grouse.

The day, known as the "Glorious Twelfth," also starts a social season.

Author Thomas Mann, 80, Dies In Swiss Hospital

ZURICH, Switzerland, Aug. 12 (AP)—Thomas Mann, one of the great modern authors, died in the Cantonal Hospital here tonight following a thrombosis. He was 80.

Mann was flown back to the hospital here from a vacation in Holland last month suffering from phlebitis, a vein inflammation.

He had appeared to be recovering, but his physician, Prof. Wilhelm Loeffler, said tonight his "general condition of weakness" caused his death after the heart attack struck him.

The German-born author, who won the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1929, celebrated his 80th birthday among his family and friends in Switzerland on June 6.

One of Germany's greatest modern authors, he was driven from Germany by Nazi persecution before World War II and became an American citizen.

He returned to Europe to live the rest of his days in 1953 with his wife Katja and his daughter Erika. Here they occupied a small house overlooking the Lake of Zurich.

He explained that he returned to Europe after 15 years in America because he was "European at heart."

Only last May he enjoyed an unusual triumph. The 700-year-old city of Luebeck, his birthplace, made him an honorary citizen and leading families of the city turned out for the ceremony.

It was his first novel, "Buddenbrooks," depicting the degeneration of a well-to-do family of the old German port that started controversies and offended some leading families. For years he was treated as a renegade by the citizens of Luebeck.

The author of "Magic Mountain," "Joseph and His Brothers" and other modern classics in recent months had been busy with completing an expansion of "The Memoirs of the Imposter Felix Krull," a small work which originally appeared in 1910.

The expanded story is to appear in the United States this fall from the press of Alfred A. Knopf as "Confessions of Felix Krull."

President Inks Wage Measure

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—President Eisenhower today signed a bill establishing a new $1 an hour minimum wage for 24 million workers covered by the federal Fair Labor Standards Act.

The new floor becomes effective next March 1.

The President approved the bill although he had asked Congress to increase the present 75 cent minimum only to 90 cents. Union labor leaders urged a $1.25 figure.

The new law is expected to mean wage increases for about 2,100,000 employes, mostly in the South. Some textile and sawmill workers are among those earning less than $1 an hour now.

Just about half of the nation's 48 million wage and salary earners are covered by the minimum wage provisions of the federal law.

Atom Energy Used To Light Entire Town

GENEVA, Aug. 12 (AP) — The United States disclosed today that atomic energy had been used for the first time in history as the sole source of light and power in an entire American town.

The experiment was carried out without fanfare July 17 at Arco, Idaho, near craters of the Moon National Monument, and lasted only about an hour.

But for that hour, the town depended solely on nuclear power supplied by an experimental power plant operated by the Argonne laboratory at the Atomic Energy Commission's testing station, 20 miles away.

Conventional power supplies were cut off when the electricity was fed into the regular lines from the atomic station.

"The lights went out when they made the switch," said Mayor Ralph N. Ellison, in Arco today. But after that "we couldn't tell difference" during the hour of the experiment.

"It was kind of a secret ahead of time," he said. "The town board knew about it in advance, of course. Then after it was over we were all talking about it. It was quite a topic of conversation for some time. We thought it was quite an honor."

The town, which had a population of only 300 when the atomic station started to build, now has between 1,200 and 1,500 residents, depending on the status of construction. It is the center of a livestock area and farmers in the region grow potatoes and small grains. Normally Arco gets its electronic power from the Utah Power & Light Co.

Several weeks ago, by-product power from an experimental submarine reactor at West Milton, N.Y., began to be fed into the general system of an electric utility, but it was used only as a supplement.

Russia has a nuclear power plant in the Moscow area, which has been in operation since mid-1954, but its power also is being fed into regular lines.

Scientists of 72 nations continued technical discussions at the international atoms-for-peace conference today on the merits of different type reactors, the use of radioactive isotopes in biology and medicine, and developments in chemistry and physics.

Builder Offers Rent Free For Blessed Events

ELLENDALE, N.D., Aug. 12 (AP)—House-hunters plagued by that sign "No Children Wanted," would love John Bell.

Bell currently is building six new houses and plans three more next year. He says that any time a couple renting from him has a blessed event he will give them a month's rent free.

Bell feels the first few years are the toughest for a young couple. Then, too, he's the father of 16 children.

Sgt. Gallagher To Take Stand

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (AP)—Sgt. James C. Gallagher will take the witness stand in his own defense at his Army court - martial on charges of murdering fellow American prisoners in Korea.

In making the announcement today, his lawyer said the 23-year-old Brooklyn soldier will be the final defense witness. He is expected to testify sometime next week.

Gallagher is accused of abusing three fellow-prisoners in a Red Chinese camp during the Korean War and throwing them into 40 below zero weather to die. He also is accused of collaborating with his captors.

Conviction carries a maximum penalty of life at hard labor.

Big Three Plans Oct. 27 Meeting In New York

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—The State Department said today the foreign ministers of Great Britain, France and the United States will probably get together in New York next month to lay the groundwork for their Oct. 27 Geneva conference with the Russians.

Lincoln White, State Department press officer, told a news conference it is conceivable that if the western Big Three ministers are all in New York for the United Nations General Assembly meeting which begins Sept. 20, they will have sessions of their own on the side.

The British and French ambassadors in Washington have conferred frequently with State Department officials on plans for the Big Four foreign ministers meeting in Geneva. The two ambassadors were on the State Department calling list again today.

The Geneva conference starting Oct. 27 will be a followup to the Summit Conference last month, when the heads of government directed their foreign ministers to try to deal with these problems:

1. Disarmament, including President Eisenhower's proposal for eventual inspection of one another's military installations.

2. Reunification of Germany and formation of new security arrangements for Europe.

3. Breaking down of barriers to trade, travel and communications between East and West.

Ike Takes Vacation

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Aug. 12 (AP)—President Eisenhower arrived late today for a weekend at his country home here in advance of departure Sunday for an extended work and play vacation in Colorado.

Collision Of Hurricanes Causes Uncertain Course

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 12 (AP) — A collision of the outer circulation areas of the two Atlantic hurricanes occurred today, and both storms are showing the peculiar behavior known among weather men as the Fujiwharra Effect.

Gordon Dunn, chief forecaster in the Weather Bureau's storm warning center here, said the newest storm, Diane, increased the velocity of winds whirling around its center to about 100 miles an hour, and is being rotated toward the north around the edge of Connie.

The older storm, Connie, now raking the North Carolina-Virginia coast, is moving erratically and is being held back by Diane's influence. Except for Diane, Connie would be romping off toward the Northeast.

"Connie is an adult storm whose circulation area is 1,500 miles long and 850 miles wide," Dunn explained. "Diane's circulation area reaches outward 500 to 500 miles. It is a juvenile among hurricanes.

"The centers of the two hurricanes are 1,100 miles apart. Thus with Connie's 850-mile wide circulation, and Diane's 400 miles or so, there is a collision of the outer forces of circulation and the Fujiwhara Effect has begun.

"In this effect, one storm tends to rotate around the other. That's why Diane is being pushed northward, and Connie is being held back and moves erratically."

Diane at 2 p.m. EST was about 1,100 miles east and slightly to the north of Miami, moving toward the northwest or north-northwest at about 11 miles an hour.

The Fujiwhara Effect makes it almost impossible for Diane to divert to a more westerly course, and the southern half of the eastern seaboard is considered in the clear as far as this storm is concerned.

If Connie can find a strong low pressure trough to lead her out of the area where the massive collision of forces has trapped her, she will begin to move, said Dunn.

This would leave a path for Diane to follow, whether that path, when it opens up, is toward land remains to be seen, said the forecaster. At the very earliest Diane is three days from the mainland.

She may take a swipe at Bermuda as she rolls along, but even that isn't definite at present.

BULLETIN

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 12 (AP)—Hurricane Connie, worn down to gale-size in her pounding trip up the Carolina coast, broke up into a series of small squalls over eastern Virginia tonight.

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 12 (AP) — Hurricane Connie whirled off the Virginia coast tonight after lashing the Carolina mainland and continued north where death and torrential rains already heralded her approach.

The tropical blow whose erratic movements have kept the east coastal United States on an on-and-off hurricane alert for the past three days figured in at least 19 deaths. Damage was mounting and North Carolina alone had a bill for more than two million dollars for her frenzied visit.

At least 10 persons drowned in upper Chesapeake Bay off of North Beach, Md., in the break up of an old three masted schooner converted to a pleasure cruise craft. Twelve were rescued but six others were missing.

In New York City, doused by more than a half foot of rain in the past 24 hours six deaths were attributed directly or indirectly to the storm.

Seaboard Is Warned

And Washington, D.C. reported the deaths of four persons in an automobile that plunged into swollen Rock Creek in the middle of the city.

Connie's eye passed over Virginia Beach, 20 miles east of Norfolk, at 9 p.m. Winds of 55 miles an hour lashed the resort which had been buttoned up against the blow for two days.

The entire Eastern Seaboard, warned to get its guard up again, watched anxiously as her course grew more erratic. Winds up to 50 miles an hour already had spread northward as far as Maryland, with prospects that they would increase.

The ominous black and red hurrican flags still flew from Cape Hatteras to the Delaware Breakwater and storm alerts were up north of Delaware to Provincetown, Mass.

Tropical storm Diane moved to 1,150 miles east of Miami, generally along Connie's path. Diane's center winds were up to 90 miles an hour, well over the 75 miles that draws the line between a gale and a hurricane.

Preliminary estimates of damages to North Carolina beaches in the Wilmington area total about two million dollars, State Civil Defense Director Edward Griffin said. The total will go much higher since these estimates did not apply to beaches and cities north of Wilmington such as Morehead City and Beaufort, N. C.

Beach Hard Hit

Hardest hit apparently was Carolina Beach, Griffin said, where damage was estimated at $1,300,000. Public property losses accounted for $300,000 of that figure.

Other total damage estimates for North Carolina beaches as compiled by Griffin included: Kure $200,000; Wilmington Beach $50,000; Long Beach $36,000; Southport $312,000; unincorporated beaches in Brunswick County (below Wilmington) $28,000.

Girl Stowaway To Return Home

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12 (AP)—The Girl who stowed away on the Canadian destroyer flies home to Hawaii in style tomorrow.

Sixteen-year-old Joycelyn Joan Pilapil is scheduled to leave by plane, accompanied by a federal matron.

She was placed on five-year probation and ordered returned to her parents in Hilo after appearing in Federal Court on a delinquency charge yesterday.

With that order, the government picks up the cost of jaunty Joycelin's ticket home. The U. S. marshal had hoped to cut costs by putting her aboard a Navy transport but that apparently couldn't be arranged immediately.

Her trip over on the destroyer Athabaskan didn't cost anything either—except some embarrassing moments for the Royal Canadian Navy.

Mahoney, Tawes, D'Alesandro Tieup Seen In Maryland

BALTIMORE, Aug. 12 (AP)—Political circles buzzed today with talk of a Mahoney-Tawes-D'Alesandro combination to give Democrats control of Maryland's State House and two seats in the U. S. Senate.

One of the principals, asking that his name be withheld, acknowledged he had taken part in discussions about such an alliance. But he said no commitments have been made.

A reliable source said attempts were being made to reach agreement on this lineup:

Comptroller J. Millard Tawes for governor in 1958.

Baltimore Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro for the Senate in 1958.

Mahoney, who has been nipped in the last two primaries for the nomination for governor and lost to Republican J. Glenn Beall in the 1952 Senate race, has his eye on the 1956 Senate race. Republican John Marshall Butler, whose term is running out, has said he will run again.

Miles May Enter Race

Clarence W. Miles, a Democrat who supported Eisenhower for President three years ago, has also expressed a desire to enter the Democratic primary.

Tawes' ambition to become governor was re-emphasized last month, when for the first time in seven years he publicly acknowledged he wants to represent his party in 1958. After losing in the 1946 primary, he stood aside in favor of William Preston Lane Jr.'s bid for re-election in 1950 and for H. C. Byrd's try last year.

Republican Gov. McKeldin, who whipped both of these candidates, is ineligible to succeed himself because of the no-third-term prohibition.

Although D'Alesandro's name was not mentioned in the '58 picture as early as Tawes', it has become more prevalent in political scuttlebutt in recent weeks. Mahoney, a county resident, actively campaigned for D'Alesandro last spring, after the bulk of the Democratic city organization had tried to block the mayor's path to renomination.

D'Alesandro, vacationing in Ocean City, was said to have recently entertained a group of State party leaders, including Lane, at his boardwalk cottage.

Rekindled Hope

The mayor's last victory, his 22nd straight since he first ran 28 years ago, has rekindled his hope of filling a Statewide elective office. His original venture, when he declared himself in on the 1954 gubernatorial primary, was balked by a string of family crises and ill health.

One high party source said the Mahoney-Tawes-D'Alesandro alignment seemed to hinge momentarily on when Mahoney will formally announce he plans to run next year.

Since his narrow loss to Lane in the 1950 primary, Mahoney has been regarded as a key to party harmony. He did not exert himself on behalf of Lane in the General election campaign that year and took a trip to Europe at the height of the Byrd campaign last year, even though he was a member of Byrd's campaign last year.

President Holds Up Action On Transit Strike

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP) — President Eisenhower today held up action on a bill to revoke the franchise and cancel the charter of the strike-bound Capital Transit Co. of Washington.

The president completed action on all but three bills, including the Capital Transit bill, which Congress left him after its adjournment last week.

The transit bill would give the district commissioners an opportunity to end the strike, now starting in its seventh week here. Almost one half million bus and street car riders have been without public transportation, except for taxis.

About 2,200 workers are on strike seeking a wage increase and fringe benefits.

The bill would cancel the company's franchise at the end of a year and allow the commissioners to contract for transit service meanwhile, even though it might involve increased wages for workers.

White House Press Secretary Hagerty said the president is holding up action on the three bills until he receives further reports from interested government departments and agencies. He has until next Tuesday to act on the Capital Transit bill.

State Jobless Payments Less

BALTIMORE, Aug. 12 (AP)—The Department of Employment Security reported today payments to jobless Marylanders during the first six months of this year was 28.7 per cent less than last year.

The agency said it also had found 34,306 non-farm jobs for unemployed workers—an increase of 6,208 over the first six months of 1954.

Unemployment compensation payments totaled $12,554,306. For January-June of last year they were $17,600,725.

In the first semi-annual report since he took office last April, Department Chairman Robert B. Kimble also said the $106,444,850.27 in the Unemployment trust fund earned $617,009.21—or an annual rate of 2.31 per cent—in interest during the first six months. The fund represents contributions of Maryland employers.

Two Die, 19 Hurt In Auto-Bus Crash

SALISBURY, Md., Aug. 12 (AP)—Two persons were killed and 19 hurt when a Greyhound bus skidded into another lane of traffic, piled up two cars and plowed into a building here early today.

Killed, police said, were two New Yorkers Arthur J. Baxter Jr., 25, and his passenger, Cora Russell, both Negroes.

Nineteen other persons were treated at Peninsula General Hospital for cuts and bruises.

Police said the northbound bus, driven by Neal E. Yehl, 24, of Upper Darby, Pa., swung across the center line at a curve during a pelting rain.

The bus first hit the Baxter car, piled it into another machine carrying Walter Tilghman, Salisbury night club operator and his wife, and then banged into a building.

Chesapeake Bay, Coast Hit By High Wind, Rain But Danger Seems Past

BALTIMORE, Aug. 12 (AP)—Maryland's coast and Chesapeake Bay areas were swept by rain, high winds, and rough water today even as Hurricane Connie lost its steam and the threat of real danger seemed to be petering out.

Ocean City's mayor and council rejected a Coast Guard suggestion that residents and vacationers be evacuated from the south end of the Atlantic Ocean resort.

Mayor Daniel Trkmper, who had complained earlier that the Weather Bureau got people unnecessarily upset with its hurricane alerts, said he and his colleagues did not think it necessary.

But vacationers voluntarily streamed across the bridge to the interior, anyway, and the throng of 40,000 on hand when Connie first started threatening on Tuesday was reduced to a few thousand today.

Town authorities had an evacuation going at Crisfield, 50 miles southwest of Ocean City and on the Chesapeake Bay side of the Eastern Shore peninsula.

Mayor Allen Hardesty suggested the move, pointing out that low lying areas of the town are no more than 18 inches above normal high tide.

Weather observers expected tides three to four feet or more above normal along Chesapeake Bay tonight and tomorrow and four to eight feet above normal in spots along the coast line.

Despite Connie's lessening force as she moved up through North Carolina, winds up to 60 miles an hour were forecast for Maryland's waterfront country Friday night.

Hurricane warnings of winds 75 miles an hour and more were still in effect along the coastline, including the Ocean City area.

Officials of two summer camps in the Kent Island area near the east end of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge evacuated about 85 youngsters to the Stevensville High School for the night.

The 50 boys and 15 adult leaders from Camp Wright at Matapeake and the 35 girls and five counselors from St. Martin's Camp at Love Point took their food along with them and laid in an emergency supply of water.

State Police, Red Cross disaster workers, and Civil Defense forces were deployed throughout the waterfront country, particularly on the Eastern Shore, where Hurricane Hazel wrought such havoc last October.

Second Army headquarters at Ft. Meade sent big batches of cots and blankets to Cambridge and Berlin in case of emergency.

It sent two amphibious vehicles to Newport News, Va., to help in the evacuation of low lying areas. Shipments of blankets went to Newport News, Norfolk, and Cape Charles.

Boston Receives Five Iron Lungs

BALTIMORE, Aug. 12 (AP)—Maryland shipped five iron lungs to the polio stricken Boston area today.

The Maryland office of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis got the emergency call today at 9 a. m. and immediately made five lungs at Children's Hospital School available. They leave Baltimore by train tonight.

Hospital authorities said the respirators could be sent without dangerously lowering the Baltimore area supply.

Highway Plan

seats are at stake in next year's election. And governors for the most part will head their state delegations to the 1956 presidential nominating conventions.

As a result:

1. Republican governors, except dissenting J. Bracken Lee of Utah, loudly proclaimed at every chance that President Eisenhower must and will go for a second term next year and that he'll be a shoo-in winner.

2. Stevenson eyed the possibility of taking the President on again, courted support of Democratic governors who went out to his suburban home, and made it all but official that once more he will try for the Democratic presidential nomination.

3. Harriman repeated at every opportunity that "I'm for Adlai," while keeping his own toe in the door to the party nomination.

4. Associates of Stevenson said today he and Harriman have worked out a mutual aid pact aimed at swinging the nomination to Stevenson or, if he fails to grab the prize, to Harriman. Behind this informal understanding was a powerful bloc of national convention votes—60 from Illinois, 94 from New York—a big head start toward the 600-odd needed to clinch the nomination.

5. Most Democratic Governors conceded that Eisenhower still is popular but insisted he isn't invincible. They, too, talked of victory in 1956.

6. Democratic Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas, who bolted to Eisenhower in 1952, raised the threat of another rebellion in Dixie if Stevenson is the Democratic nominee.

DAV Addressed By McKeldin

DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 12 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin of Maryland told Disabled American Veterans officials today that the greatest need of their group is "the breaking down of employer prejudices."

The governor made the statement in a message to the DAV officials as they prepared to open their annual convention Aug. 14-20 in Des Moines.

"What in your opinion," McKeldin was asked in a mail questionnaire, "does the disabled veteran need the most?"

"This growing, advancing nation needs the skills and productivity of all its citizens," he replied, "But there remain among us those employers who harbor the outmoded idea that they should employ only those who are entirely free of disabilities.

"Actually there is no such person. Every mortal has some disability, obvious or hidden.

"The outstanding need of disabled veterans, in my opinion, is the breaking down of employer prejudices against the employment of handicapped persons, and the arousing of the realization that communities owe it to themselves, to the nation and those who served us in war to make places of usefulness and prominence in the production and civil life of our villages, towns, cities and countrysides."

20 Missing, Two Die As Boat Wrecks

NORTH BEACH, Md., Aug. 12 (AP)—Two persons were reported dead and 20 missing tonight after an old schooner converted to a summer cruise ship was wrecked in Chesapeake Bay by high winds accompanying Hurricane Connie.

The Coast Guard at Washington said the ancient craft, the Levin J. Marvel, was reported to have 27 persons aboard when she came to grief 3,000 feet off this summer resort about 30 miles southeast of Washington.

The North Beach Fire Department reported it had rescued five people and recovered two bodies. Asked where the other 20 were, a fire official said "out in the bay somewhere."

Frantic calls were sent out for rescue craft large enough to brave the angry waters. The North Beach Fire Department said it did not have any craft capable of the task. Two Coast Guard cutters were speeding toward the scene.

The schooner customarily carries cruise passengers out of Annapolis, Md.

All volunteer fire departments in the area were asked to rush their respirator units to the scene.

North Beach is on the west shore of the bay.

The police station reported the boat was wrecked about 5:30 p.m.

At least five persons managed to get ashore.

The Marvel is an old three-masted ram put into summer cruise service out of Annapolis last year. She is 128 feet long.

The marvel was in trouble in the bay once last year while she had vacation cruisers aboard. She almost came to grief earlier on a trip from Salisbury, Md., to Baltimore for overhaul when her old planking leaked so badly she settled to the bottom of the Wicomico River.

Felon Elected To Commons

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Aug. 12 (AP)—Thomas J. Mitchell, a 23-year-old bricklayer serving a prison sentence, has been elected for the second time a member of the British Parliament.

The first time was in the general election May 26.

Mitchell, a member of the Irish Nationalist Sinn Fein party, was promptly disqualified then by a House of Commons rule barring convicted felons. Another election was ordered.

The Sinn Fein party again nominated Mitchell. Friends campaigned for him. The voters reelected him yesterday by a majority of 806, as compared with 260 last time.

Returns made public today showed he defeated C. C. Beattie, the Ulster Unionist—conservative—candidate he faced in May, by a vote of 30,392 to 29,586.

Recess Appointments Granted By Ike

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP) — President Eisenhower today gave recess appointments to the Federal bench to three men he had nominated earlier but whose nominations were not acted upon by the Senate before Congress quit.

All three are Republicans. They included:

C. William Kraft Jr., of Edgemont Township, Pa., to be Federal judge for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, a new position. He is a lawyer.

R. Dorsey Watkins, of Baltimore, to be judge for the District of Maryland.

Connie Relieves Water Shortage

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP) —The Interior Department reported today Hurricane Connie had relieved an acute water shortage and drought on the U.S.-owned Virgin Islands in the Caribbean.

St. Thomas, the principal island, got a six-inch rain, which contributed 8 to 10 million gallons of water to the storage system, the department said.

St. Thomas depends entirely on rain for its water supply. Special concrete structures on the island's hillsides are used as catch basins. Puerto Rico has been sending water to St. Thomas recently.

POLIO PIONEER HONORED—Sherman Mason, state commander of the American Legion, pins the Legion's distinguished service medal on Phillip Crichton, 11, Johnstown, Pa., who accepted the honor on behalf of Dr. Jonas E. Salk, developer of an anti-polio vaccine. Marianna Smith, 14, suburban Bellevue, Pittsburgh, holds a plaque awarded to Dr. Salk during the 37th annual state convention of the Legion at Pittsburgh.

South Leads Program For Vaccine Shots

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP) — A survey showed today the South is pioneering public programs to give second Salk polio vaccine shots to the nation's school children.

The survey, conducted by the Associated Press among state health offices in all 48 states and the District of Columbia, turned up statistics which must be treated as tentative.

The figures, not yet evaluated scientifically, indicated a 46 per cent drop in polio deaths below last year's level, generally regarded as a fairly average one.

They showed a total of 1,080,329 youngsters have been given second shots—75 per cent of them in California and seven southern or border states: Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, Oklahoma, South Carolina and West Virginia.

It was in these eight states that the survey showed the biggest decline in polio fatalities—a drop of 65 per cent. The total of deaths so far this year in the country is 191, compared to 355 up to this time last year.

The survey also showed:

1. Among 6½ million first and second graders in the country who got a first shot there were 247 cases of polio, of which nine proved fatal.

2. Eighteen of the 48 states are waiting for fall to resume the program. Few have made any plans for a third injection, which experts say would provide maximum immunity, and three—Texas, North Dakota and Colorado—said parents will have to get third shots privately.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, which developed the Salk vaccine is paying for first and second shots. It has announced no plans to finance third shots.

The second shot campaign ran into trouble after shortages developed amid uncertainties about the administration of the program.

Its troubles were compounded when an outbreak of polio occurred among some inoculated persons. Public confidence was shaken.

Surgeon General Leonard Scheele has said there is "strong presumptive evidence" faulty vaccine caused some of the cases. But a final report is not expected before next week.

Vaccination clinics have been set up in many states to give second shots. The first round was administered at schools which closed for the summer in the meantime.

Massacusetts has had the greatest number of polio deaths this year, with 24 compared to 15 at the same time last year. Texas is second with 22 compared to 36 last year. California third with 11 as against 54. No other state has reported more than nine fatalities so far this year.

Two Baltimore Dairies To Raise Price Of Milk

BALTIMORE, Aug. 12 (AP)—Two of Baltimore's largest dairies said today they will raise the price of milk one cent a quart on Monday.

The others are expected to follow their lead.

The home-delivered price for a quart of regular pasteurized milk will be 24 cents. Homogenized will be 25 cents and premium grades 26.

The new prices match the previous all-time highs set in March of 1953. A one-cent reduction went into effect in April, 1954, but this held for only two months and regular milk has been 23½ cents a quart since July of 1954.

Spokesmen for Western Maryland and Green Spring dairies said they also had increased their wholesale prices on milk delivered to stores. They do not set retail prices at stores.

The dairies now are paying $5.94 a hundred pounds, or about 12¾ cents a quart, to the producers for milk with a 4 per cent butterfat content.

Envoy And Son Die In Crash Of Sports Car

BANGKOK, Thailand, Aug. 12 (AP)—U.S. Ambassador John E. Peurifoy, 48, a dashing, diplomatic trouble-shooter who loved fast cars died today in the crumpled wreckage of his latest sports model.

Peurifoy's 9-year-old son Daniel perished with him when the Ford Thunderbird smashed head-on into a truck on a narrow bridge 125 miles south of Bangkok. His son Clinton, 14, was critically injured.

The accident occurred near the beach resort of Hua Hin on the Gulf of Siam, where Peurifoy started a 10-day vacation yesterday with his wife, Betty Jane, and the two boys.

Peurifoy took his two sons this morning to see Thai police, airborne troops and a parachute drop at Maluke Thaiwan, about four miles from Hua Hin.

U.S. Embassy officials said the ambassador outran a police escort on the way back, braked to pass a Thai highway department truck and apparently swerved directly into its path.

Clinton suffered fractures of both legs and one arm. He was removed to a hospital in Bangkok, where attendants said he was getting along "quite satisfactorily" tonight.

A memorial service for the ambassador and his younger son is to be held at Christ Church here Monday.

Norbert L. Anscheutz took over as American charge d'affaires.

Peurifoy came to Thailand last November with a record of achievement in such trouble spots as Greece and Guatemala.

The handsome, outspoken diplomat's State Department career spanned 17 years. He started government service in 1935 as a $90-a-month elevator operator in the U.S. Senate Building.

Mahoney, Tawes, D'Alesandro Tieup Seen In Maryland

BALTIMORE, Aug. 12 (AP)—Political circles buzzed today with talk of a Mahoney-Tawes-D'Alesandro combination to give Democrats control of Maryland's State House and two seats in the U. S. Senate.

One of the principals, asking that his name be withheld, acknowledged he had taken part in discussions about such an alliance. But he said no commitments have been made.

A reliable source said attempts were being made to reach agreement on this lineup:

George P. Mahoney for nomination to the U.S. Senate next year.

Comptroller J. Millard Tawes for governor in 1958.

Baltimore Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro for the Senate in 1958.

Mahoney, who has been nipped in the last two primaries for the nomination for governor and lost to Republican J. Glenn Beall in the 1952 Senate race, has his eye on the 1956 Senate race. Republican John Marshall Butler, whose term is running out, has said he will run again.

Miles May Enter Race

Clarence W. Miles, a Democrat who supported Eisenhower for President three years ago, has also expressed a desire to enter the Democratic primary.

Tawes' ambition to become governor was re-emphasized last month, when for the first time in seven years he publicly acknowledged he wants to represent his party in 1958. After losing in the 1946 primary, he stood aside in favor of William Preston Lane Jr.'s bid for re-election in 1950 and for H. C. Byrd's try last year.

Republican Gov. McKeldin, who whipped both of these candidates, is ineligible to succeed himself because of the no-third-term prohibition.

Although D'Alesandro's name was not mentioned in the '58 picture as early as Tawes', it has become more prevalent in political scuttlebutt in recent weeks. Mahoney, a county resident, actively campaigned for D'Alesandro last spring, after the bulk of the Democratic city organization had tried to block the mayor's path to renomination.

D'Alesandro, vacationing in Ocean City, was said to have recently entertained a group of State party leaders, including Lane, at his boardwalk cottage.

Rekindled Hope

The mayor's last victory, his 22nd straight since he first ran 28 years ago, has rekindled his hope of filling a Statewide elective office. His original venture, when he declared himself in on the 1954 gubernatorial primary, was balked by a string of family crises and ill health.

One high party source said the Mahoney-Tawes-D'Alesandro alignment seemed to hinge momentarily on when Mahoney will formally announce he plans to run next year.

Since his narrow loss to Lane in the 1950 primary, Mahoney has been regarded as a key to party harmony. He did not exert himself on behalf of Lane in the General election campaign that year and took a trip to Europe at the height of the Byrd campaign last year, even though he was a member of Byrd's campaign last year.

President Holds Up Action On Transit Strike

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—President Eisenhower today held up action on a bill to revoke the franchise and cancel the charter of the strike-bound Capital Transit Co. of Washington.

The president completed action on all but three bills, including the Capital Transit bill, which Congress left him after its adjournment last week.

The transit bill would give the district commissioners an opportunity to end the strike, now starting in its seventh week here. Almost one half million bus and street car riders have been without public transportation, except for taxis.

About 2,200 workers are on strike seeking a wage increase and fringe benefits.

The bill would cancel the company's franchise at the end of a year and allow the commissioners to contract for transit service meanwhile, even though it might involve increased wages for workers.

White House Press Secretary Hagerty said the president is holding up action on the three bills until he receives further reports from interested government departments and agencies. He has until next Tuesday to act on the Capital Transit bill.

State Jobless Payments Less

BALTIMORE, Aug. 12 (AP)—The Department of Employment Security reported today payments to jobless Marylanders during the first six months of this year was 28.7 per cent less than last year.

The agency said it also had found 34,306 non-farm jobs for unemployed workers—an increase of 6,208 over the first six months of 1954.

Unemployment compensation payments totaled $12,554,306. For January-June of last year they they were $17,600,725.

In the first semi-annual report since he took office last April, Department Chairman Robert B. Kimble also said the $106,444,850.27 in the Unemployment trust fund earned $617,009.21—or an annual rate of 2.31 per cent—in interest during the first six months. The fund represents contributions of Maryland employers.

Two Die, 19 Hurt In Auto-Bus Crash

SALISBURY, Md., Aug. 12 (AP)—Two persons were killed and 19 hurt when a Greyhound bus skidded into another lane of traffic, piled up two cars and plowed into a building here early today.

Killed, police said, were two New Yorkers Arthur J. Baxter Jr., 25, and his passenger, Cora Russell, both Negroes.

Nineteen other persons were treated at Peninsula General Hospital for cuts and bruises.

Police said the northbound bus, driven by Neal E. Yehl, 24, of Upper Darby, Pa., swung across the center line at a curve during a pelting rain.

The bus first hit the Baxter car, piled it into another machine carrying Walter Tilghman, Salisbury night club operator and his wife, and then banged into a building.

HURRICANE VICTIM—The Levis J. Marvel, an old three-masted sailing ram, shown here at her berth in Annapolis, was blown to pieces in the Chesapeake Bay yesterday by winds from Hurricane Connie. Hours later 22 of the 27 persons aboard her were either dead or missing. (AP Photofax)

Chesapeake Bay, Coast Hit By High Wind, Rain But Danger Seems Past

BALTIMORE, Aug. 12 (AP)—Maryland's coast and Chesapeake Bay areas were swept by rain, high winds, and rough water today even as Hurricane Connie lost its steam and the threat of real danger seemed to be petering out.

Ocean City's mayor and council rejected a Coast Guard suggestion that residents and vacationers be evacuated from the south end of the Atlantic Ocean resort.

Mayor Daniel Trkmper, who had complained earlier that the Weather Bureau got people unnecessarily upset with its hurricane alerts, said he and his colleagues did not think it necessary.

But vacationers voluntarily streamed across the bridge to the interior, anyway, and the throng of 40,000 on hand when Connie first started threatening on Tuesday was reduced to a few thousand today.

Town authorities had an evacuation going at Crisfield, 50 miles southwest of Ocean City and on the Chesapeake Bay side of the Eastern Shore peninsula.

Mayor Allen Hardesty suggested the move, pointing out that low lying areas of the town are no more than 18 inches above normal high tide.

Weather observers expected tides three to four feet or more above normal along Chesapeake Bay tonight and tomorrow and four to eight feet above normal in spots along the coast line.

Despite Connie's lessening force as she moved up through North Carolina, winds up to 60 miles an hour were forecast for Maryland's waterfront country Friday night.

Hurricane warnings of winds 75 miles an hour and more were still in effect along the coastline, including the Ocean City area.

Officials of two summer camps in the Kent Island area near the east end of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge evacuated about 85 youngsters to the Stevensville High School for the night.

The 50 boys and 15 adult leaders from Camp Wright at Matapeake and the 35 girls and five counselors from St. Martin's Camp at Love Point took their food along with them and laid in an emergency supply of water.

State Police, Red Cross disaster workers, and Civil Defense forces were deployed throughout the waterfront country, particularly on the Eastern Shore, where Hurricane Hazel wrought such havoc last October.

Second Army headquarters at Ft. Meade sent big batches of cots and blankets to Cambridge and Berlin in case of emergency.

It sent two amphibious vehicles to Newport News, Va., to help in the evacuation of low lying areas. Shipments of blankets went to Newport News, Norfolk, and Cape Charles.

Boston Receives Five Iron Lungs

BALTIMORE, Aug. 12 (AP)—Maryland shipped five iron lungs to the polio stricken Boston area today.

The Maryland office of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis got the emergency call today at 9 a. m. and immediately made five lungs at Children's Hospital School available. They leave Baltimore by train tonight.

Hospital authorities said the respirators could be sent without dangerously lowering the Baltimore area supply.

Highway Plan

seats are at stake in next year's election. And governors for the most part will head their state delegations to the 1956 presidential nominating conventions.

As a result:

1. Republican governors, except dissenting J. Bracken Lee of Utah, loudly proclaimed at every chance that President Eisenhower must and will go for a second term next year and that he'll be a shoo-in winner.

2. Stevenson eyed the possibility of taking the President on again, courted support of Democratic governors who went out to his suburban home, and made it all but official that once more he will try for the Democratic presidential nomination.

3. Harriman repeated at every opportunity that "I'm for Adlai," while keeping his own toe in the door to the party nomination.

4. Associates of Stevenson said today he and Harriman have worked out a mutual aid pact aimed at swinging the nomination to Stevenson or, if he fails to grab the prize, to Harriman. Behind this informal understanding was a powerful bloc of national convention votes—60 from Illinois, 94 from New York—a big head start toward the 600-odd needed to clinch the nomination.

5. Most Democratic Governors conceded that Eisenhower still is popular but insisted he isn't invincible. They, too, talked of victory in 1956.

6. Democratic Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas, who bolted to Eisenhower in 1952, raised the threat of another rebellion in Dixie if Stevenson is the Democratic nominee.

DAV Addressed By McKeldin

DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 12 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin of Maryland told Disabled American Veterans officials today that the greatest need of their group is "the breaking down of employer prejudices."

The governor made the statement in a message to the DAV officials as they prepared to open their annual convention Aug. 14-20 in Des Moines.

"What in your opinion," McKeldin was asked in a mail questionnaire, "does the disabled veteran need the most?"

"This growing, advancing nation needs the skills and productivity of all its citizens," he replied, "But there remain among us those employers who harbor the outmoded idea that they should employ only those who are entirely free of disabilities.

"Actually there is no such person. Every mortal has some disability, obvious or hidden.

"The outstanding need of disabled veterans, in my opinion, is the breaking down of employer prejudices against the employment of handicapped persons, and the arousing of the realization that communities owe it to themselves, to the nation and those who served us in war to make places of usefulness and prominence in the production and civil life of our villages, towns, cities and countrysides."

20 Missing, Two Die As Boat Wrecks

NORTH BEACH, Md., Aug. 12 (AP)—Two persons were reported dead and 20 missing tonight after an old schooner converted to a summer cruise ship was wrecked in Chesapeake Bay by high winds accompanying Hurricane Connie.

The Coast Guard at Washington said the ancient craft, the Levin J. Marvel, was reported to have 27 persons aboard when she came to grief 3,000 feet off this summer resort about 30 miles southeast of Washington.

The North Beach Fire Department reported it had rescued five people and recovered two bodies. Asked where the other 20 were, a fire official said "out in the bay somewhere."

Frantic calls were sent out for rescue craft large enough to brave the angry waters. The North Beach Fire Department said it did not have any craft capable of the task. Two Coast Guard cutters were speeding toward the scene.

The schooner customarily carries cruise passengers out of Annapolis, Md.

All volunteer fire departments in the area were asked to rush their respirator units to the scene.

North Beach is on the west shore of the bay.

The police station reported the boat was wrecked about 5:30 p.m.

At least five persons managed to get ashore.

The Marvel is an old three-masted ram put into summer cruise service out of Annapolis last year. She is 128 feet long.

The marvel was in trouble in the bay once last year while she had vacation cruisers aboard. She almost came to grief earlier on a trip from Salisbury, Md., to Baltimore for overhaul when her old planking leaked so badly she settled to the bottom of the Wicomico River.

Felon Elected To Commons

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Aug. 12 (AP)—Thomas J. Mitchell, a 23-year-old bricklayer serving a prison sentence, has been elected for the second time a member of the British Parliament.

The first time was in the general election May 26.

Mitchell, a member of the Irish Nationalist Sinn Fein party, was promptly disqualified then by a House of Commons rule barring convicted felons. Another election was ordered.

The Sinn Fein party again nominated Mitchell. Friends campaigned for him. The voters re-elected him yesterday by a majority of 806, as compared with 260 last time.

Returns made public today showed he defeated C. C. Beattie, the Ulster Unionist—conservative—candidate he faced in May, by a vote of 30,392 to 29,586.

Recess Appointments Granted By Ike

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—President Eisenhower today gave recess appointments to the Federal bench to three men he had nominated earlier but whose nominations were not acted upon by the Senate before Congress quit.

All three are Republicans. They included:

C. William Kraft Jr., of Edgemont Township, Pa., to be Federal judge for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, a new position. He is a lawyer.

R. Dorsey Watkins, of Baltimore, to be judge for the District of Maryland.

Connie Relieves Water Shortage

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—The Interior Department reported today Hurricane Connie had relieved an acute water shortage and drought on the U.S.-owned Virgin Islands in the Caribbean.

St. Thomas, the principal island, got a six-inch rain, which contributed 8 to 10 million gallons of water to the storage system, the department said.

St. Thomas depends entirely on rain for its water supply. Special concrete structures on the island's hillsides are used as catch basins. Puerto Rico has been sending water to St. Thomas recently.

POLIO PIONEER HONORED—Sherman Mason, state commander of the American Legion, pins the Legion's distinguished service medal on Phillip Crichton, 11, Johnstown, Pa., who accepted the honor on behalf of Dr. Jonas E. Salk, developer of an anti-polio vaccine. Marianna Smith, 14, suburban Bellevue, Pittsburgh, holds a plaque awarded to Dr. Salk during the 37th annual state convention of the Legion at Pittsburgh.

South Leads Program For Vaccine Shots

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—A survey showed today the South is pioneering public programs to give second Salk polio vaccine shots to the nation's school children.

The survey, conducted by the Associated Press among state health offices in all 48 states and the District of Columbia, turned up statistics which must be treated as tentative.

The figures, not yet evaluated scientifically, indicated a 46 per cent drop in polio deaths below last year's level, generally regarded as a fairly average one.

They showed a total of 1,080,329 youngsters have been given second shots—75 per cent of them in California and seven southern or border states: Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, Oklahoma, South Carolina and West Virginia.

It was in these eight states that the survey showed the biggest decline in polio fatalities—a drop of 65 per cent. The total of deaths so far this year in the country is 191, compared to 355 up to this time last year.

Miss JoAnn Nancy Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Taylor, 413 Winmer Street, will become the bride of James Donald Eckard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack E. Eckard, 209 Spring Street, today.

The ceremony will be solemnized at 2:30 in Kingsley Methodist Church, with Rev. Jacob H. Snyder performing the double ring ceremony. Bouquets of white gladioli and white roses are being used with candelabra of lighted tapers, against a background of palms.

Mrs. William F. Taylor is to be her sister-in-law's matron of honor, while Miss Christina Windish and Miss Patricia Close are the bridesmaids, and Debbie Sue Taylor, flower girl. Milford Dean is serving as Mr. Eckard's best man and the ushers are William Eckard and William F. Taylor, brothers of the bridegroom and bride.

A program of nuptial music will be played by Mrs. Ruth Perdew as well as the processional from the opera Lohengrin and Mendelssohn's recessional. She also is accompanying James Hager, singing, "Through the Years," "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Being given in marriage by her father, the bride is wearing a white embroidered nylon tulle gown with a seed pearl motif around the picture neckline. It is fashioned with a fitted bodice with long pointed sleeves and full floor length skirt. Her fingertip length veil of French illusion is held by a tiara of seed pearls and lace. Completing her costume, the bride is carrying a bouquet of white roses and stephanitis surrounding a white orchid. She also will wear a single strand, seed pearl choker, a gift of the bridegroom and small pearl earrings will be her only ornament.

Her attendants' gowns are floor length nylon lace over taffeta, made with lace bolero and tiered skirts with alternating lace and net ruffles down the back. With them they are wearing head bands matching their gowns and will carry old fashioned waterfall bouquets. The matron of honor's gown is pink and the bridemaids' turquoise. The little flower girl will wear a pink nylon frock and have pink flowers in her hair matching her basket flowers.

Mrs. Taylor has chosen an aqua blue lace, street length dress for her daughter's wedding. It is made on straight lines and with it she will wear a white hat and white accessories and a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Eckard has selected a blue lace dress with white accessories and will have a corsage of talisman roses.

The bride is a graduate of Fort Hill High School, class of 1951, where she was active in athletics and dramatics. She was a member of the Thespians, Choral Speaking Choir, and National Honor Society. Graduating in June from Western Maryland College as a biology and physical education major, she was a member of Sigma Sigma Tau, and the Women's Athletic Association. During the summer Miss Taylor was employed by the City Recreation department, as director of Penn Avenue playground. She has been appointed a member of the faculty of Allegany High School.

Mr. Eckard graduated from Fort Hill High School in 1949, where he was an athlete, and member of the National Honor Society. He served two years in the Army as a medic at Fort Hood, Texas, receiving his discharge February 1954. Prior to his recent resignation, he was employed in the traffic department of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company. Now he is attending Potomac State College.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor are entertaining with a wedding reception for their daughter and her bridal party at the Ali Ghan Country Club, following the ceremony. Secrets Of Charm · by John Robert Powers

What do you do when you are suddenly thrust into a room full of strangers? Do you feel shy, self-conscious, uncomfortable?

The secret of a charming entrance is to pause in the doorway at a large gathering and look around to see who's there. To help you conquer your shyness, nervousness, or surprise—remember to locate your host or hostess with your eyes. Then, with an unhurried step, go directly to her or him. Either one, in turn, will introduce you to other guests, and you will no longer feel strange or uneasy.

To be clever and enchanting and conquer your shyness at the next gathering try the pause-on-entering-a-room routine. People will be curious about you . . . and that, my dears, is often the secret of an enchanting woman. You might design your entrance after that one made by the famous Lawrence of Arabia. His artist friend, Eric Kennington described it so: "He made a perfect entry into a room. No suddenness. A silently opening door . . . a shape gliding in . . . and a simultaneous closing of the door. Eyes sweeping circular-wise like a searchlight, halting a moment on the most interesting things. Then a direct look, straight at one, eyes passing through, impersonal, but mouth in a social grin, slightly humorous."

Try that described warm smile tinged with humor . . . rehearse it in front of the mirror. It's bound to fascinate.

The little flower girl will wear a pink nylon frock and have pink flowers in her hair matching her basket flowers.

Mrs. Taylor has chosen an aqua blue lace, street length dress for her daughter's wedding. It is made on straight lines and with it she will wear a white hat and white accessories and a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Eckard has selected a blue lace dress with white accessories and will have a corsage of talisman roses.

Graduating in June from Western Maryland College as a biology and physical education major, she was a member of Sigma Sigma Tau, and the Women's Athletic Association. During the summer Miss Taylor was employed by the City Recreation department, as director of Penn Avenue playground. She has been appointed a member of the faculty of Allegany High School.

Secrets Of Charm · by John Robert Powers

What do you do when you are suddenly thrust into a room full of strangers? Do you feel shy, self-conscious, uncomfortable?

The secret of a charming entrance is to pause in the doorway at a large gathering and look around to see who's there. To help you conquer your shyness, nervousness, or surprise—remember to locate your host or hostess with your eyes. Then, with an unhurried step, go directly to her or him. Either one, in turn, will introduce you to other guests, and you will no longer feel strange or uneasy.

To be clever and enchanting and conquer your shyness at the next gathering try the pause-on-entering-a-room routine. People will be curious about you . . . and that, my dears, is often the secret of an enchanting woman. You might design your entrance after that one made by the famous Lawrence of Arabia. His artist friend, Eric Kennington described it so: "He made a perfect entry into a room. No suddenness. A silently opening door . . . a shape gliding in . . . and a simultaneous closing of the door. Eyes sweeping circular-wise like a searchlight, halting a moment on the most interesting things. Then a direct look, straight at one, eyes passing through, impersonal, but mouth in a social grin, slightly humorous."

Try that described warm smile tinged with humor . . . rehearse it in front of the mirror. It's bound to fascinate.

Judge Reverses Zoning Board In Appeal Case

The Board of Zoning Appeals of the City of Cumberland was reversed in an opinion handed down yesterday by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris.

Judge Harris heard the appeal of K. Albert Wolfe, 713 Louisiana Avenue, from a decision of the Zoning Appeals Board in denying Wolfe a permit to erect an apartment over a garage on the rear of his property.

The court ruled that the Board of Zoning Appeals acted in a "capricious, unreasonable and arbitrary manner," and its decision in denying Wolfe the permit is reversed.

The opinion by Judge Harris recounts how Wolfe filed an application April 28, 1953, with the city engineer to build a two-car garage 20 by 24 feet on the rear of his lot. The application was approved. The garage is now in the course of being constructed.

On April 21, 1955, Wolfe filed an application with the city engineer to build an apartment over the garage. This was approved the same day. Thereafter, and for no reason of record, this permit was revoked and the matter set down for a hearing before the Board of Zoning Appeals. No one appeared to protest the granting of the application.

However, at a meeting on June 23, 1955, a member of the Board of Zoning Appeals made the following motion: "Because this is a violation of the zoning ordinance by asking for two residences on one lot and there being no exception under which we can grant the permit, I make a motion that the application is denied." The motion carried.

At the hearing before Judge Harris on Tuesday, two witnesses testified that members of the board said it was not necessary for the protestants to appear at the appeals hearing before the board. "The board apparently had decided to refuse the permit without a hearing," Judge Harris opined.

A next door neighbor testified she was in favor of granting the permit to Mr. Wolfe. Wolfe testified that he planned to build the garage-apartment of brick, the same as his residence, and "would not build anything that would depreciate the value of his property or the property of the neighborhood."

Judge Harris said there are "no cogent reasons advanced in this case for not granting the permit for the garage apartment."

Wolfe was represented by John M. Robb, local attorney, while the board's case was presented by City Attorney Thomas B. Finan.

Council Faces

the new fiscal year $1.48 cents, the highest on record and one of the highest in the state, the auditor pointed out.

Surplus Lower

The surplus carried over from the fiscal year 1953-54 was $144,000. The surplus available from 1954-55 to apply on the new budget is about $101,000.

There was much discussion about future budgets, as well as the one now under consideration. It was pointed out by Solicitor Finan that the $70,000 state gasoline tax, earmarked by seven years as the city's share of the overhead bridge, will remove this income from the city budget for the seven-year period.

While it doesn't reflect this year on the city's finances, it will eventually, he noted, and this will doubtless call for a higher tax rate during that period.

The new bond issue of one million dollars for flood control, will increase the cost of debt service, members agreed, again boosting the local tax rate upward.

However, there was considerable discussion of the possibility of flood liens on property in the flood district, so that the properties which benefit directly from the flood control project, will pay for the protection.

Finan questioned the advisability of such a move, and said a taxpayers suit probably would result.

Gibson and Buchholtz agreed that the additional cost of flood control, now imminent, should not be placed upon all the property owners in the city, but only those who directly benefit by this protection.

Finan argued that the cost of the three bridges in the project, which comes out of this million dollars is of benefit to all the people, because the bridges will be wider, will make traffic less congested and should not be charged to those in the flood zone.

The question was not settled and council members indicated it would come up again.

Midland Woman, Two Children Hurt In Mishap

A Midland mother and her two children were injured Thursday night, one youngster seriously, when the car in which they were passengers plunged 40-foot off the Western Maryland bridge at Deal, Pa. and landed on its top.

Admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital, were Mrs. Mary Blubaugh, 26, and her children, Russell, 2, and Frances, 8.

The boy suffered a bad cut on his head and left leg injury. He was reported in "fair" condition last night.

The girl, who complained of a pain in her head, and the mother, of shoulder and left leg pains, were reported in good condition.

The railroad reported that the three and the driver, Albert Klink, of Frostburg, miraculously escaped being killed as the hard-top convertible landed on its top. The roof was jammed down to the seats.

Klink, a member of the Frostburg Police Department, suffered only minor injuries and was not admitted to the hospital.

Robert F. Shockey, who was working for the Western Maryland at the Deal tower, said he heard brakes screaming at 9:50 p. m., and looked down the track to see the car crash through the guard rail of the bridge.

Seeing the car lights rolling and the auto finally land beside the railroad track, Shockey said he called for help from other workmen at the tower.

By the time they arrived, Klink had extricated the small boy who seemed to be the most seriously hurt, Shockey reported

The railroaders worked for some time until finally they removed the woman and girl from the wreckage, Shockey added.

They were taken to the Sacred Heart Hospital by William Rembold, RD 3, Meyersdale.

Damages Heavy In Truck Mishap

Damage estimated at $10,000 resulted from a tractor-trailer accident Thursday on U. S. Route 220 at Osterburg, Pa., about eight miles north of Bedford.

Pennsylvania State Police said the trailer rig, operated by John H Mogielski, 26, of Pittsburgh, was descending a grade when the driver came upon a detour sign which had just been erected. Mogielski swerved the rig off the highway so suddenly it overturned.

Eckhart Group Again Seeks Road Repairs

For the fifth time in recent weeks a group of residents of Beecher Avenue in Eckhart appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday seeking road repairs.

The group submitted a petition asking that the avenue be included in the county system. It was signed by all except a Cumberland resident who owns property on the avenue, who could not be contacted in time.

The Eckhart group also showed the commissioners a copy of a petition they submitted in May of 1947 in which they asked that the roadway be brought into the county system. It was brought out that the commissioners later decided this could not be done as the avenue is a dead-end.

Commisioner William H. Lemmert said the 1947 document proved his assertion that he had inspected the avenue with one other commissioner at that time.

Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson replied, "If you mean me, you are not telling the truth."

Lemmert and Wilkinson were elected on a "ticket" in 1946 but in recent years have been opponents.

Stock Market Advances For Third Day In Row

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (AP) — The Stock Market advanced today for the third time in a row—all of them managed quite quietly.

Judge Reverses Zoning Board In Appeal Case

The Board of Zoning Appeals of the City of Cumberland was reversed in an opinion handed down yesterday by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris.

Judge Harris heard the appeal of K. Albert Wolfe, 713 Louisiana Avenue, from a decision of the Zoning Appeals Board in denying Wolfe a permit to erect an apartment over a garage on the rear of his property.

The court ruled that the Board of Zoning Appeals acted in a "capricious, unreasonable and arbitrary manner," and its decision in denying Wolfe the permit is reversed.

The opinion by Judge Harris recounts how Wolfe filed an application April 28, 1953, with the city engineer to build a two-car garage 20 by 24 feet on the rear of his lot. The application was approved. The garage is now in the course of being constructed.

On April 21, 1955, Wolfe filed an application with the city engineer to build an apartment over the garage. This was approved the same day. Thereafter, and for no reason of record, this permit was revoked and the matter set down for a hearing before the Board of Zoning Appeals. No one appeared to protest the granting of the application.

However, at a meeting on June 23, 1955, a member of the Board of Zoning Appeals made the following motion: "Because this is a violation of the zoning ordinance by asking for two residences on one lot and there being no exception under which we can grant the permit, I make a motion that the application is denied." The motion carried.

At the hearing before Judge Harris on Tuesday, two witnesses testified that members of the board said it was not necessary for the protestants to appear at the appeals hearing before the board. "The board apparently had decided to refuse the permit without a hearing," Judge Harris opined.

A next door neighbor testified she was in favor of granting the permit to Mr. Wolfe. Wolfe testified that he planned to build the garage-apartment of brick, the same as his residence, and "would not build anything that would depreciate the value of his property or the property of the neighborhood."

Judge Harris said there are "no cogent reasons advanced in this case for not granting the permit for the garage apartment."

Wolfe was represented by John M. Robb, local attorney, while the board's case was presented by City Attorney Thomas B. Finan.

the new fiscal year $1.48 cents, the highest on record and one of the highest in the state, the auditor pointed out.

Surplus Lower

The surplus carried over from the fiscal year 1953-54 was $144,000. The surplus available from 1954-55 to apply on the new budget is about $101,000.

There was much discussion about future budgets, as well as the one now under consideration. It was pointed out by Solicitor Finan that the $70,000 state gasoline tax, earmarked by seven years as the city's share of the overhead bridge, will remove this income from the city budget for the seven-year period.

While it doesn't reflect this year on the city's finances, it will eventually, he noted, and this will doubtless call for a higher tax rate during that period.

The new bond issue of one million dollars for flood control, will increase the cost of debt service, members agreed, again boosting the local tax rate upward.

However, there was considerable discussion of the possibility of flood liens on property in the flood district, so that the properties which benefit directly from the flood control project, will pay for the protection.

Finan questioned the advisability of such a move, and said a taxpayers suit probably would result.

Gibson and Buchholtz agreed that the additional cost of flood control, now imminent, should not be placed upon all the property owners in the city, but only those who directly benefit by this protection.

Finan argued that the cost of the three bridges in the project, which comes out of this million dollars is of benefit to all the people, because the bridges will be wider, will make traffic less congested and should not be charged to those in the flood zone.

The question was not settled and council members indicated it would come up again.

Midland Woman, Two Children Hurt In Mishap

A Midland mother and her two children were injured Thursday night, one youngster seriously, when the car in which they were passengers plunged 40-foot off the Western Maryland bridge at Deal, Pa. and landed on its top.

Admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital, were Mrs. Mary Blubaugh, 26, and her children, Russell, 2, and Frances, 8.

The boy suffered a bad cut on his head and left leg injury. He was reported in "fair" condition last night.

The girl, who complained of a pain in her head, and the mother, of shoulder and left leg pains, were reported in good condition.

The railroad reported that the three and the driver, Albert Klink, of Frostburg, miraculously escaped being killed as the hard-top convertible landed on its top. The roof was jammed down to the seats.

Klink, a member of the Frostburg Police Department, suffered only minor injuries and was not admitted to the hospital.

Robert F. Shockey, who was working for the Western Maryland at the Deal tower, said he heard brakes screaming at 9:50 p. m., and looked down the track to see the car crash through the guard rail of the bridge.

Seeing the car lights rolling and the auto finally land beside the railroad track, Shockey said he called for help from other workmen at the tower.

By the time they arrived, Klink had extricated the small boy who seemed to be the most seriously hurt, Shockey reported.

The railroaders worked for some time until finally they removed the woman and girl from the wreckage, Shockey added.

They were taken to the Sacred Heart Hospital by William Rembold, RD 3, Meyersdale.

Damages Heavy In Truck Mishap

Damage estimated at $10,000 resulted from a tractor-trailer accident Thursday on U. S. Route 220 at Osterburg, Pa., about eight miles north of Bedford.

Pennsylvania State Police said the trailer rig, operated by John H Mogielski, 26, of Pittsburgh, was descending a grade when the driver came upon a detour sign which had just been erected. Mogielski swerved the rig off the highway so suddenly it overturned.

Eckhart Group Again Seeks Road Repairs

For the fifth time in recent weeks a group of residents of Beecher Avenue in Eckhart appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday seeking road repairs.

The group submitted a petition asking that the avenue be included in the county system. It was signed by all except a Cumberland resident who owns property on the avenue, who could not be contacted in time.

The Eckhart group also showed the commissioners a copy of a petition they submitted in May of 1947 in which they asked that the roadway be brought into the county system. It was brought out that the commissioners later decided this could not be done as the avenue is a dead-end.

Commisioner William H. Lemmert said the 1947 document proved his assertion that he had inspected the avenue with one other commissioner at that time.

Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson replied, "If you mean me, you are not telling the truth."

Lemmert and Wilkinson were elected on a "ticket" in 1946 but in recent years have been opponents.

A Lawbreaker? He Stopped Speeders

A legal hot potato has been tossed into the lap of a Memphis, Tenn., magistrate who, pleading that he is "just a poor little city judge," promptly buck-passed it to a more learned appellate court.

The question could be framed in this fashion. There is a time honored juvenile right to stand on the corner and warn the gang of a policeman's approach with the hue and cry, "Jiggers, the cops!" But it becomes downright unlawful when the lookout is the accomplice of bank robbers. Where then is the thin line dividing the harmless prank from the law violation?

A Memphis motorist was trapped one day by a radar speed check. The next day the cops with boundless curiosity wondered why no vehicles were speeding through their lair. Investigation revealed the outraged motorist standing up the road waving a cardboard sign that cried, "RADAR!" Passing cars ground down to the legal limit. The sign painter was arrested again, this time for interfering with police duties.

It might be argued that any man has an inalienable right to stand by the side of a public road and warn speeders that they are about to be snared. After all, truck drivers for years have flashed headlight signals to each other warning of highway police lurking behind the next billboard.

But the prosecution contended that a grown man yelling "Jiggers!" was interfering with the dutiful pursuit of lawbreakers. The judge found him guilty but begged that a higher court settle the fine point of the law.

Perhaps the police can perceive the moral that proper education and warning may bring to bear an even heavier foot on the brake pedal than the sudden spring of the radar trap. The point of the whole thing, after all, is to stop speeding.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Syracuse V. Crosby

The American Legion of Syracuse has been very active in its opposition to Communists. It is in Syracuse that a passive resistance to subversives on radio and television developed. It was not a boycott or a blacklist or anything of the sort; it was the pursuit of the fundamental principle of freedom of choice.

On radio and television, the reason a manufacturer puts on a show is not because he wants to entertain the audience, but because he wants to sell goods. The assumption is that if the audience likes John Clown, she will buy the soap powder that pays John a salary. So conversely, if the audience dislikes or abhors or despises John Clown, she will refuse to buy that particular soap powder. It is the converse that is the manufacturer's problem.

When the second choice is exercised, the manufacturers, advertising agencies, radio networks and others, whose only concern is the money they make from John Clown's popularity, get terribly excited, run about seeking those who can square them, shriek "Civil Liberties!" as though it were an open sesame.

But none of their efforts succeed, because if the Missis says that she will use Schmek instead of Schtunk, that is her choice.

John Crosby, the learned writer on such trivia as radio and television, replied to a complaining letter from John K. Dungey of the Syracuse American Legion, with this opening paragraph:

"My column was not full of errors and it was not designed to do anything except correct a grave injustice. I know far more about actors than you do or anyone else in Syracuse Post 41 of the American Legion."

The question at issue is not actors, of whom there are so many that any description could find a few examples of anything; the issue is subversives. Mr. Crosby's employer, Ogden R. Reid, president of the New York Herald Tribune, is an expert on the subject of subversives. Crosby might ask his boss whether these sentences in his letter to the Syracuse American Legion make sense:

". . . The Communist conspiracy is a matter for the FBI, not for you. But what makes it worse is that you don't know what you are talking about. You don't know how the theater operates, or how theatrical people operate, or how they think. If there is a Communist conspiracy in the entertainment world, it's buried so far underground that you and your supermarket boss in Syracuse would be the last to find out about it."

The New York Herald Tribune employs Herbert Philbrick to delve into Communist problems with unerring expertness because communism is everybody's business, not only the FBI's. And Philbrick could tell the apparently unaware John Crosby that if there were not volunteers the FBI could not function. And if Crosby wants to call the volunteers, informants or informers, there is no objection because that is precisely what they are, whichever word is used, and they have performed a valuable service, as J. Edgar Hoover has often testified.

But a deeper principle is involved in this argument. The United States is a free society of citizens who are voluntarily responsible for their government. The FBI or any other agency of government is not separate and distinct from the citizens. It is responsible and subordinate to them. Under our laws, a citizen can make an arrest, if he knows the law, and is willing to assume all the responsibilities and obligations involved in such an act. We are not a policed people; we are all defenders of our society and civilization.

Those, therefore, who are trying to burden the FBI with the sole responsibility for ferretting out subversives do more than the law requires. The FBI is an investigative agency; it does not issue warrants; it does not indict; it does not obtain indictments; it does not go to the grand jury; it does not prosecute a case in court. It gathers, in the fields of subversion and espionage, data, which it may transmit to the Department of Justice for evaluation and action. Any citizen has the same right and function but is not likely to do it as competently.

Crosby may know a lot about actors which is his privilege and may be his pleasure; but his violent letter to the Legionnaires of Syracuse does not establish that he knows too much about how our society functions.

U. S. Meteorologist Says Weather Not Getting Hotter, Despite Talk

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The next time dad boasts about the good old days when the summers were mild and pleasant, you can tell him to stow it in his beard. It just ain't so, says Norman R. Hagen of the U. S. Weather Bureau, a theory-busting meteorologist with 27 years' experience. And to prove it he points to the summer of 1930, when Washington endured 11 days of temperatures over 100 degrees.

Hagen is the meteorologist who handles the Weather Bureau's deluge of letters offering solutions to the weather problem. Trouble is the solutions and theories don't stack up.

Many weathermen do believe that the North Atlantic area is getting warmer these days, but they hasten to point out that the change is too slight for any mere mortal to notice it—something on the average of two degrees in the last 100 years.

Even on this point, however, all the experts don't agree. Some admit the weather's been warmer in recent years, yet believe it's just an upward cycle and may cool off again .Others deny that there's been any basic change at all, instead insist that average temperatures have risen in many cities because more man-made heat is being produced by factories, furnaces, the exhaust from autos, and retained in urban areas.

"Don't sit around and wait for palm trees to sprout in Montreal," Hagen advises.

For the slight rise in recorded average temperatures, there are almost as many possible explanations as there are weathermen. Polar ice cap melting? Yes, says Hagen, though they may start growing again. But even if all the ice on earth disappeared, it would only hike average temperatures a few degrees. Down South it might actually benefit the country by bringing more rain.

Is the sun's radiation getting stronger? Yes, says Hagen, but though there seem to be more and more H-bomb-like explosions on the sun, any rise in solar radiation is still too meager to show up accurately on the instruments now used by man.

Why, then, does dad insist that the summers were cooler and the winter snows deeper when he was a lad? Hagen offers two answers.

First, to a kid 10 years old a six-inch snowfall looked like Siberia. So when dad grew up and 30 years later started to reminisce, that six-inch snowfall reappeared in his memory as at least six feet.

Second, the weather changes widely from day to day, week to week, and year to year. If it's average, dad doesn't notice. But let one really scorching summer heat wave hit town and dad talks about it incessantly, though the average temperature for the entire summer may later turn out to be subnormal.

Nevertheless, the average person mopping his brow on an August dog-day is hard to convince. This is also true during the hurricane season, now under way, and Hagen gets a lot of letters telling him how to stop the destructive whirlwinds that spawn east of Cuba, then sweep up the Atlantic Coast.

Faulty Grain Bins

Sen. Stuart Symington, Missouri Democrat, who went out of his way to seem nice to Secretary of the Air Force Talbott when Talbott was under fire for helping his firm get business from government contractors, took a contrary tack the other day. He got tough for a change.

But he got tough with a man who was trying to expose inefficiency in one of the worst recent farm scandals, the slap-dash manner in which grain bins and corn cribs have been constructed to hold government surplus grain.

When C. E. Huff of Kansas City testified regarding faulty grain bins manufactured by the Kansas City firm of Black, Sivalls, and Bryson, Symington acted as if he were the attorney for Black, Sivalls, and Bryson.

That company had manufactured the corrugated iron sections and knock-down parts for about 7,000 government grain bins, of which many have been declared faulty by government inspectors.

But when C. E. Huff took the witness stand to testify regarding these flaws, the senator who had been so mild toward Talbott suddenly became a prosecuting attorney. He immediately jumped on Huff, repeated the same question, twice elicited the same answer, twice appearing not to hear.

"You have heard of a disgruntled former employe, haven't you?" Symington asked in conclusion.

The senator from Missouri may have proved that Huff lacked loyalty to his former employer, but he did not clear Black, Sivalls, and Bryson of producing grain bins contrary to government specifications, or show why the Agriculture Department didn't act sooner; nor did he show who was at fault in losing the taxpayer several millions from rat-infested, weevily grain.

Washington Pipeline

American cameramen at Geneva were so amazed at the treatment they got from Russian secret police that they're still talking about it. In fact, the latest edition of White House News Photos tells how the cameramen were staggered by the cooperation of the Soviet secret police, who even held up one TV cameraman so he could take a picture of his bosses over the heads of the crowd . . . People talk about the job of Democratic Senate leaders being a jinx. They point out Senators Scott Lucas of Illinois and Ernest McFarland of Arizona were defeated, that Lyndon Johnson of Texas suffered a heart attack, while his successor, Earle Clements saw rival "Happy" Chandler win the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in Kentucky. But they forget that Alben Barkley jumped from Senate leader to be vice president of the United States, and that Clements is a long way from being defeated. In fact, Clements might do a Barkley . . . The Lehman bill calling for New York State development of the remaining power at Niagara Falls is stalemated in the Senate Public Works Committee, with Democrats for it and Republicans mainly against it . . . Strom Thurmond, South Carolina Dixicrat, may hold the decisive vote.

Talbott "Crucified" For Single Mistake In Judgment

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—They blew taps on Harold Talbott's service as Secretary of the Air Force—and the Secretary of Defense pinned a medal on him for his outstanding performance as a public official. But that didn't erase the stigma he will carry for life—the stigma of a cruel system of politics which crucifies a man forever because he makes a single mistake in judgment.

Harold Talbott was a remarkably good Secretary of the Air Force but a poor politician. He worked day and night in the interests of the enlisted men and did many things for which he will long be remembered by the airmen of America. But among other things he was careless in the use of office stationery — as happens every day in every business when employees write personal communications about personal affairs on office letterheads. It doesn't seem to matter that Talbott wrote to persons who knew him in business many years before or that he told a Senate committee when it originally recommended confirmation to the Senate that he would retain a business connection with a firm of efficiency experts. It doesn't seem to matter that the engineering firm of which he remained a partner saved companies a lot of money by its methods and indirectly saved the government money on its "cost plus" contracts —something that caused Talbott to be overenthusiastic perhaps about mentioning it to his old friends. If he had held stock in a drug company that had a cure for polio or something, he mustn't recommend it to his friends or let the Army and Navy know about it. That would be a "conflict of interest" modern style.

Mistake In Judgment

Yet, when all is said and done, it was a mistake in judgment and could be exaggerated on the stump. So, as President Eisenhower phrased it, Talbott was right "under the circumstances" in submitting his resignation. What this means is that, even though there was no illegality or fraud, the continuance of Talbott in office would have been a basis for political attack on the administration and hence there was only one thing for him to do—to resign.

It is interesting to note the condemnation which swept over Talbott like a tidal wave. It came from the "right" and the "left." The "right" saw danger to the administration politically. The "left" saw a chance to bite back because of the improprieties charged to Truman officials in the last administration.

It's too bad in a way that the error in judgment made by Talbott wasn't in some way related to Communism or being a member of a Communist-front organization. Then he might have won widespread sympathy from the "left wing," and it would have been averred that just for one single mistake in judgment he shouldn't be pilloried by his fellow men for the rest of his life. Some foundation might even have paid for a film to exploit his biography among the colleges.

In the "Baltimore Sun" the other day, C. P. Ives, who writes a signed article regularly on the editorial page, says that, while it would be unfair in a sense to make any comparisons between Oppenheimer and Talbott because they are different personalities, "the same two basic issues appeared" in their cases. He writes:

"There was the issue of a conflict of interest. There was the issue of personal behavior."

One Man Lied

Mr. Ives then quotes the official record of testimony to show that Oppenheimer lied to the military intelligence officer who was investigating in wartime some details of a Russian effort at espionage which had come to his attention at the atomic laboratory in Berkeley. Oppenheimer admitted he had lied and failed for several months to reveal to his government that he lied. The Personnel Security Board of the AEC found Oppenheimer "loyal" but a security risk.

"But a closer look at the two cases," writes Mr. Ives, "shows up a disquieting detail. The decision against Dr. Oppenheimer detonated a perfect frenzy of disapprobation from a very wide segment of the liberal community. But many of the same people who wanted Dr. Oppenheimer retained demanded that Mr. Talbott be dismissed.

"In other words, a wide selection of influential personages were willing to brush aside in Dr. Oppenheimer's behalf the very serious ethical question arising out of an attempted Russian espionage coup against our atomic establishment. But these same people wanted Mr. Talbott punished for using public letterheads and public office in behalf of his private business.

"What we confront here is one more dismaying evidence of the ethical relativism, the double standard, the doctrinaire caste partisanship, the lack of fairness and even candor which infect much leftish discussion. Says Diana Trilling in a 'partisan review' comment on the Oppenheimer case:

" 'I could wish to point out the large part which evasion of truth has played in the discrediting of liberalism as a vital, cultural and political force in the modern world —and specifically the evasion of truth about Communism. . .

"Perhaps in these days of declining hysteria on the right and left, a comparison of the Talbott and Oppenheimer cases—not of Talbott and Oppenheimer — will clarify the prospect."

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

How about the little lady who dropped four yards of U. S. green material at the race track?

Did she shake it off like it was cold tapioca on a bib? She did not. She turned around with the quickness of a revolving dance floor and hollered copper.

It was on a neat Saturday like this that she dropped the loot to the four-legged investment trust.

She hired a lawyer and sued to to get her chef's salad back. At track odds.

But the judge told her she was wearing the feathers at a turkey shoot. She had staked her claim in a legalized caper. And had no more business in court than a salmon in a park fountain.

Everything was fair and square. Even though the track was circular.

Every time a tout tells you "It's like money in the bank," you've got to take money out of the bank.

That's what the litle lady did. She didn't know that the only sure hoss-race was in the last act of Ben Hur.

The judge's verdict of finders keepers, losers weepers is certified by usage and endorsed by time. She'll wear out her teeth whistling for her money.

We do not say women shouldn't gamble. What we say is they shouldn't lose.

Stop, Look And Listen!

By Brother Barnabas

It's all over now but the shouting. We have reached the end of a long road stretching from 1755 to the year of our Lord 1955. We have traveled over mountains and plains and have left many footprints on the sands of time.

Whether we are on a thoroughfare or a dead end street remains to be seen. It's a good time to "Stop, look and listen."

The whole community has backed up our leaders in the Bicentennial enterprise, and they have made a whale of a success of it. It seems we are off for a good start toward our Tercentenary, a hundred years hence.

The city sparkles with a new look as buildings are washed or freshly painted, drinking fountains for birds and beasts are installed, streets are manicured and colorful welcome signs festoon halls and shops all over town.

The air of hospitality is so thick one can almost cut it with a knife, like a birthday cake. Many of our visitors, no doubt, will be so impressed with the handout that they will decide to make this their permanent residence and not go back home at all, except to pack up.

Period! Curtain! Prologue: The hullabaloo, the wooden nickels, the barberless Bohemians on their pinnacles of virtue, the beauty queens on their way back to domesticity or Atlantic City all exit at the wings.

Scenery Shifted

The stage remains, but the scenery is shifted, as successive sets of Thespians enter, play their parts and pass on.

The original players in these parts were Indians. They had a life tenure on the good earth and what they could make of it, just as the rest of us do.

They had the sun, the moon, the stars, auguries, communications with God, the elemental urges and passions of men.

The irrevocable law of the survival of the fittest pushed them farther westward on the march of civilization.

Now all that remains to remind us of their existence is a bit of history, Indian relics, and the names of some of their chieftains and legendary characters, such as Pocahontas, Tecumseh, Algonquin, for instance.

This is George Washington territory. It was he, more than anyone else, who laid the foundations of the city.

Matthias Gottschalk, a Moravian missionary; Francis Asbury, the first Methodist Bishop in America; Father Gallitzen, a Roman Catholic prelate of distinction, and other spiritual giants made their contribution to the Christian faith which undergirds the community.

Most Picturesque

The life of Cumberland in two-hundred years is most picturesque. Such historiographers as the Hunts, the Gunters and the Stegmaiers could regale you with hours of intimate recital for which there is no space here.

George Washington was great by any dimension. He was 21 when Cumberland first saw the light of day, and he died at 65. He was always on the go. Whenever there was a hard job to be done the slackers would say "Let George do it." The phrase is still a classic.

When the new Nation needed a president, they turned to George, and he didn't leave them guessing about a second term.

When there was a rich widow to to be married with two children, George did it. Surveying virgin timberlands, scouting, crossing swollen rivers were pie to him. He loved to hear bullets whistle.

He was called the "Cincinnatus of the Americans." If he were living today he would properly join the Cincinnati Reds for he was quite a pitcher,having thrown a silver dollar across the Rappahanock and a "sovereign' 'across the Atlantic, thus breaking the all-time record for distance throwing which stands at 434 ft. 3½ in.

George had many ancestors, but never became one personally, although he was said to be the "Father of his country," and he adopted the two children of Martha Curtis by her former husband.

There are some folks who will never be ancestors, but from the looks of things around here we are due to have a lot of new members joining the fraternity before long.

It's a matter of pride to have a distinguished ancestry, but it's safer to be a distinguished ancestor yourself.

Where you are going to is more important than where you came from. If you want to have a good pedigree, grow one of your own.

If you go back far enough you may find that some of your ancestors lived in trees, some were knighted, some were hung.

My own family trees sprouted in America with my paternal great-grandfather at Kingwood, West Va, five years before Col. James Imes built Fort Cumberland in 1754, and has proliferated widely. The crop has yielded, doctors, lawyers, preachers, farmers mechanics, editors, and even columnists, going down, down, down.

Stop, Look and Listen, says,

BROTHER BARNABAS

Specific Remedies Are Now Available For Cystitis

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Deilen

Pus in the urine means infection somewhere along the urinary tract. It may be in the kidneys, the bladder, or along the ureters, the tubes leading from the kidneys to the bladder. Now and then the kidnew itself is infected. This condition is relatively common in children, particularly girls, and careful treatment is required so that permanent damage will not result.

Bladder infection (cystitis) may follow an acute illness such as measles, influenze, scarlet fever, sore throat, or a cold. In these individuals, convalescence from the infectious disease seems unduly prolonged. They appear pale and listless and fail to gain weight. Only after pus is detected in the urine is the cause clear.

Severe cystitis may start with a pronounced chill, followed by a rise in temperature. Fever often continues for a day or two and when a urinalysis is done, pus and bacteria are discovered.

In cystitis following infection elsewhere in the body—such as the throat, sinuses, ears, teeth, or bones—bacteria usually gain entrance to the bladder via the blood stream. They also may enter from outside the body, traveling up the urinary passageway (urethra) to invade the bladder. Colon bacilli from the intestinal tract also may reach the bladder.

The organisms find conditions suitable for growth and propagate in great numbers. Inflammation results, with some absorption of toxic products of these germs. In addition to chills and fever, the victim loses appetite and suffers from nausea, vomiting, and abdominal distention. If infection persists, frequent burning urination is complained of as well as acute pain when the bladder contracts.

Before the advent of the antibiotics and sulfonamides, little could be done except to encourage drinking large amounts of fluid and using a nonspecific urinary antiseptic. Burning was controlled by means of baking soda which made the urine alkaline.

As a result of this hit or miss treatment, most bouts of cystitis continued for two or three weeks before running their course. Nowadays, more specific remedies are available. First the causative bacteria is determined; then a drug is prescribed that will be lethal to the organism in question. Should this therapy fail, a complication may be present.

In men, for example, bacteria may spread to the prostate. In women, the urethra may have been damaged during childbirth and until this is corrected cystitis returns again and again. Now and then the renal passageway is blocked by stricture or kidney stone and permanent relief cannot be expected until the obstruction is corrected.

NO TREATMENT

Mrs. L. writes: What treatment is given a pregnant woman who develops German measles?

REPLY

None. This disease lasts three days and once it develops, there is no need for treatment. On the other hand, those who are exposed should take gamma globulin in hopes that this vaccine will offer some protection.

SORE RIBS

C. W. writes: Why do my ribs ache?

REPLY

Injury and excessive coughing are the most common causes. There are dozens of other origins and a physical examination would be necessary to determine what is responsible for the soreness.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Deilen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

There was an old preacher once, according to Henry W. Grady's famous story, "who told some boys of the Bible lesson he planned to read the next morning. The boys, finding the place, glued together the connecting pages. The next morning he read on the bottom of one page, 'When Noah was 120 years old he took until himself a wife who was'—then turning the page — '140 cubits long, 40 cubits wide, built of gopher wood, and covered with pitch inside and out.'

"Naturally puzzled, he read it again, verified it, then assured his audience, 'My friends, this is the first time I ever met this in the Bible, but I accept it as an evidence of the assertion that we are fearfully and wonderfully made.

" 'I wish I could get you to have as much faith as I do this evening'!"

Peter Lind Hayes has completed the lyrics for one of the most touching ballads of the year. Its title: "When I Was a Blackjack Dealer and You Were 21."

You're Telling Me!

By William Ritt

To keep their fleece free of dirt and shrinkage, New Mexico's state extension service is putting jackets on sheep. The man at the next desk wonders what the jackets are made of—wool?

Counting sheep to combat insomnia could become quite a chore if we not only have to tabulate them as they jump the fence but also make note of their jacket serial numbers.

A Lawbreaker? He Stopped Speeders

A legal hot potato has been tossed into the lap of a Memphis, Tenn., magistrate who, pleading that he is "just a poor little city judge," promptly buck-passed it to a more learned appellate court.

The question could be framed in this fashion. There is a time honored juvenile right to stand on the corner and warn the gang of a policeman's approach with the hue and cry, "Jiggers, the cops!" But it becomes downright unlawful when the lookout is the accomplice of bank robbers. Where then is the thin line dividing the harmless prank from the law violation?

A Memphis motorist was trapped one day by a radar speed check. The next day the cops with boundless curiosity wondered why no vehicles were speeding through their lair. Investigation revealed the outraged motorist standing up the road waving a cardboard sign that cried, "RADAR!" Passing cars ground down to the legal limit. The sign painter was arrested again, this time for interfering with police duties.

It might be argued that any man has an inalienable right to stand by the side of a public road and warn speeders that they are about to be snared. After all, truck drivers for years have flashed headlight signals to each other warning of highway police lurking behind the next billboard.

But the prosecution contended that a grown man yelling "Jiggers!" was interfering with the dutiful pursuit of lawbreakers. The judge found him guilty but begged that a higher court settle the fine point of the law.

Perhaps the police can perceive the moral that proper education and warning may bring to bear an even heavier foot on the brake pedal than the sudden spring of the radar trap. The point of the whole thing, after all, is to stop speeding.

These Days

Syracuse V. Crosby

The American Legion of Syracuse has been very active in its opposition to Communists. It is in Syracuse that a passive resistance to subversives on radio and television developed. It was not a boycott or a blacklist or anything of the sort; it was the pursuit of the fundamental principle of freedom of choice.

On radio and television, the reason a manufacturer puts on a show is not because he wants to entertain the audience, but because he wants to sell goods. The assumption is that if the audience likes John Clown, she will buy the soap powder that pays John a salary. So conversely, if the audience dislikes or abhors or despises John Clown, she will refuse to buy that particular soap powder. It is the converse that is the manufacturer's problem.

When the second choice is exercised, the manufacturers, advertising agencies, radio networks and others, whose only concern is the money they make from John Clown's popularity, get terribly excited, run about seeking those who can square them, shriek "Civil Liberties!" as though it were an open sesame.

But none of their efforts succeed, because if the Missis says that she will use Schmek instead of Schtunk, that is her choice.

John Crosby, the learned writer on such trivia as radio and television, replied to a complaining letter from John K. Dungey of the Syracuse American Legion, with this opening paragraph:

"My column was not full of errors and it was not designed to do anything except correct a grave injustice. I know far more about actors than you do or anyone else in Syracuse Post 41 of the American Legion."

The question at issue is not actors, of whom there are so many that any description could find a few examples of anything; the issue is subversives. Mr. Crosby's employer, Ogden R. Reid, president of the New York Herald Tribune, is an expert on the subject of subversives. Crosby might ask his boss whether these sentences in his letter to the Syracuse American Legion make sense:

". . . The Communist conspiracy is a matter for the FBI, not for you. But what makes it worse is that you don't know what you are talking about. You don't know how the theater operates, or how theatrical people operate, or how they think. If there is a Communist conspiracy in the entertainment world, it's buried so far underground that you and your supermarket boss in Syracuse would be the last to find out about it."

The New York Herald Tribune employs Herbert Philbrick to delve into Communist problems with unerring expertness because communism is everybody's business, not only the FBI's. And Philbrick could tell the apparently unaware John Crosby that if there were not volunteers the FBI could not function. And if Crosby wants to call the volunteers, informants or informers, there is no objection because that is precisely what they are, whichever word is used, and they have performed a valuable service, as J. Edgar Hoover has often testified.

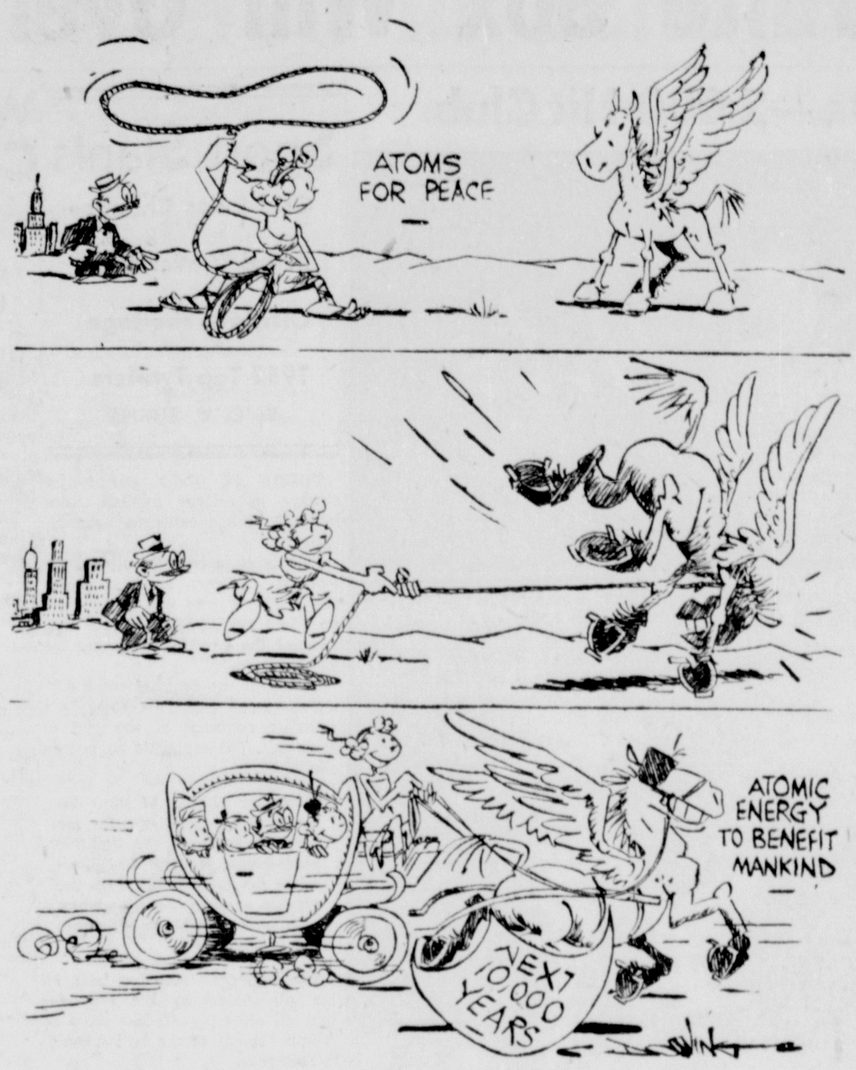

But a deeper principle is involved in this argument. The United States is a free society of citizens who are voluntarily responsible for their government. The FBI or any other agency of government is not separate and distinct from the citizens. It is responsible and subordinate to them. Under our laws, a citizen can make an arrest, if he knows the law, and is willing to assume all the responsibilities and obligations involved in such an act. We are not a policed people; we are all defenders of our society and civilization.

Those, therefore, who are trying to burden the FBI with the sole responsibility for ferretting out subversives do more than the law requires. The FBI is an investigative agency; it does not issue warrants; it does not indict; it does not obtain indictments; it does not go to the grand jury; it does not prosecute a case in court. It gathers, in the fields of subversion and espionage, data, which it may transmit to the Department of Justice for evaluation and action. Any citizen has the same right and function but is not likely to do it as competently.

Crosby may know a lot about actors which is his privilege and may be his pleasure; but his violent letter to the Legionnaires of Syracuse does not establish that he knows too much about how our society functions.

U. S. Meteorologist Says Weather Not Getting Hotter, Despite Talk

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The next time dad boasts about the good old days when the summers were mild and pleasant, you can tell him to stow it in his beard. It just ain't so, says Norman R. Hagen of the U. S. Weather Bureau, a theory-busting meteorologist with 27 years' experience. And to prove it he points to the summer of 1930, when Washington endured 11 days of temperatures over 100 degrees.

Hagen is the meteorologist who handles the Weather Bureau's deluge of letters offering solutions to the weather problem. Trouble is the solutions and theories don't stack up.

Many weathermen do believe that the North Atlantic area is getting warmer these days, but they hasten to point out that the change is too slight for any mere mortal to notice it—something on the average of two degrees in the last 100 years.

Even on this point, however, all the experts don't agree. Some admit the weather's been warmer in recent years, yet believe it's just an upward cycle and may cool off again .Others deny that there's been any basic change at all, instead insist that average temperatures have risen in many cities because more man-made heat is being produced by factories, furnaces, the exhaust from autos, and retained in urban areas.

"Don't sit around and wait for palm trees to sprout in Montreal," Hagen advises.

For the slight rise in recorded average temperatures, there are almost as many possible explanations as there are weathermen. Polar ice cap melting? Yes, says Hagen, though they may start growing again. But even if all the ice on earth disappeared, it would only hike average temperatures a few degrees. Down South it might actually benefit the country by bringing more rain.

Is the sun's radiation getting stronger? Yes, says Hagen, but though there seem to be more and more H-bomb-like explosions on the sun, any rise in solar radiation is still too meager to show up accurately on the instruments now used by man.

Why, then, does dad insist that the summers were cooler and the winter snows deeper when he was a lad? Hagen offers two answers.

First, to a kid 10 years old a six-inch snowfall looked like Siberia. So when dad grew up and 30 years later started to reminisce, that six-inch snowfall reappeared in his memory as at least six feet.

Second, the weather changes widely from day to day, week to week, and year to year. If it's average, dad doesn't notice. But let one really scorching summer heat wave hit town and dad talks about it incessantly, though the average temperature for the entire summer may later turn out to be subnormal.

Nevertheless, the average person mopping his brow on an August dog-day is hard to convince. This is also true during the hurricane season, now under way, and Hagen gets a lot of letters telling him how to stop the destructive whirlwinds that spawn east of Cuba, then sweep up the Atlantic Coast.

Faulty Grain Bins

Sen. Stuart Symington, Missouri Democrat, who went out of his way to seem nice to Secretary of the Air Force Talbott when Talbott was under fire for helping his firm get business from government contractors, took a contrary tack the other day. He got tough for a change.

But he got tough with a man who was trying to expose inefficiency in one of the worst recent farm scandals, the slap-dash manner in which grain bins and corn cribs have been constructed to hold government surplus grain.

When C. E. Huff of Kansas City testified regarding faulty grain bins manufactured by the Kansas City firm of Black, Sivalls, and Bryson, Symington acted as if he were the attorney for Black, Sivalls, and Bryson.

That company had manufactured the corrugated iron sections and knock-down parts for about 7,000 government grain bins, of which many have been declared faulty by government inspectors.

But when C. E. Huff took the witness stand to testify regarding these flaws, the senator who had been so mild toward Talbott suddenly became a prosecuting attorney. He immediately jumped on Huff, repeated the same question, twice elicited the same answer, twice appearing not to hear.

"You have heard of a disgruntled former employe, haven't you?" Symington asked in conclusion.

The senator from Missouri may have proved that Huff lacked loyalty to his former employer, but he did not clear Black, Sivalls, and Bryson of producing grain bins contrary to government specifications, or show why the Agriculture Department didn't act sooner; nor did he show who was at fault in losing the taxpayer several millions from rat-infested, weevily grain.

Washington Pipeline

American cameramen at Geneva were so amazed at the treatment they got from Russian secret police that they're still talking about it. In fact, the latest edition of White House News Photos tells how the cameramen were staggered by the cooperation of the Soviet secret police, who even held up one TV cameraman so he could take a picture of his bosses over the heads of the crowd . . . People talk about the job of Democratic Senate leaders being a jinx. They point out Senators Scott Lucas of Illinois and Ernest McFarland of Arizona were defeated, that Lyndon Johnson of Texas suffered a heart attack, while his successor, Earle Clements saw rival "Happy" Chandler win the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in Kentucky. But they forget that Alben Barkley jumped from Senate leader to be vice president of the United States, and that Clements is a long way from being defeated. In fact, Clements might do a Barkley . . . The Lehman bill calling for New York State development of the remaining power at Niagara Falls is stalemated in the Senate Public Works Committee, with Democrats for it and Republicans mainly against it . . . Strom Thurmond, South Carolina Dixicrat, may hold the decisive vote.

Talbott "Crucified" For Single Mistake In Judgment

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—They blew taps on Harold Talbott's service as Secretary of the Air Force—and the Secretary of Defense pinned a medal on him for his outstanding performance as a public official. But that didn't erase the stigma he will carry for life—the stigma of a cruel system of politics which crucifies a man forever because he makes a single mistake in judgment.

Harold Talbott was a remarkably good Secretary of the Air Force but a poor politician. He worked day and night in the interests of the enlisted men and did many things for which he will long be remembered by the airmen of America. But among other things he was careless in the use of office stationery — as happens every day in every business when employees write personal communications about personal affairs on office letterheads. It doesn't seem to matter that Talbott wrote to persons who knew him in business many years before or that he told a Senate committee when it originally recommended confirmation to the Senate that he would retain a business connection with a firm of efficiency experts. It doesn't seem to matter that the engineering firm of which he remained a partner saved companies a lot of money by its methods and indirectly saved the government money on its "cost plus" contracts —something that caused Talbott to be overenthusiastic perhaps about mentioning it to his old friends. If he had held stock in a drug company that had a cure for polio or something, he mustn't recommend it to his friends or let the Army and Navy know about it. That would be a "conflict of interest" modern style.

Mistake In Judgment

Yet, when all is said and done, it was a mistake in judgment and could be exaggerated on the stump. So, as President Eisenhower phrased it, Talbott was right "under the circumstances" in submitting his resignation. What this means is that, even though there was no illegality or fraud, the continuance of Talbott in office would have been a basis for political attack on the administration and hence there was only one thing for him to do—to resign.

It is interesting to note the condemnation which swept over Talbott like a tidal wave. It came from the "right" and the "left." The "right" saw danger to the administration politically. The "left" saw a chance to bite back because of the improprieties charged to Truman officials in the last administration.

It's too bad in a way that the error in judgment made by Talbott wasn't in some way related to Communism or being a member of a Communist-front organization. Then he might have won widespread sympathy from the "left wing," and it would have been averred that just for one single mistake in judgment he shouldn't be pilloried by his fellow men for the rest of his life. Some foundation might even have paid for a film to exploit his biography among the colleges.

In the "Baltimore Sun" the other day, C. P. Ives, who writes a signed article regularly on the editorial page, says that, while it would be unfair in a sense to make any comparisons between Oppenheimer and Talbott because they are different personalities, "the same two basic issues appeared" in their cases. He writes:

"There was the issue of a conflict of interest. There was the issue of personal behavior."

One Man Lied

Mr. Ives then quotes the official record of testimony to show that Oppenheimer lied to the military intelligence officer who was investigating in wartime some details of a Russian effort at espionage which had come to his attention at the atomic laboratory in Berkeley. Oppenheimer admitted he had lied and failed for several months to reveal to his government that he lied. The Personnel Security Board of the AEC found Oppenheimer "loyal" but a security risk.

"But a closer look at the two cases," writes Mr. Ives, "shows up a disquieting detail. The decision against Dr. Oppenheimer detonated a perfect frenzy of disapprobation from a very wide segment of the liberal community. But many of the same people who wanted Dr. Oppenheimer retained demanded that Mr. Talbott be dismissed.

"In other words, a wide selection of influential personages were willing to brush aside in Dr. Oppenheimer's behalf the very serious ethical question arising out of an attempted Russian espionage coup against our atomic establishment. But these same people wanted Mr. Talbott punished for using public letterheads and public office in behalf of his private business.

"What we confront here is one more dismaying evidence of the ethical relativism, the double standard, the doctrinaire caste partisanship, the lack of fairness and even candor which infect much leftish discussion. Says Diana Trilling in a 'partisan review' comment on the Oppenheimer case:

" 'I could wish to point out the large part which evasion of truth has played in the discrediting of liberalism as a vital, cultural and political force in the modern world —and specifically the evasion of truth about Communism. . .

"Perhaps in these days of declining hysteria on the right and left, a comparison of the Talbott and Oppenheimer cases—not of Talbott and Oppenheimer — will clarify the prospect."

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

How about the little lady who dropped four yards of U. S. green material at the race track?

Did she shake it off like it was cold tapioca on a bib? She did not. She turned around with the quickness of a revolving dance floor and hollered copper.

It was on a neat Saturday like this that she dropped the loot to the four-legged investment trust.

She hired a lawyer and sued to to get her chef's salad back. At track odds.

But the judge told her she was wearing the feathers at a turkey shoot. She had staked her claim in a legalized caper. And had no more business in court than a salmon in a park fountain.

Everything was fair and square. Even though the track was circular.

Every time a tout tells you "It's like money in the bank," you've got to take money out of the bank.

That's what the litle lady did. She didn't know that the only sure hoss-race was in the last act of Ben Hur.

The judge's verdict of finders keepers, losers weepers is certified by usage and endorsed by time. She'll wear out her teeth whistling for her money.

We do not say women shouldn't gamble. What we say is they shouldn't lose.

Stop, Look And Listen!

By Brother Barnabas

It's all over now but the shouting. We have reached the end of a long road stretching from 1755 to the year of our Lord 1955. We have traveled over mountains and plains and have left many footprints on the sands of time.

Whether we are on a thoroughfare or a dead end street remains to be seen. It's a good time to "Stop, look and listen."

The whole community has backed up our leaders in the Bicentennial enterprise, and they have made a whale of a success of it. It seems we are off for a good start toward our Tercentenary, a hundred years hence.

The city sparkles with a new look as buildings are washed or freshly painted, drinking fountains for birds and beasts are installed, streets are manicured and colorful welcome signs festoon halls and shops all over town.

The air of hospitality is so thick one can almost cut it with a knife, like a birthday cake. Many of our visitors, no doubt, will be so impressed with the handout that they will decide to make this their permanent residence and not go back home at all, except to pack up.

Period! Curtain! Prologue: The hullabaloo, the wooden nickels, the barberless Bohemians on their pinnacles of virtue, the beauty queens on their way back to domesticity or Atlantic City all exit at the wings.

Scenery Shifted

The stage remains, but the scenery is shifted, as successive sets of Thespians enter, play their parts and pass on.

The original players in these parts were Indians. They had a life tenure on the good earth and what they could make of it, just as the rest of us do.

They had the sun, the moon, the stars, auguries, communications with God, the elemental urges and passions of men.

The irrevocable law of the survival of the fittest pushed them farther westward on the march of civilization.

Now all that remains to remind us of their existence is a bit of history, Indian relics, and the names of some of their chieftains and legendary characters, such as Pocahontas, Tecumseh, Algonquin, for instance.

This is George Washington territory. It was he, more than anyone else, who laid the foundations of the city.

Matthias Gottschalk, a Moravian missionary; Francis Asbury, the first Methodist Bishop in America; Father Gallitzen, a Roman Catholic prelate of distinction, and other spiritual giants made their contribution to the Christian faith which undergirds the community.

Most Picturesque

The life of Cumberland in two-hundred years is most picturesque. Such historiographers as the Hunts, the Gunters and the Stegmaiers could regale you with hours of intimate recital for which there is no space here.

George Washington was great by any dimension. He was 21 when Cumberland first saw the light of day, and he died at 65. He was always on the go. Whenever there was a hard job to be done the slackers would say "Let George do it." The phrase is still a classic.

When the new Nation needed a president, they turned to George, and he didn't leave them guessing about a second term.

When there was a rich widow to to be married with two children, George did it. Surveying virgin timberlands, scouting, crossing swollen rivers were pie to him. He loved to hear bullets whistle.

He was called the "Cincinnatus of the Americans." If he were living today he would properly join the Cincinnati Reds for he was quite a pitcher,having thrown a silver dollar across the Rappahanock and a "sovereign' 'across the Atlantic, thus breaking the all-time record for distance throwing which stands at 434 ft. 3½ in.

George had many ancestors, but never became one personally, although he was said to be the "Father of his country," and he adopted the two children of Martha Curtis by her former husband.

There are some folks who will never be ancestors, but from the looks of things around here we are due to have a lot of new members joining the fraternity before long.

It's a matter of pride to have a distinguished ancestry, but it's safer to be a distinguished ancestor yourself.

Where you are going to is more important than where you came from. If you want to have a good pedigree, grow one of your own.

If you go back far enough you may find that some of your ancestors lived in trees, some were knighted, some were hung.

My own family trees sprouted in America with my paternal great-grandfather at Kingwood, West Va, five years before Col. James Imes built Fort Cumberland in 1754, and has proliferated widely. The crop has yielded, doctors, lawyers, preachers, farmers mechanics, editors, and even columnists, going down, down, down.

Specific Remedies Are Now Available For Cystitis

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Deilen

Pus in the urine means infection somewhere along the urinary tract. It may be in the kidneys, the bladder, or along the ureters, the tubes leading from the kidneys to the bladder. Now and then the kidnew itself is infected. This condition is relatively common in children, particularly girls, and careful treatment is required so that permanent damage will not result.

Bladder infection (cystitis) may follow an acute illness such as measles, influenze, scarlet fever, sore throat, or a cold. In these individuals, convalescence from the infectious disease seems unduly prolonged. They appear pale and listless and fail to gain weight. Only after pus is detected in the urine is the cause clear.

Severe cystitis may start with a pronounced chill, followed by a rise in temperature. Fever often continues for a day or two and when a urinalysis is done, pus and bacteria are discovered.

In cystitis following infection elsewhere in the body—such as the throat, sinuses, ears, teeth, or bones—bacteria usually gain entrance to the bladder via the blood stream. They also may enter from outside the body, traveling up the urinary passageway (urethra) to invade the bladder. Colon bacilli from the intestinal tract also may reach the bladder.

The organisms find conditions suitable for growth and propagate in great numbers. Inflammation results, with some absorption of toxic products of these germs. In addition to chills and fever, the victim loses appetite and suffers from nausea, vomiting, and abdominal distention. If infection persists, frequent burning urination is complained of as well as acute pain when the bladder contracts.

Before the advent of the antibiotics and sulfonamides, little could be done except to encourage drinking large amounts of fluid and using a nonspecific urinary antiseptic. Burning was controlled by means of baking soda which made the urine alkaline.

As a result of this hit or miss treatment, most bouts of cystitis continued for two or three weeks before running their course. Nowadays, more specific remedies are available. First the causative bacteria is determined; then a drug is prescribed that will be lethal to the organism in question. Should this therapy fail, a complication may be present.

In men, for example, bacteria may spread to the prostate. In women, the urethra may have been damaged during childbirth and until this is corrected cystitis returns again and again. Now and then the renal passageway is blocked by stricture or kidney stone and permanent relief cannot be expected until the obstruction is corrected.

NO TREATMENT

Mrs. L. writes: What treatment is given a pregnant woman who develops German measles?

REPLY

None. This disease lasts three days and once it develops, there is no need for treatment. On the other hand, those who are exposed should take gamma globulin in hopes that this vaccine will offer some protection.

SORE RIBS

C. W. writes: Why do my ribs ache?

REPLY

Injury and excessive coughing are the most common causes. There are dozens of other origins and a physical examination would be necessary to determine what is responsible for the soreness.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Deilen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

There was an old preacher once, according to Henry W. Grady's famous story, "who told some boys of the Bible lesson he planned to read the next morning. The boys, finding the place, glued together the connecting pages. The next morning he read on the bottom of one page, 'When Noah was 120 years old he took until himself a wife who was'—then turning the page — '140 cubits long, 40 cubits wide, built of gopher wood, and covered with pitch inside and out.'

"Naturally puzzled, he read it again, verified it, then assured his audience, 'My friends, this is the first time I ever met this in the Bible, but I accept it as an evidence of the assertion that we are fearfully and wonderfully made.

" 'I wish I could get you to have as much faith as I do this evening'!"

Peter Lind Hayes has completed the lyrics for one of the most touching ballads of the year. Its title: "When I Was a Blackjack Dealer and You Were 21."

Jim Rivera's 2-Run Homer Wins Game

Hits For Circuit In First; Howell Rescues Trucks

DETROIT, Aug. 12 (AP) — Jim Rivera lined a two run homer into the upper right field stands in the first inning tonight and the Chicago White Sox made it stand up for a 2-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers before 44,830 fans at Briggs Stadium.

The victory kept the second place Sox hot after the Cleveland Indians in the tight American League pennant chase.

Rivera, hitting at a .367 pace in his last 18 games, smashed his game winning home run off Steve Gromek.

Phillies, Cardinals Capture Series In Dapper Dan League

The Phillies, third place team in the Dapper Division, swept their series with the Dodgers, third place finisher in the Dan Division, by winning yesterday at East Side Field by the score of 11-5. The Phils also won the opener, 6-4.

Manager Howard Northcraft's team collected 14 hits, nine going for extra bases. Gary Henry smacked a homer a triple, Glenn Shipway a three-bagger and single, Charley Boone and Roger Growden a double and single each and Rich Smith had two one-base knocks. Barbe was the "big gun" for the Dodgers with a pair of home runs and a two-base wallop. Van Sickle also hit for the circuit and Gaffney and Portmess had two hits each.

Charley Boone, winning hurler, fanned three and walked four. Barbe whiffed six and issued one base on balls.

The Cardinals, sixth place team in the Dapper Division, won the third and deciding game from the Tigers of the Dan Division, at Penn Avenue by the score of 9-6. Rain halted action after five innings.

Melvin Nines, winning hurler, fanned seven and smacked a three-bagger. Ronnie Gulbronson smacked a homer and single. Steward starred in left field for the Tigers and his two-bagger was among the losers' five hits.

College All-Stars Top Browns, 30-27

CHICAGO, Aug. 12 (AP) — Notre Dame's Ralph Guglielmi, Baylor's L. G. Dupre and Ohio State's tiny kicking specialist, Tad Weed, combined to lead the College All-Stars to a rousing, record 30-27 upset of the favored Cleveland Browns tonight.

While it was the 146-pound Weed's 34-yard field goal in the final period which provided the victory margin, the passing of quarterback Guglielmi and great running and receiving of Dupre broke the back of the Browns.

A soldier field throng of 75,000 watched in amazement as the All-Stars carried a vicious game to the National Football League champions all the way to take the nationally televised contest.

The collegiate victory broke a string of four straight pro triumphs and left the series in favor of the pros, 13 to 7, with 2 ties.

Gridder Injured

CHICAGO, Aug. 12 (AP) — John Weaver, 21-year-old halfback from Navy, suffered a slight concussion in the first quarter of tonight's football game between the College All Stars and the Cleveland Browns.

Weaver was examined by Dr. William Rothman, All Stars' physician, and was sent to St. Luke's Hospital for observation.

Thumpin' Ted Joins Select Circle ---2,000-Hit Club

Mickey Vernon Enos Slaughter Ted Williams Stan Musial

FROM 1876 to the present date, only 95 players in major league baseball have collected 2,000 or more hits during their careers. The 96th has been added to the list, since Ted Williams, the Red Sox slugger, has just made his 2,000th hit in a career twice interrupted by military service. Only other active major leaguers in the select circle are Enos Slaughter, Mickey Vernon and Stan Musial. Ty Cobb, with 4,191 hits, tops the major leagues and included in the 3,000-hit group are Tris Speaker, Honus Wagner, Eddie Collins, Nap Lajoie, Paul Waner and Cap Anson. Most old timers on the list played many years in the majors. (International)

Army And Navy May Appear In Any Bowl Game

Top Level Approval Granted Both Teams

CHICAGO, Aug. 12 (AP)—Army and Navy may play in any post-season football game, a congressman told the Football Writers Assn. of America today.

Rep. F. Edward Hebert (D-La) of New Orleans said top level approval had been granted for both service teams to play in a bowl game, if invited. Navy played in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans Jan. 1.

Hebert said Air Force Secretary Talbott, before his recent resignation, also gave approval for the new Air Force Academy to play in post-season games when that branch is ready for competition.

It was through Hebert's efforts that Navy got to play in the Sugar Bowl last New Year's Day. The Middies blanked Mississippi, 21-0. Hebert told the writers Coach Red Blaik of Army agreed to play the Cadets in future bowl games.

Hebert said Navy proved, by playing in the Sugar Bowl, that such competition is the greatest public relations job the services could undertake.

Clout Four Homers, Bob Lemon Winner

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 12 (AP)—Four Cleveland home runs, including two by Bobby Avila and Jim Hegan's grand slam shot, powered the Indians to a 17-1 mauling of Kansas City in the first game of their day-night doubleheader.

Bob Lemon held the Athletics scoreless in the six innings he worked and picked up his first victory since July 19.

Lemon, one of Cleveland's ace righthanders, had been on the sidelines more than three weeks with a pulled leg muscle. He worked the first six innings, giving up four hits, but no runs, and won his 13th game of the season against seven losses.

Grid Rules Changes

Beard "Cover Boy"

Officials Shortage

1955 Top Twirlers

By C. V. BURNS

THERE IS ONLY one major change in college football rules for 1955 and it concerns substitutions.

This is of interest to all college football followers as it provides that a player who was in the line-up when the quarter began may re-enter the game once during the same period.

Last year, he could re-enter during the same quarter except for a 4-minute segment at the end of each half. The segments have been abolished.

Another change of some interest is one dealing with the player who holds the ball for place-kicks. He will be allowed to get up and run with the pigskin or pass it if he wishes, whether or not his knee touches the ground.

The "sleeper" play has been all but eliminated by the provision that all offensive players must be within 15 feet of the ball when it is snapped.

The introductory says Dickie is set to resume his touchdown-making for the Gobblers this year.

Beard, the Associated Press' "Athlete of the Year in Virginia" in 1954, led the Southern Conference in ground-gaining with 647 yards, threw two touchdown passes and scored 39 points for Tech's undefeated eleven.

The 175-pound Cumberlander, now a senior, got All-America mention, all-conference and all-Virginia honors, and won the Norfolk and Richmond Sportsman's clubs trophies last year.

John Cobourn starts his 23rd year at the helm of the Martinsburg High School Bulldogs.

WILLIAM R. FUGITT, executive secretary of the Board of Appeals, West Virginia High School Athletic Association, reports his board is seriously concerned with the shortage of qualified officials for all athletic contests caused by the retirement of a good number of the older and more experienced arbiters and the reluctance of young men to assume responsibility for administering the rules of athletic contests.

This reluctance, he says, is due in part to the attitude of both spectators and a few participants in coaching and playing to burden the officials with unnecessary criticism and abuse for the officiating and an unfair assumption that the official should develop a "thick enough skin to take this abuse."

Those who have withdrawn as officials do not care to continue regardless of the scale of pay in effect.

In order to overco methe shortage, the board is offering many inducements to those desiring to enter the officiating profession.

Fugitt estimates that 400 officials are necessary to man the positions for high school games each week while the start of the season will find only 250 available.

JACK (OK) O'KEEFE, who served as patrol judge in past years at Fairgo, has resigned as public relations director at Pimlico to accept the appointment as general manager of the Cranwood Park (Ohio) track.

O'Keefe will devote full time to his jobs at Cranwood and nearby Thistledown, both of which are owned by the same interests. In addition to the GM post at Cranwood, Jack heads the public relations departments at both Ohio tracks.

The Jockey's Hall of Fame is O'Keefe's idea.

Jack is the well known author of turf stories and his articles have appeared in many magazines. He has been associated with racing in Maryland, Florida, Rhode Island, Ohio, Delaware, Maine and Canada.

TOP PITCHERS in the Dapper Dan League this season were:

Roger Manges, Senators, 6-0; Allan Stevenson, Red Sox, 5-0; Billy Colbert, Senators, 4-0; Mike Clark, Athletics, 6-1; Charley Boone, Phillies, 4-1; Puffenburger, Pirates, 5-2; Donald Nave, Phillies, 5-2, and Jimmy Rice, Red Sox, 4-2.

Willie Mays Can't Play Winter Ball

Gomez Is Eligible Under New Ruling

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (AP)—Willie Mays of the New York Giants and any other major leaguer with more than two years experience, except native Caribbeans, won't be able to play winter baseball this year in Cuba, Puerto Rico, Venezuela and Panama.

The Caribbean Baseball Confederation reached an agreement with Commissioner Ford Frick and representatives of the majors and minors today on a new deal for the 1955-56 winter season.

Set Two-Year Limit

Under the revised rules, requested by the Caribbean Confederation, each club can use four major league players, including native Caribbeans. The native Caribbean players can have unlimited major league experience but the others must not have played more than two years in the majors.

In addition to the four bona-fide big leaguers, each team can use two men from the major league reserve list. They must have less than 45 days major league experience in the current season.

In effect, this new agreement would rule out a man like Mays, who played winter ball in Puerto Rico last season while Ruben Gomez, of the Giants, a native of Puerto Rico, would be allowed to play.

Requests Turned Down

The major league player representatives recently asked that the bars be let down for unlimited play by all major leaguers in the winter leagues. They also asked permission to deal directly with the Caribbean owners.

The new agreement turns down both requests. As in the past, a Caribbean club must contact the commissioner's office which will, in turn, get in touch with the major league club. The major league club then will contact the player.

Dad Was Hurler

Duane Pillette, now with Oakland of the PCL after a long stint in the majors, is the son of Herm (Old Folks) Pillette, who holds numerous Coast league records. He ended a 29-year mound career in 1945 at the age of 50 and he was a grandfather.

Jim Rivera's 2-Run Homer Wins Game

Hits For Circuit In First; Howell Rescues Trucks

DETROIT, Aug. 12 (AP) — Jim Rivera lined a two run homer into the upper right field stands in the first inning tonight and the Chicago White Sox made it stand up for a 2-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers before 44,830 fans at Briggs Stadium.

The victory kept the second place Sox hot after the Cleveland Indians in the tight American League pennant chase.

Rivera, hitting at a .367 pace in his last 18 games, smashed his game winning home run off Steve Gromek.

Virgil Trucks nursed the lead until the eighth inning, when the 36-year-old fireballer needed help from Dixie Howell who retired the dangerous Ray Boone with two runners on base.

The Cardinals, sixth place team in the Dapper Division, won the third and deciding game from the Tigers of the Dan Division, at Penn Avenue by the score of 9-6. Rain halted action after five innings.

Melvin Nines, winning hurler, fanned seven and smacked a three-bagger. Ronnie Gulbronson smacked a homer and single. Steward starred in left field for the Tigers and his two-bagger was among the losers' five hits.

College All-Stars Top Browns, 30-27

CHICAGO, Aug. 12 (AP) — Notre Dame's Ralph Guglielmi, Baylor's L. G. Dupre and Ohio State's tiny kicking specialist, Tad Weed, combined to lead the College All-Stars to a rousing, record 30-27 upset of the favored Cleveland Browns tonight.

While it was the 146-pound Weed's 34-yard field goal in the final period which provided the victory margin, the passing of quarterback Guglielmi and great running and receiving of Dupre broke the back of the Browns.

A soldier field throng of 75,000 watched in amazement as the All-Stars carried a vicious game to the National Football League champions all the way to take the nationally televised contest.

The collegiate victory broke a string of four straight pro triumphs and left the series in favor of the pros, 13 to 7, with 2 ties.

Gridder Injured

CHICAGO, Aug. 12 (AP) — John Weaver, 21-year-old halfback from Navy, suffered a slight concussion in the first quarter of tonight's football game between the College All Stars and the Cleveland Browns.

Weaver was examined by Dr. William Rothman, All Stars' physician, and was sent to St. Luke's Hospital for observation.

Mickey Vernon Enos Slaughter Ted Williams Stan Musial

FROM 1876 to the present date, only 95 players in major league baseball have collected 2,000 or more hits during their careers. The 96th has been added to the list, since Ted Williams, the Red Sox slugger, has just made his 2,000th hit in a career twice interrupted by military service. Only other active major leaguers in the select circle are Enos Slaughter, Mickey Vernon and Stan Musial. Ty Cobb, with 4,191 hits, tops the major leagues and included in the 3,000-hit group are Tris Speaker, Honus Wagner, Eddie Collins, Nap Lajoie, Paul Waner and Cap Anson. Most old timers on the list played many years in the majors. (International)

Army And Navy May Appear In Any Bowl Game

Top Level Approval Granted Both Teams

CHICAGO, Aug. 12 (AP)—Army and Navy may play in any post-season football game, a congressman told the Football Writers Assn. of America today.

Rep. F. Edward Hebert (D-La) of New Orleans said top level approval had been granted for both service teams to play in a bowl game, if invited. Navy played in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans Jan. 1.

Hebert said Air Force Secretary Talbott, before his recent resignation, also gave approval for the new Air Force Academy to play in post-season games when that branch is ready for competition.

It was through Hebert's efforts that Navy got to play in the Sugar Bowl last New Year's Day. The Middies blanked Mississippi, 21-0. Hebert told the writers Coach Red Blaik of Army agreed to play the Cadets in future bowl games.

Hebert said Navy proved, by playing in the Sugar Bowl, that such competition is the greatest public relations job the services could undertake.

Clout Four Homers, Bob Lemon Winner

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 12 (AP)—Four Cleveland home runs, including two by Bobby Avila and Jim Hegan's grand slam shot, powered the Indians to a 17-1 mauling of Kansas City in the first game of their day-night doubleheader.

Bob Lemon held the Athletics scoreless in the six innings he worked and picked up his first victory since July 19.

Lemon, one of Cleveland's ace righthanders, had been on the sidelines more than three weeks with a pulled leg muscle. He worked the first six innings, giving up four hits, but no runs, and won his 13th game of the season against seven losses.

Grid Rules Changes • • • Beard "Cover Boy" • • • Officials Shortage • • • 1955 Top Twirlers

By C. V. BURNS

THERE IS ONLY one major change in college football rules for 1955 and it concerns substitutions.

This is of interest to all college football followers as it provides that a player who was in the lineup when the quarter began may re-enter the game once during the same period.

Last year, he could re-enter during the same quarter except for a 4-minute segment at the end of each half. The segments have been abolished.

Another change of some interest is one dealing with the player who holds the ball for place-kicks. He will be allowed to get up and run with the pigskin or pass it if he wishes, whether or not his knee touches the ground.

The "sleeper" play has been all but eliminated by the provision that all offensive players must be within 15 feet of the ball when it is snapped.

The introductory says Dickie is set to resume his touchdown-making for the Gobblers this year.

Beard, the Associated Press' "Athlete of the Year in Virginia" in 1954, led the Southern Conference in ground-gaining with 647 yards, threw two touchdown passes and scored 39 points for Tech's undefeated eleven.

The 175-pound Cumberlander, now a senior, got All-America mention, all-conference and all-Virginia honors, and won the Norfolk and Richmond Sportsman's clubs trophies last year.

John Cobourn starts his 23rd year at the helm of the Martinsburg High School Bulldogs.

WILLIAM R. FUGITT, executive secretary of the Board of Appeals, West Virginia High School Athletic Association, reports his board is seriously concerned with the shortage of qualified officials for all athletic contests caused by the retirement of a good number of the older and more experienced arbiters and the reluctance of young men to assume responsibility for administering the rules of athletic contests.

This reluctance, he says, is due in part to the attitude of both spectators and a few participants in coaching and playing to burden the officials with unnecessary criticism and abuse for the officiating and an unfair assumption that the offricial should develop a "thick enough skin to take this abuse."

Those who have withdrawn as officials do not care to continue regardless of the scale of pay in effect.

In order to overco methe shortage, the board is offering many inducements to those desiring to enter the officiating profession.

Fugitt estimates that 400 officials are necessary to man the positions for high school games each week while the start of the season will find only 250 available.

JACK (OK) O'KEEFE, who served as patrol judge in past years at Fairgo, has resigned as public relations director at Pimlico to accept the appointment as general manager of the Cranwood Park (Ohio) track.

O'Keefe will devote full time to his jobs at Cranwood and nearby Thistledown, both of which are owned by the same interests. In addition to the GM post at Cranwood, Jack heads the public relations departments at both Ohio tracks.

The Jockey's Hall of Fame is O'Keefe's idea.

Jack is the well known author of turf stories and his articles have appeared in many magazines. He has been associated with racing in Maryland, Florida, Rhode Island, Ohio, Delaware, Maine and Canada.

TOP PITCHERS in the Dapper Dan League this season were:

Willie Mays Can't Play Winter Ball

Gomez Is Eligible Under New Ruling

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (AP)—Willie Mays of the New York Giants and any other major leaguer with more than two years experience, except native Caribbeans, won't be able to play winter baseball this year in Cuba, Puerto Rico, Venezuela and Panama.

The Caribbean Baseball Confederation reached an agreement with Commissioner Ford Frick and representatives of the majors and minors today on a new deal for the 1955-56 winter season.

Set Two-Year Limit

Under the revised rules, requested by the Caribbean Confederation, each club can use four major league players, including native Caribbeans. The native Caribbean players can have unlimited major league experience but the others must not have played more than two years in the majors.

In addition to the four bona-fide big leaguers, each team can use two men from the major league reserve list. They must have less than 45 days major league experience in the current season.

In effect, this new agreement would rule out a man like Mays, who played winter ball in Puerto Rico last season while Ruben Gomez, of the Giants, a native of Puerto Rico, would be allowed to play.

Requests Turned Down

The major league player representatives recently asked that the bars be let down for unlimited play by all major leaguers in the winter leagues. They also asked permission to deal directly with the Caribbean owners.

The new agreement turns down both requests. As in the past, a Caribbean club must contact the commissioner's office which will, in turn, get in touch with the major league club. The major league club then will contact the player.

Dad Was Hurler

Duane Pillette, now with Oakland of the PCL after a long stint in the majors, is the son of Herm (Old Folks) Pillette, who holds numerous Coast league records. He ended a 29-year mound career in 1945 at the age of 50 and he was a grandfather.

Taylor In 32nd Race

This will be the 32nd race of the afternoon and is scheduled to start at 2:38 p. m. Taylor must win to stay in contention for the $15,000 in college scholarships, as all first-round losers are eliminated.

The Derby will get underway at 2 p. m. (Cumberland time), following a 45-minute parade and the running of the Oil Can Trophy Race. Meeting in the Oil Can feature will be movie stars George Montgomery and Joan Hall, and Bob Sweikert, 1955 winner of the Indianapolis Speedway race.

Taylor and 152 other champions got their test run over world-famous Derby Downs yesterday. Only Randy Mears, the champion from Charlotte, N. C., failed to make the trial. Randy, accompanied to Akron by Johnny Borchert, former Cumberland Times-News writer, has been in the hospital for several days with a 102-degree temperature.

The Charlotte champ will be released from the hospital Sunday morning and will be taken directly to the track for his "test hop."

Favorable weather has been predicted for the Derby, with a crowd of 60,000 or more expected. Dinah Shore, television and moving picture star, will entertain with a 15-minute song program prior to the parade.

Champs Get Watches

Today, Taylor and the other champions received engraved wrist watches from W. E. Fish, general sales manager of Chevrolet, which co-sponsors derbies all over the country, along with leading newspapers.

All prizes will be distributed at the derby dinner Sunday evening in Goodyear gymnasium.

Bi-State Pony League Booster Game Set Sunday

East and West All-Star teams are scheduled to clash Sunday at 2 p. m., at Memorial Park, Westernport, in the Bi-State Pony Baseball League's Booster Game.

The teams will be composed of the same players who participated in the league's all-star game earlier in the season.

Proceeds of tomorrow's game will go toward defraying the expense of sending the players to a major league game in Pittsburgh. If sufficient funds cannot be raised the money taken will be used to give the league players a dinner.

Atlanta Introduces New Stunt Designed To "Save" Baseball

By BILL LEVY
Central Press Association

Gimmicks, gimmicks, gimmicks—Everybody has a gimmcik for saving baseball.

Down in Atlanta, they are playing a game at Ponce de Leon Park called "Total," a baseball-saving stunt dreamed up by Chicago Theatrical Producer Phil Tyrrell.

Here's the way "Total" works:

As each spectator passes through the gates, he is handed a numbered card which has blanks for the line score. He fills in the score by innings and deposits the card in a box, keeping a duplicate stub. This must be done before the game starts because after the umpire yells "play ball" the box is closed and locked.

The club set up a prize of $250. To win, the line score must exactly match the score by innings as posted on the scoreboard during the course of the game. If no one wins by guessing the exact score by innings, the prize is $500 the next night.

Since the odds are said to be 18,000 to 1, the chances are the pot would build up to $15,000 before someone connects for the grand slam.

The total now is up to $1,000.

Tyrrell says "this is not gambling, for the patrons do not invest one cent. You don't have to play either. Radio and TV shows give away thousands of dollars every week and capture the attention of millions. This TOTAL will do the same for baseball."

Whatever became of the days when clubs used good solid baseball to lure people to the gate?

Tennis Matches Off

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12 (AP)—Today's singles matches in the Davis Cup inter-zone finals involving Australia and Italy were postponed until tomorrow because of heavy rains. The alert on the possible approach of hurricane Connie into this area was reestablished in mid-morning.

HAND FOR GRANDSLAMMER—Teammates George Strickland (2) and Al Rosen (7) move up to congratulate Cleveland catcher Jim Hegan as the latter crosses home plate on first inning grand slam homer that put the Indians out ahead 7-0 in game at Kansas City. Plate Umpire is John Rice. Cleveland won 17-1 in the first of two games between the teams.

Little League Blast Brings Sharp Comment

Writer On Medical Journal Challenged

DES MOINES, Aug. 12 (AP)—Criticism of the Little League baseball program is drawing lots of sharp comment from Iowa backers of the program to bring the game to the small fry.

The program for boys 8 to 12 years old has drawn endorsement from parents, recreation directors, coaches, church officials, police officers and sports writers, an Associated Press survey showed today.

An editorial in the August issue of the Iowa State Medical Society Journal suggested that Little League competition "exploits" children, makes demands for which boys of that age are not equipped and is of "doubtful value" as a means of combatting juvenile delinquency.

The journal's scientific editor has explained that the editorial does not necessarily represent the views of the Iowa Medical Society. He said it was approved for publication as "just expressing an opinion" on "a germane topic to discuss."

Writer Is Challenged

Little League supporters however, were quick to challenge the editorial writer.

"The person who wrote the editorial was probably one who was never able to make an athletic team when he was young and is now showing his resentment," commented E. C. Johnson, director of the Estherville, Iowa, recreational program.

Johnson denied there was "undue pressure" on the youngsters to win. And he noted that one boy overcame handicaps inflicted by polio through participation in little league baseball.

"I only wish we had more such leagues," said Ottumwa Police Chief Lester A. Canny. "Our juvenile troubles are much lighter during the summer months now" because the boys have become so interested in baseball . . . They haven't the time to get into trouble."

Agrees With Editorial

Others agreed with parts of the editorial.

The Rev. J. M. Steffensen of Marne who directs the Southwest Iowa Cub Tournament, said: "I do not approve of competition for boys so young at the national level, but so long as the program is kept at the local level I feel that its potential advantages outweigh its disadvantages."

Carroll Starts 5th Year At Hagerstown

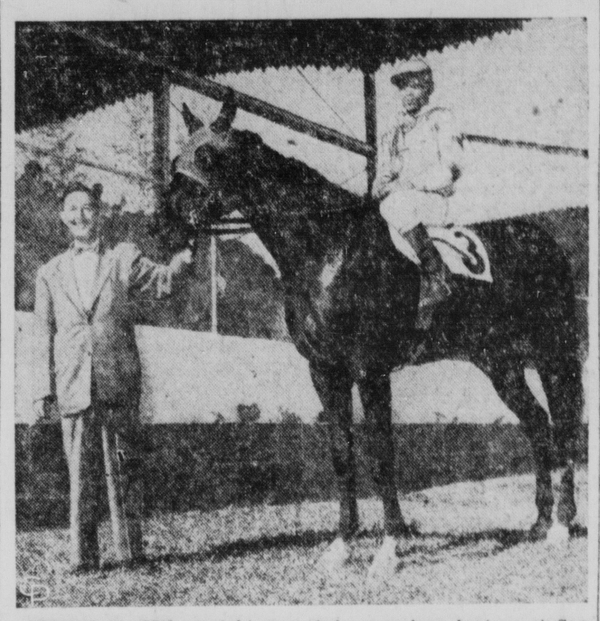

HAGERSTOWN, Aug. 12—Henry J. Carroll, veteran racing official, will be starting his fifth year as racing secretary for the Hagerstown Fair Association when Hagerstown's 10-day race meet opens on Wednesday, August 17.

Dr. Robert C. Snavely, general manager of the Hagerstown Fair Association, announced that the Jones Photo-Finish Camera will be used for all races at Hagerstown, and that the Harry M. Stevens Company will again handle the concessions and catering.

Post time daily during the Hagerstown Meet will be 2:15, daylight saving time.

"The eyes are the mirrors of the soul," said light heavy-weight Champion Archie Moore when asked why he continually stared at Bobo Olson before their recent fight.

CAN'T LOSE FOR WINNING

Ted Atkinson Favors Swaps In Match Race

Veteran Won Aboard Nashua In The Wood

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP)—Jockey Ted Atkinson, who rode Nashua in the Wood Memorial, gives Swaps the edge in the big match race at Chicago Aug. 31.

"If the pattern develops the way it usually does in match races, I think you'll see them get into each other from the break and pour it on until one or the other cracks," said Atkinson. "I give the edge to Swaps."

Atkinson rode Nashua in the Wood April 23 at Jamaica, beating Summer Tan in a tight finish. He replaced Eddie Arcaro, the colt's usual jockey, because Arcaro had been set down for 20 days for rough riding.

"I could have taken the track from the start in the Wood," he said. "I had Summer Tan measured. For a big colt, Nashua has a remarkable burst of speed from the gate. It could be a surprise to the Swaps people.

"I don't think that burst ever has been exploited, either as a 2-year-old or this year. As fast as Swaps is, Nashua has the speed to breathe on him from the outset. But I still can't find a way to fault his beating Nashua in the Derby.

"Since the derby, Swaps has beaten older horses, an indication of basic quality. It looks as though Swaps is coming up to the match at peak form. According to what I hear about Nashua, his last start wasn't his best."

Rosburg's 11-Under-Par 133 Leads "World" Golf Tourney

Ulrich Two Strokes Back At Halfway Mark In Tam's Rich Event

CHICAGO, Aug. 12 (AP)—Pudgy Bob Rosburg put his duffer-like golf swing to work for a 32-35—67 today to leap ahead in Tam O'Shanter's money stampede with a searing 36-hole total of 133—11 strokes under par.

The bespectacled Palo Alto, Calif., pro, who couldn't even qualify for last year's "World" tournament, credited a new, longer-shafted driver for his sensational 66-67 rounds.

"I'm driving the best of my life with this new club," said the 28-year-old non-conformist. He uses an "unlapping" baseball grip and unwinds with a swing that has been dubbed "home-made."

Wins $15,000 This Year

"It may not be pretty but it gets results," laughed Rosburg, who has won $15,000 on the PGA circuit this year. "Guess I'm swinging just the same as when my dad put a club in my hand when I was two and told me to go ahead and hit a golf ball."

The former Stanford University golfer and baseball second baseman—a tourney pro since April, 1953—started off his second round with a one-over-par 5 after being trapped. He birdied the long second by reaching the green in two shots. Then, starting with the fifth, he fired three straight birdie 3s with putts of 12, 10 and 25 feet.

Rosburg's booming 290-yard drives set up easy birdie 4s on the 9th and 10th and the birdie deuced the 150-yard 11th by glueing a six-iron two feet from the pin.

His second over-par hole came on the 215-yard 16th where he hooked his tee shot. He salvaged par on the 17th with a stiff chip after overshooting the green, and duplicated the performance for par on the 18th.

Ulrich Trails By Two

Wally Ulrich, stocky 33-year-old former national intercollegiate champion from Rochester, Minn., drilled a 66 for 135 to keep well on the scent of the 72-hole winning jackpot of $50,000 in cash, a guaranteed $55,000 for 55 exhibitions and an option for 50 more, plus a $1,000 caddie fee and all other expenses.

Meanwhile, Henry Ransom, the Texas rancher registering from St. Andrews, Ill., and "World" winner in 1950, welded a 70 with his opening 68 for 138.

Some of the better-known performers were finding the 6,900-yard layout stubborn.

Snead Shoots 147

Defending "World" champion Bob Toski matched his opening 76 for 152. Ed Furgol, the 1954 U.S. Open titlist, levelled off to 74 for 147; British Open winner Peter Thomson skidded to 74 for 143, Sam Snead added a 73 for 147; and Lew Worsham, whose wedge shot for an eagle 2 on the last hole two years ago earned him the "world" gold, stumbled to 77 for 148.

Some of the most consistent golf was registered by Doug Sanders, 22-year-old University of Florida star from Cedartown, Ga., who is shooting for a $150 merchandise award in the amateur division while the pros aim for slices of a $157,200 melon. He shot a 70 for a halfway tally of 137.

Joining Jay Hebert in the 140 bracket were Gene Littler, who ballooned to 74 after a first round of 66 and Bo Wininger with a faltering 73.

Bunched at 141 were Gardner Dickinson, Walker Inman, Dutch Harrison and Antonio Cerda.

Roger Taylor Entered In 32nd Heat Of Derby At Akron

Cumberland Soap Box Champ Draws Lane One In 3-Car Heat

Will Oppose Duluth, Vancouver Boys In First Test Sunday

AKRON, Ohio, Aug. 12—(Special To The News)—Roger Taylor, Cumberland's 13-year-old hope in the 18th All-American Soap Box Derby, will go against champions from Vancouver, Wash., and Duluth, Minn., in Sunday's big event here.

Taylor, who hails from Wiley Ford, has drawn Lane No. 1 in the three-car heat. Joe Beaudion, the Vancouver champ, will drive in the center and Dave O'Connell of Duluth in lane 3.

Taylor In 32nd Race

This will be the 32nd race of the afternoon and is scheduled to start at 2:38 p. m. Taylor must win to stay in contention for the $15,000 in college scholarships, as all first-round losers are eliminated.

The Derby will get underway at 2 p. m. (Cumberland time), following a 45-minute parade and the running of the Oil Can Trophy Race. Meeting in the Oil Can feature will be movie stars George Montgomery and Joan Hall, and Bob Sweikert, 1955 winner of the Indianapolis Speedway race.

Taylor and 152 other champions got their test run over world-famous Derby Downs yesterday. Only Randy Mears, the champion from Charlotte, N. C., failed to make the trial. Randy, accompanied to Akron by Johnny Borchert, former Cumberland Times-News writer, has been in the hospital for several days with a 102-degree temperature.

The Charlotte champ will be released from the hospital Sunday morning and will be taken directly to the track for his "test hop."

Favorable weather has been predicted for the Derby, with a crowd of 60,000 or more expected. Dinah Shore, television and moving picture star, will entertain with a 15-minute song program prior to the parade.

Champs Get Watches

Today, Taylor and the other champions received engraved wrist watches from W. E. Fish, general sales manager of Chevrolet, which co-sponsors derbies all over the country, along with leading newspapers.

All prizes will be distributed at the derby dinner Sunday evening in Goodyear gymnasium.

Bedford Fair Auto Races Set Today

Big car races will be held at the Bedford Fair Grounds today in conjunction with the Bedford Fair.

The auto speed kings will battle it out in three 8-lap elimination races, a 10-lap consolation and the 20-lap Bedford Fair Sweepstakes in addition to the qualifying trials.

The drivers will be running in their last AAA sanctioned race since the AAA announced it will withdraw from the sport in 1956.

Time trials at Bedford will start at 1 p. m. and the first race is set for 2:30.

Bi-State Pony League Booster Game Set Sunday

East and West All-Star teams are scheduled to clash Sunday at 2 p. m., at Memorial Park, Westernport, in the Bi-State Pony Baseball League's Booster Game.

The teams will be composed of the same players who participated in the league's all-star game earlier in the season.

Proceeds of tomorrow's game will go toward defraying the expense of sending the players to a major league game in Pittsburgh. If sufficient funds cannot be raised the money taken will be used to give the league players a dinner.

Atlanta Introduces New Stunt Designed To "Save" Baseball

By BILL LEVY
Central Press Association

Gimmicks, gimmicks, gimmicks—Everybody has a gimmcik for saving baseball.

Down in Atlanta, they are playing a game at Ponce de Leon Park called "Total," a baseball-saving stunt dreamed up by Chicago Theatrical Producer Phil Tyrrell.

Here's the way "Total" works:

As each spectator passes through the gates, he is handed a numbered card which has blanks for the line score. He fills in the score by innings and deposits the card in a box, keeping a duplicate stub. This must be done before the game starts because after the umpire yells "play ball" the box is closed and locked.

The club set up a prize of $250. To win, the line score must exactly match the score by innings as posted on the scoreboard during the course of the game. If no one wins by guessing the exact score by innings, the prize is $500 the next night.

Since the odds are said to be 13,000 to 1, the chances are the pot would build up to $15,000 before someone connects for the grand slam.

The total now is up to $1,000.

Tyrrell says "this is not gambling, for the patrons do not invest one cent. You don't have to play either. Radio and TV shows give away thousands of dollars every week and capture the attention of millions. This TOTAL will do the same for baseball."

Whatever became of the days when clubs used good solid baseball to lure people to the gate?

Little League Blast Brings Sharp Comment

Writer On Medical Journal Challenged

DES MOINES, Aug. 12 (AP)—Criticism of the Little League baseball program is drawing lots of sharp comment from Iowa backers of the program to bring the game to the small fry.

The program for boys 8 to 12 years old has drawn endorsement from parents, recreation directors, coaches, church officials, police officers and sports writers, an Associated Press survey showed today.

An editorial in the August issue of the Iowa State Medical Society Journal suggested that Little League competition "exploits" children, makes demands for which boys of that age are not equipped and is of "doubtful value" as a means of combatting juvenile delinquency.

The journal's scientific editor has explained that the editorial does not necessarily represent the views of the Iowa Medical Society. He said it was approved for publication as "just expressing an opinion" on "a germane topic to discuss."

Writer Is Challenged

Little League supporters however, were quick to challenge the editorial writer.

"The person who wrote the editorial was probably one who was never able to make an athletic team when he was young and is now showing his resentment," commented E. C. Johnson, director of the Estherville, Iowa, recreational program.

Johnson denied there was "undue pressure" on the youngsters to win. And he noted that one boy overcame handicaps inflicted by polio through participation in little league baseball.

"I only wish we had more such leagues," said Ottumwa Police Chief Lester A. Canny. "Our juvenile troubles are much lighter during the summer months now" because the boys have become so interested in baseball . . . They haven't the time to get into trouble."

Agrees With Editorial

Others agreed with parts of the editorial.

The Rev. J. M. Steffensen of Marne who directs the Southwest Iowa Cub Tournament, said: "I do not approve of competition for boys so young at the national level, but so long as the program is kept at the local level I feel that its potential advantages outweigh its disadvantages."

Carroll Starts 5th Year At Hagerstown

HAGERSTOWN, Aug. 12—Henry J. Carroll, veteran racing official, will be starting his fifth year as racing secretary for the Hagerstown Fair Association when Hagerstown's 10-day race meet opens on Wednesday, August 17.

Dr. Robert C. Snavely, general manager of the Hagerstown Fair Association, announced that the Jones Photo-Finish Camera will be used for all races at Hagerstown, and that the Harry M. Stevens Company will again handle the concessions and catering.

Post time daily during the Hagerstown Meet will be 2:15, daylight saving time.

"The eyes are the mirrors of the soul," said light heavy-weight Champion Archie Moore when asked why he continually stared at Bobo Olson before their recent fight.

HAND FOR GRANDSLAMMER—Teammates George Strickland (2) and Al Rosen (7) move up to congratulate Cleveland catcher Jim Hegan as the latter crosses home plate on first inning grand slam homer that put the Indians out ahead 7-0 in game at Kansas City. Plate Umpire is John Rice. Cleveland won 17-1 in the first of two games between the teams.

CAN'T LOSE FOR WINNING

COPPING his 55th straight race—he's never been beaten—at San Juan, Puerto Rico, this four-year-old bay, Camarero, has set a new world record for consecutive victories on a race track. The colt is owned by Juan Coll Vidal (left) and has been piloted in all but 10 races by Jockey Mateo Matos, with him above. The colt has won every race, from two furlongs to a mile and an eighth. Former record of 54 was held by a Hungarian mare. (International)

Ted Atkinson Favors Swaps In Match Race

Veteran Won Aboard Nashua In The Wood

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP)—Jockey Ted Atkinson, who rode Nashua in the Wood Memorial, gives Swaps the edge in the big match race at Chicago Aug. 31.

"If the pattern develops the way it usually does in match races, I think you'll see them get into each other from the break and pour it on until one or the other cracks," said Atkinson. "I give the edge to Swaps."

Atkinson rode Nashua in the Wood April 23 at Jamaica, beating Summer Tan in a tight finish. He replaced Eddie Arcaro, the colt's usual jockey, because Arcaro had been set down for 20 days for rough riding.

"I could have taken the track from the start in the Wood," he said. "I had Summer Tan measured. For a big colt, Nashua has a remarkable burst of speed from the gate. It could be a surprise to the Swaps people.

"I don't think that burst ever has been exploited, either as a 2-year-old or this year. As fast as Swaps is, Nashua has the speed to breathe on him from the outset. But I still can't find a way to fault his beating Nashua in the Derby.

"Since the derby, Swaps has beaten older horses, an indication of basic quality. It looks as though Swaps is coming up to the match at peak form. According to what I hear about Nashua, his last start wasn't his best."

Rosburg's 11-Under-Par 133 Leads "World" Golf Tourney

Ulrich Two Strokes Back At Halfway Mark In Tam's Rich Event

CHICAGO, Aug. 12 (AP)—Pudgy Bob Rosburg put his duffer-like golf swing to work for a 32-35—67 today to leap ahead in Tam O'Shanter's money stampede with a searing 36-hole total of 133—11 strokes under par.

The bespectacled Palo Alto, Calif., pro, who couldn't even qualify for last year's "World" tournament, credited a new, longer-shafted driver for his sensational 66-67 rounds.

"I'm driving the best of my life with this new club," said the 28-year-old non-conformist. He uses an "unlapping" baseball grip and unwinds with a swing that has been dubbed "home-made."

Wins $15,000 This Year

"It may not be pretty but it gets results," laughed Rosburg, who has won $15,000 on the PGA circuit this year. "Guess I'm swinging just the same as when my dad put a club in my hand when I was two and told me to go ahead and hit a golf ball."

The former Stanford University golfer and baseball second baseman—a tourney pro since April, 1953—started off his second round with a one-over-par 5 after being trapped. He birdied the long second by reaching the green in two shots. Then, starting with the fifth, he fired three straight birdie 3s with putts of 12, 10 and 25 feet.

Rosburg's booming 290-yard drives set up easy birdie 4s on the 9th and 10th and the birdie deuced the 150-yard 11th by glueing a six-iron two feet from the pin.

His second over-par hole came on the 215-yard 16th where he hooked his tee shot. He salvaged par on the 17th with a stiff chip after overshooting the green, and duplicated the performance for par on the 18th.

Ulrich Trails By Two

Wally Ulrich, stocky 33-year-old former national intercollegiate champion from Rochester, Minn., drilled a 66 for 135 to keep well on the scent of the 72-hole winning jackpot of $50,000 in cash, a guaranteed $55,000 for 55 exhibitions and an option for 50 more, plus a $1,000 caddie fee and all other expenses.

Meanwhile, Henry Ransom, the Texas rancher registering from St. Andrews, Ill., and "World" winner in 1950, welded a 70 with his opening 68 for 138.

Some of the better-known performers were finding the 6,900-yard layout stubborn.

Snead Shoots 147

Defending "World" champion Bob Toski matched his opening 76 for 152. Ed Furgol, the 1954 U.S. Open titlist, levelled off to 74 for 147; British Open winner Peter Thomson skidded to 74 for 143, Sam Snead added a 73 for 147, and Lew Worsham, whose wedge shot for an eagle 2 on the last hole two years ago earned him the "world" gold, stumbled to 77 for 148.

Some of the most consistent golf was registered by Doug Sanders, 22-year-old University of Florida star from Cedartown, Ga., who is shooting for a $150 merchandise award in the amateur division while the pros aim for slices of a $157,200 melon. He shot a 70 for a halfway tally of 137.

Joining Jay Hebert in the 140 bracket were Gene Littler, who ballooned to 74 after a first round of 66 and Bo Wininger with a faltering 73.

Bunched at 141 were Gardner Dickinson, Walker Inman, Dutch Harrison and Antonio Cerda.

Lagging behind the leaders were such big-time winners as Doug Ford, national PGA and All-American champion, with 71 for 144; Cary Middlecoff, the No. 1 money winner, with 73 for 147; and U.S. Open champion Jack Fleck with 73 for 142.

Among the classic blowups were a 78 by Mike Krak of Louisville, who shared the first round lead with 66, and 76 by Fred Hawkins after an opening 67. Chandler Harper, Portsmouth, Va., had 73-71—144.

Sanders widened his lead to nine strokes over husky Jim Tom Blair of Jefferson City, Mo., who fired a second straight 73 for 146 and second place.

Fay Crocker, the 1955 U. S. Women's Open champion, matched feminine par 76 for 147 and a slight edge over a high-powered trio. Sharing second at 148 were veterans Betty Hicks and Patty Berg, and Mary Lena Faulk of Thomasville, Ga., the 1953 national amateur champion who turned pro last winter.

Wiffi Cox Sets Pace

Wiffi Smith, St. Clair, Mich., who won the All-American women amateur title last Sunday, took a one-stroke lead in her division with 157. She was closely shadowed by Gloria Fecht, Inglewood, Calif., with 158 and Jackie Yates of Honolulu, recent national intercollegiate winner from the University of Redlands (Calif.), with 159.

Second round women amateur scores included Norma Shook, Morgantown, W. Va., 91-82—173.

Man Sentenced To Five Years In Local Court

A former Mt. Savage man, who has been involved in a number of burglaries and car thefts in three states, was sentenced to five years in the House of Correction yesterday by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris.

He is Robert Hoover Witte, 26, who was returned here to face a charge of violating his parole. Witte was paroled by Judge Harris on August 25, 1954, after being convicted of several burglaries in this county.

While Witte was on parole he was involved in several burglaries in the Mt. Savage section, and the theft of a suit of clothes and cash from a farmer for whom he was working. He left the county before authorities learned he was the man wanted in the Mt. Savage burglaries.

It was later learned he went to Johnstown where he stole a car. He drove the machine to Hagerstown where he was nabbed. Tried in the Circuit Court there he received a one year sentence in the House of Correction. A detainer was placed against him by Allegany county authorities.

In addition, the man is wanted in Ohio for parole violation. He had served two years of a one to 18 year sentence in that state on a charge of burglary when he was paroled.

W. Va. Press To Ballot For Hall Of Fame

Deceased editors of two West Virginia papers in the Cumberland area have been nominated for the West Virginia Press Association's "Hall of Fame."

Selected for consideration by members of the association were John J. Cornwell, editor and publisher of the weekly Hampshire Review at Romney for half a century, chief counsel of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and governor of West Virginia from 1917 to 1921, and Frank William Rose, British-born printer, editor and scholar, who published the weekly Piedmont Herald from 1887 until his death in 1919.

The results of the balloting, together with eulogies to the new members chosen, will be presented at the association's fall meeting in Huntington October 27-29.

Nominees, besides Cornwell and Rose are:

Hugh Ike Shott, publisher until his death in 1953 of the Bluefield Daily Telegraph and Sunset News and owner of Radio Station WHIS there. Shott was a two-term member of Congress from the Fifth District and served briefly in the U. S. Senate.

Nathaniel P. Willis, who lived from 1755 to 1831, and founded the first newspaper in what is now West Virginia, the Potomac Guardian and Berkeley Advertiser at Shepherdstown.

Fletcher To Attend National Convention

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher, state director for Maryland in the National Association of County Prosecuting Attorneys, will attend the convention of the organization next week in Baltimore.

The NACPA will meet at the Emerson Hotel on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Anselm Sodaro, state's attorney for Baltimore City, is a third vice president of the national group.

Rizer Observes Decrease In Teacher Replacement

The number of replacements needed to fill teaching positions made vacant since the end of the past school year has dropped sharply, Allegany County Board of Education officials have announced.

This situation is attributed to the raises received by teachers in public schools, both from the General Assembly and the graduated increases coming through the new Green Commission standards.

The number of elementary positions made vacant by resignations, is just about half of last year's total, according to Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools.

Ralph R. Rizer, assistant superintendent, who supervises high schools, said last year there were 38 teachers and one principal who left at the end of the June 1954 term.

This summer it has been necessary to fill only 23 positions, Rizer pointed out.

However, there is still nearly a month to go before school starts, and the situation could change in a few days, he pointed out.

Teachers with bachelor degrees have a salary range of $3,100 for beginners and $4,900 for top minmum reached after 14 years.

Teachers with master degrees get an additional $200 annually.

Under the Green Commission, by the 1959-1960, school year, teachers with 11 years or more service will receive the top minimum.

Before the commission changed the standards, it took 17 years for a teacher to reach the top minimum pay.

Voting Machines Will Be Stored In Court House

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners has announced that the 103 voting machines which the Board of Election Supervisors has purchased will be stored in the basement at the Court House.

Using the Court House space will save approximately $1,000 per year in storage charges.

Clyde S. Kuhns, local painting contractor, was awarded a contract to paint the three rooms at a cost of $530. He was the only bidder on the job.

The voting machines are expected to be shipped here by December. They will be used in the primary election next year. An educational program on the use of the machines will be conducted by the election officials during the winter months.

Elks Plan Picnic

Cumberland Lodge 63, BPO Elks, will hold its annual picnic Sunday at the Cumberland Fairgrounds from 1 to 6 p. m.

Clifton H. Hafer, chairman, said that the picnic will be for members and their lady guests.

Local Police Unit Postpones Installation

The installation of officers by the Cumberland Auxiliary Police Force scheduled next Thursday has been postponed to Wednesday, September 7.

Tech. Sgt. John Newhouse of the City Police Department, president of the Auxiliary unit, said the postponement was necessary since the force will be on duty all of next week helping handle traffic during Bicentennial week activities.

New officers, besides Sgt. Newhouse, include Joseph Lookabaugh, vice president; Elmer Seward, secretary; Hubert Kington, assistant secretary; Fay Carder, treasurer; Glen Iser, chief, Lonnie Jackson, first assistant chief; Elmer Eshbaugh, second assistant chief.

Harry Whisner, captain; Edward Keyser, assistant captain; Fay Carder, first lieutenant; Vernon Crable, second lieutenant; Robert Folk, first sergeant; R. Stanley Byer, second sergeant; James Sills, third sergeant; Bernard Creegan, trustee, three years; James McGee, trustee, two years; R. S. Byer, trustee, one year.

Board Asked For Map Information

The Allegany-Garrett County Association of Insurance Agents has requested the Allegany County Board of Commissioners to assist in a program under which the Sanborn Map Company would include certain areas in LaVale and Cumberland on its new maps.

The information from the county would be useful in deciding the areas to be included on maps of the county. The data is needed prior to October of 1956.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 12 (INS)—Cleo Moore called the boss to te her that she starts her new pic ture, "Over Exposed," at Colun bia in a month, and Miss LOP tol Cleo she thinks that's the cutes title she's heard in a long time.

The original story by Mar Anita and Richard Sale is tailore specially to the considerable tal ents and pleasing proportions o the blonde charmer.

Cleo's been attracting no littl attention recently by showing u "stag" at parties. Isn't this be cause her heart belongs exclusive ly to New York film executive Charles Simonelli, and this ro mance is far more serious thar anyone realizes?

More and more good things are pouring in on Gino Prato, the little shoemaker who won $32,000 and the affection of all TV watch ers on the "$64,000 Question."

Columbia is after Gino to act as technical advisor on "Debut," the picture with an opera back ground which wil star Gloria Krieger. She's the young soprano the studio has been grooming for three years.

With that $10,000 per year pub lic relations job given Gino by an eastern firm and those 8th row center seats at the "Met"—every thing good is coming Gino's way.

Ronnie Burns (19-year-old son of Gracie and George) has been offered contracts by both Warners and U-I as a result of his very good work in "picnic" at the Pasa dena Playhouse.

But George and Gracie are usi ng him as a regular on their new fall TV shows, so he can't accept the movie offers, — yet. However, Ronnie is looked for a guest ap pearance on "Studio One" before tackling his assignment with his parents.

When Hope Hampton steps off the train from New York tomorrow morning, she'll receive a pleasant surprise. Her manager, Bill Taub, has bought "39 Red Roses," an original by Alan Balder which will be made as an independent starring Hope, — her first movie in years.

"Hope doesn't even know I bought the story," Bill told me, "but I'm sure she won't mind when she hears we're going to shoot it in London, Paris and Rome and she'll wear gorgeous clothes.

"The story is something like Hope's own life, — the leading male character is very similar to her late millionaire husband, Jules Brulatour."

Hollywood in shorts: Polish the andelabra! Liberace is due back uesday from his European tour. hen Lee had his passport pic ures made he was dressed in tails.

Forget those rumors that Ty ower and Kim Novak are blazing n "The Eddy Duchin Story." im's heart still belongs to Mack rim.

Goodlooking New York actor, obert Quarry, — winner of an ntoinette Perry Award, — gets good role in "Good Morning, liss Dove" at 20th.

Harry Belafonte is the headline er at the Mt. Sinai Hospital and linic fund raising party at the everly Hilton.

Hilda West, the late Lady Mendl's secretary and heir, dining with her old friend, Pola Negri, at Sinbad's. Pola is another former star who remains amazingly youthful.

Paul Henreid appears in a guest spot in "Viva Las Vegas" which hay give some smart producer the idea of giving Paul the big part he really rates.

Time flies department: Arthur Sheekman and Gloria Stewart who eloped 21 years ago and are now living in Paris, received word from their 19-year-old daughter, Sylvia, who lives in Hollywood that she eloped Wednesday with Writer Eugene Thompson.

That's all today.

W. Va. Press To Ballot For Hall Of Fame

Deceased editors of two West Virginia papers in the Cumberland area have been nominated for the West Virginia Press Association's "Hall of Fame."

Selected for consideration by members of the association were John J. Cornwell, editor and publisher of the weekly Hampshire Review at Romney for half a century, chief counsel of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and governor of West Virginia from 1917 to 1921, and Frank William Rose, British-born printer, editor and scholar, who published the weekly Piedmont Herald from 1887 until his death in 1919.

The results of the balloting, together with eulogies to the new members chosen, will be presented at the association's fall meeting in Huntington October 27-29.

Nominees, besides Cornwell and Rose are:

Hugh Ike Shott, publisher until his death in 1953 of the Bluefield Daily Telegraph and Sunset News and owner of Radio Station WHIS there. Shott was a two-term member of Congress from the Fifth District and served briefly in the U. S. Senate.

Nathaniel P. Willis, who lived from 1755 to 1831, and founded the first newspaper in what is now West Virginia, the Potomac Guardian and Berkeley Advertiser at Shepherdstown.

Man Sentenced To Five Years In Local Court

A former Mt. Savage man, who has been involved in a number of burglaries and car thefts in three states, was sentenced to five years in the House of Correction yesterday by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris.

He is Robert Hoover Witte, 26, who was returned here to face a charge of violating his parole. Witte was paroled by Judge Harris on August 25, 1954, after being convicted of several burglaries in this county.

While Witte was on parole he was involved in several burglaries in the Mt. Savage section, and the theft of a suit of clothes and cash from a farmer for whom he was working. He left the county before authorities learned he was the man wanted in the Mt. Savage burglaries.

It was later learned he went to Johnstown where he stole a car. He drove the machine to Hagerstown where he was nabbed. Tried in the Circuit Court there he received a one year sentence in the House of Correction. A detainer was placed against him by Allegany county authorities.

In addition, the man is wanted in Ohio for parole violation. He had served two years of a one to 18 year sentence in that state on a charge of burglary when he was paroled.

Local Elks Attend District Convention

Nine members of Cumberland Lodge 63, BPO Elks, are attending the annual convention of the Maryland, Delaware and District of Columbia Elks Association in Hagerstown.

Official delegates to the convention are William J. Aumiller, exalted ruler, John M. Robb, Walter A. Fraley, John J. Blough, George A. Caswell, James S. Stafford, John M. Mosner and Charles S. Fields.

Also attending is C. Paul Roeder, member of Lodge 63, who is vice president of the Maryland Elks Association.

The conclave got under way Thursday and will conclude tomorrow with a picnic. The program will include election of officers and picnic and dance today and installation of officers tomorrow.

Fletcher To Attend National Convention

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher, state director for Maryland in the National Association of County Prosecuting Attorneys, will attend the convention of the organization next week in Baltimore.

The NACPA will meet at the Emerson Hotel on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Anselm Sodaro, state's attorney for Baltimore City, is a third vice president of the national group.

Rizer Observes Decrease In Teacher Replacement

The number of replacements needed to fill teaching positions made vacant since the end of the past school year has dropped sharply, Allegany County Board of Education officials have announced.

This situation is attributed to the raises received by teachers in public schools, both from the General Assembly and the graduated increases coming through the new Green Commission standards.

The number of elementary positions made vacant by resignations, is just about half of last year's total, according to Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools.

Ralph R. Rizer, assistant superintendent, who supervises high schools, said last year there were 38 teachers and one principal who left at the end of the June 1954 term.

This summer it has been necessary to fill only 23 positions, Rizer pointed out.

However, there is still nearly a month to go before school starts, and the situation could change in a few days, he pointed out.

Teachers with bachelor degrees have a salary range of $3,100 for beginners and $4,900 for top minmum reached after 14 years.

Teachers with master degrees get an additional $200 annually.

Under the Green Commission, by the 1959-1960, school year, teachers with 11 years or more service will receive the top minimum.

Before the commission changed the standards, it took 17 years for a teacher to reach the top minimum pay.

Voting Machines Will Be Stored In Court House

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners has announced that the 103 voting machines which the Board of Election Supervisors has purchased will be stored in the basement at the Court House.

Using the Court House space will save approximately $1,000 per year in storage charges.

Clyde S. Kuhns, local painting contractor, was awarded a contract to paint the three rooms at a cost of $530. He was the only bidder on the job.

The voting machines are expected to be shipped here by December. They will be used in the primary election next year. An educational program on the use of the machines will be conducted by the election officials during the winter months.

Elks Plan Picnic

Cumberland Lodge 63, BPO Elks, will hold its annual picnic Sunday at the Cumberland Fairgrounds from 1 to 6 p. m.

Clifton H. Hafer, chairman, said that the picnic will be for members and their lady guests.

Local Police Unit Postpones Installation

The installation of officers by the Cumberland Auxiliary Police Force scheduled next Thursday has been postponed to Wednesday, September 7.

Tech. Sgt. John Newhouse of the City Police Department, president of the Auxiliary unit, said the postponement was necessary since the force will be on duty all of next week helping handle traffic during Bicentennial week activities.

New officers, besides Sgt. Newhouse, include Joseph Lookabaugh, vice president; Elmer Seward, secretary; Hubert Kington, assistant secretary; Fay Carder, treasurer; Glen Iser, chief, Lonnie Jackson, first assistant chief; Elmer Eshbaugh, second assistant chief.

Harry Whisner, captain; Edward Keyser, assistant captain; Fay Carder, first lieutenant; Vernon Crable, second lieutenant; Robert Folk, first sergeant; R. Stanley Byer, second sergeant; James Sills, third sergeant; Bernard Creegan, trustee, three years; James McGee, trustee, two years; R. S. Byer, trustee, one year.

John Sharp, advisor; George Butts, assistant advisor, and Harold Armbruster, William Valentine, James Raupach and Lewis Tyree, maintenance.

Two Ridgeley Youths Take Basic Training

Two Ridgeley youths have enlisted in the Air Force for four years, and are taking basic training at Sampson Air Force Base, New York.

Enlisting were Raymond L. Spencer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Spencer, 200 Main Street, and Richard Brooks, son of Mrs. Alice Broooks, Wabash Street.

Both are graduates of Ridgeley High School.

Board Asked For Map Information

The Allegany-Garrett County Association of Insurance Agents has requested the Allegany County Board of Commissioners to assist in a program under which the Sanborn Map Company would include certain areas in LaVale and Cumberland on its new maps.

The information from the county would be useful in deciding the areas to be included on maps of the county. The data is needed prior to October of 1956.

Contract Bridge

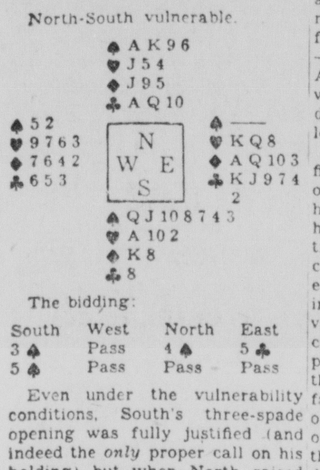

by Josephine Culbertson

A BRIDGE CRIME

SOUTH in the deal below committed one of the most serious of all bridge crimes: having made a shutout bid originally, he failed to let an opposing overcall go around to his partner for action.

South dealer.

North-South vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠	5 ♣
5 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Even under the vulnerability conditions, South's three-spade opening was fully justified (and indeed the only proper call on his holding) but when North raised to four spades and East then competed in clubs, South had only one logical course, and that was to pass. He had described his own holding quite adequately on the first round and there was no reason to tell the same story twice since he could not double five clubs—which, of course, is always a permissible action if the hand justifies it—simple common sense dictated that South should let North decide what he wanted to do about the opposing bid. For all South could know, North might have had even better defense against clubs than he had—but one thing is sure: with the A-Q-10 of the enemy's suit, North would have had every reason to double rather than risk a five-level bid in spades.

As it happened, South made his five-spade contract because both of the missing heart honors were held by East, which let South hold his loss in hearts to one trick. But with the slightest change in the red suits South easily might have gone down, and in any case he gained no great victory since the five-club contract could have been defeated 700 points. It goes without saying that when a player must find a favorable position of cards for his own contract but can defeat the opponents at least 500 points if things are not so favorable, the defensive stand becomes best, regardless of vulnerability. At match-point play there would be some reason for North-South to risk a five-spade contract with the vulnerability as it was, but at rubber bridge this sort of risk was quite illogical.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 11 (INS)—Brazil is perhaps more closely allied to the U. S. politically than other Latin American neighbors. The constitution calls for universal suffrage and the secret ballot. The streets shudder these days and nights with amplified political songs every bit as tuneless and cluttered with rudderless lyrics as our own. Walls are plastered with the smiling faces of three leading candidates for the chair of President Cafe Filho, who retires January 1 without (1) a pension such as we given our chief executives when we turn them out to pasture, and (2) without regrets.

The visitor also finds familiar overtones here of a dormant or dead U. S. mistrust of its politicos. The other night a rich Brazilian coffee magnate said to me:

"My family has been in this country for almost 500 years. We are sensitive to Brazilian traditions and culture. I have many close friends among your leaders and I agree that your form of government is close to ideal. Yet I'd much rather see our military take over our country for a time until we can get a better set of politicians or the political wisdom of the masses increases. A free election October 3 would be a calamity.

"Our people seem to have no taste politically. It is especially bad in Sao Paulo, filled more and more by new people who don't know the old Brazil and care less. They'd just as soon elect a football player if they trusted him enough." He said "football player" like an epithet.

President Cafe Filho has given his solemn assurances that there will indeed be an election on October 3, but several influential newspapers are plugging for military rule. They argue generally that the election of the popular team of Juscelino Kubischek and Jango Goulart, now favored to win, will mean a return to the political philosophy of the late president and dictator Vargas. Vargas committed suicide a year ago in the wake of the assassination by his bodyguards of an air force major who happened to be at the side of the intended target, a vigorous anti-Vargas newsman.

The Brazilian army brass recently criticized the calibre of Brazilian politicians, an opinion rather widely held by our own military but vigorously muted. The chief difference between us and Brazil, however, is that there seems to be general acceptance of the belief that the Brazilian army holds veto power over the decision to be made by the voters in October. The only question in the minds of people I talked to is whether the army will risk the censure of the free world by invoking that veto.

Brazilian newspapermen (and radio and TV people) are not required to pay income taxes, a status they share with the country's teachers. The newsmen pay no real estate taxes either, unless they buy more than one house or building. They are liable to none of the heavy duties placed on such imported luxuries as automobiles. (A Cadillac convertible costs $18,000 here.)

The Press Club of Brazil in downton Rio puts all U. S. counterparts to shame. It is housed on the top six floors of a club-owned 13-story building, modern and functional. Initiation fee for working reporters is $5. Dues are 50 cents a month. Steak dinners cost 50 cents. There is a free hospital, library, recreation rooms, theater and penthouse clubs and gardens.

The grand old man of Brazilian journalism, Herbert Moses of "O Globo," secured the land free from the mayor of Rio and won a check for $200,000 from Dictator Vargas as the initial contribution to the building fund. The rest, to quote an old Brazilian proverb, is history.

Brazil gets more military jet training than it gets military jets. We've permitted it to buy a few obsolete F-84s and T-33 trainers. North American and Canadair would like to sell it some F-86s but Brazil doesn't have enough dollars. In exchange for coffee it has picked up some British jets, as did Argentina with meat. Venezuela is the jet power of South America. It bought its fleet of British Canberra bombers with oil, a more persuasive currency than either coffee or meat.

Army Reserve Units To Attend Training

Two contingents of local Army Reservists will leave tomorrow for two weeks of summer training at Fort Meade.

The two units will be the Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, 810th Signal Battalion, Support, commanded by Lt. Col. Aden T. Miller, of Lonaconing, and Company D, 302nd Signal Battalion construction commanded by Capt. William N. Keller Jr., of LaVale.

They will spend 15 days in the 1955 Army Reserve Signal summer camp. The mission of this active duty service is to better qualify the individual soldier in his assigned military occupational speciality through schools and on-the-job training.

The 810th will send five officers, one warrant officer and 12 enlisted men, while Company D will have three officers and 11 enlisted men.

Woman Gets Sentence In State Reformatory

Anna May Lease, 229 Springdale Street, was sentenced to a year in the Maryland Reformatory for Women at a hearing yesterday before Magistrate Morris Baron in Juvenile Court.

Magistrate Baron sentenced the Lease woman for abandoning and neglecting two minor children and also for violating a parole imposed September 1, 1954.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Contract Bridge

by Josephine Culbertson

A BRIDGE CRIME

SOUTH in the deal below committed one of the most serious of all bridge crimes: having made a shutout bid originally, he failed to let an opposing overcall go around to his partner for action.

South dealer.

North-South vulnerable.

	♠ A K 9 6 ♥ J 5 4 ♦ J 9 5 ♣ A Q 10
♠ 5 2 ♥ 9 7 6 3 ♦ 7 6 4 2 ♣ 6 5 3	N W E S	♠ — ♥ K Q 8 ♦ A Q 10 3 ♣ K J 9 7 4 2
	♠ Q J 10 8 7 4 3 ♥ A 10 2 ♦ K 8 ♣ 8

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠	5 ♣
5 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Even under the vulnerability conditions, South's three-spade opening was fully justified (and indeed the only proper call on his holding) but when North raised to four spades and East then competed in clubs, South had only one logical course, and that was to pass. He had described his own holding quite adequately on the first round and there was no reason to tell the same story twice. Since he could not double five clubs—which, of course, is always a permissible action if the hand justifies it—simple common sense dictated that South should let North decide what he wanted to do about the opposing bid. For all South could know, North might have had even better defense against clubs than he had—but one thing is sure: with the A-Q-10 of the enemy's suit, North would have had every reason to double rather than risk a five-level bid in spades.

As it happened, South made his five-spade contract because both of the missing heart honors were held by East, which let South hold his loss in hearts to one trick. But with the slightest change in the red suits South easily might have gone down, and in any case he gained no great victory since the five-club contract could have been defeated 700 points. It goes without saying that when a player must find a favorable position of cards for his own contract but can defeat the opponents at least 500 points if things are not so favorable, the defensive stand becomes best, regardless of vulnerability. At match-point play there would be some reason for North-South to risk a five-spade contract with the vulnerability as it was, but at rubber bridge this sort of risk was quite illogical.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 11 (INS)—Brazil is perhaps more closely allied to the U. S. politically than other Latin American neighbors. The constitution calls for universal suffrage and the secret ballot. The streets shudder these days and nights with amplified political songs every bit as tuneless and cluttered with rudderless lyrics as our own. Walls are plastered with the smiling faces of three leading candidates for the chair of President Cafe Filho, who retires January 1 without (1) a pension such as we given our chief executives when we turn them out to pasture, and (2) without regrets.

The visitor also finds familiar overtones here of a dormant or dead U. S. mistrust of its politicos. The other night a rich Brazilian coffee magnate said to me:

"My family has been in this country for almost 500 years. We are sensitive to Brazilian traditions and culture. I have many close friends among your leaders and I agree that your form of government is close to ideal. Yet I'd much rather see our military take over our country for a time until we can get a better set of politicians or the political wisdom of the masses increases. A free election October 3 would be a calamity.

"Our people seem to have no taste politically. It is especially bad in Sao Paulo, filled more and more by new people who don't know the old Brazil and care less. They'd just as soon elect a football player if they trusted him enough." He said "football player" like an epithet.

President Cafe Filho has given his solemn assurances that there will indeed be an election on October 3, but several influential newspapers are plugging for military rule. They argue generally that the election of the popular team of Juscelino Kubischek and Jango Goulart, now favored to win, will mean a return to the political philosophy of the late president and dictator Vargas. Vargas committed suicide a year ago in the wake of the assassination by his bodyguards of an air force major who happened to be at the side of the intended target, a vigorous anti-Vargas newsman.

The Brazilian army brass recently criticized the calibre of Brazilian politicians, an opinion rather widely held by our own military but vigorously muted. The chief difference between us and Brazil, however, is that there seems to be general acceptance of the belief that the Brazilian army holds veto power over the decision to be made by the voters in October. The only question in the minds of people I talked to is whether the army will risk the censure of the free world by invoking that veto.

Brazilian newspapermen (and radio and TV people) are not required to pay income taxes, a status they share with the country's teachers. The newsmen pay no real estate taxes either, unless they buy more than one house or building. They are liable to none of the heavy duties placed on such imported luxuries as automobiles. (A Cadillac convertible costs $18,000 here.)

The Press Club of Brazil in downton Rio puts all U. S. counterparts to shame. It is housed on the top six floors of a club-owned 13-story building, modern and functional. Initiation fee for working reporters is $5. Dues are 50 cents a month. Steak dinners cost 50 cents. There is a free hospital, library, recreation rooms, theater and penthouse clubs and gardens.

The grand old man of Brazilian journalism, Herbert Moses of "O Globo," secured the land free from the mayor of Rio and won a check for $200,000 from Dictator Vargas as the initial contribution to the building fund. The rest, to quote an old Brazilian proverb, is history.

Brazil gets more military jet training than it gets military jets. We've permitted it to buy a few obsolete F-84s and T-33 trainers. North American and Canadair would like to sell it some F-86s but Brazil doesn't have enough dollars. In exchange for coffee it has picked up some British jets, as did Argentina with meat. Venezuela is the jet power of South America. It bought its fleet of British Canberra bombers with oil, a more persuasive currency than either coffee or meat.

Army Reserve Units To Attend Training

Two contingents of local Army Reservists will leave tomorrow for two weeks of summer training at Fort Meade.

The two units will be the Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, 810th Signal Battalion, Support, commanded by Lt. Col. Aden T. Miller, of Lonaconing, and Company D, 302nd Signal Battalion construction commanded by Capt. William N. Keller Jr., of LaVale.

They will spend 15 days in the 1955 Army Reserve Signal summer camp. The mission of this active duty service is to better qualify the individual soldier in his assigned military occupational speciality through schools and on-the-job training.

The 810th will send five officers, one warrant officer and 12 enlisted men, while Company D will have three officers and 11 enlisted men.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

X R Q U I R Z Z K W V P N I I U F A U — S F G D P •
V P N

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: IF WE COMMAND OUR WEALTH, WE SHALL BE RICH AND FREE — BURKE.

Council Faces Task Of Raising Taxes 12 Cents

Problem Is Aired At Budget Session

At least a 12-cent increase in the tax rate of the City of Cumberland appears almost inevitable, it was disclosed yesterday afternoon at a budget meeting of the Mayor and City Council.

Mayor Roy W. Eves, all members of the Council, City Attorney Thomas B. Finan, City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson and City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum, reviewed the problem at considerable length in a two-hour session.

Gibson explained to council that requests for pay raises by city employes, a lower surplus than the previous fiscal year, and the possibility of inclusion of city employes in the Social Security program, creates a need for a great amount of money.

Pay Raise Effect

Broken down roughly at the meeting, Gibson said a ten per cent pay raise as requested by many city employes, would amount to almost an 11-cent increase on the tax rate. Inclusion of Social Security would call for another 2½-cent increase, and loss of surplus amounts to about 3½-cents on the tax rate.

After some discussion, Mayor Eves asked the effect of a five percent increase for all city employes and Gibson said this would amount to about 5½ cents on the tax rate.

While nothing definite was decided, it was understood that a 12-cent increase in the rate is considerable, but Gibson was told to work toward that point.

If such a plan materializes, the city employes stand to get a five per cent pay raise rather than the ten percent requested. Social Security coverage can be included in the budget, and the loss of income from the smaller surplus will be made up.

Other Factors

Council members pointed out, however, that such a plan is based upon the assumption that there will be no increase in any departmental budgets over last year, and there will be no marked change in debt service.

While the council must sign its new levy and budget August 25, it was evident that considerable work remains to be done before the new tax rate can be definitely ascertained.

No member of the council wants to raise taxes. Commissioner John J. Long said "no tax raise is desirable and 12-cents seems like an awful lot."

Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz also stated that a tax rate of this proportion is high, but the cost of government, like the cost of everything else keeps mounting. He said he is not in favor of any raise in taxes, anymore than anyone else, but he believes the city employes are entitled to a pay increase, and should come under Social Security if they want it. He could find no way out of the situation.

Mayor Eves said that city employes are entitled to some consideration and he too thinks any tax increase is not desirable. He suggested that every individual department budget be gone over carefully again, to see if any economies can be made. Gibson and Finance Commissioner Long, agreed that this would be done.

Meeting Preliminary

Mayor Eves pointed out that this meeting is preliminary and informal and that nothing conclusive could be drawn. He said, "we do not want to give the city employes the opinion that they are going to get a five per cent raise until a final decision is made." He did suggest, however, that council consider the budget on that basis for further study.

Gibson went into considerable detail about receipts and expenditures. He estimates the income from all sources in the new fiscal year, at $1,511,000 at the present tax rate, which falls far short of the funds needed to finance the city's program in 1955-56. He termed several factors in the higher budget "mandatory," and made it clear to the mayor and council, that over six cents increase will be necessary without any pay raise for any city employes. If they are given a five per cent boost, this will mean a tax increase of about 12 cents, he said.

The city's tax rate this past fiscal year which ended June 30, was $1.36. The year before it was $1.28 and the year prior to that it was $1.32. The projected boost of 12 cents will make the rate for

Mayor Greets Mayor

Bicentennial Queen's Ball To Be Held Monday Night

As the Bicentennial Celebration gets under full swing next week, among the social attractions is the Queen's Ball to be staged at the Queen City Hotel Monday night after the pageant.

According to Mr. and Mrs. Bernard G. Renz, co-chairmen of this phase of the celebration, arrangements have been completed for a colorful affair with the Queen and her court as guests of honor. Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin, who is coming here to crown the Queen, will also be among the celebrities present.

The Queen City Hotel ballroom for many years was the site of many gala and colorful social events. Many residents recall the annual New Year's balls held there, as well as countless other dances, banquets, and social gatherings. For many years, the Queen City Hotel ballroom was considered the showplace, and the proper place for the best in social functions.

In keeping with tradition of the site itself, and to provide a proper setting for the Queen's Ball of 1955, the entire ballroom has been repainted, refurbished and the floor renewed. This work was speeded to complete, in time for this gala event.

The ball is not an invitation affair, and all persons in the community who wish to attend are privileged to do so. Members of the Brushes and Belles, town officials, visiting notables, and many visitors here for the homecoming and celebration, are expected.

Original plans to hold three such affairs in three parts of the city, in order to accommodate the huge number of guests expected to participate, were cancelled because of the unavailability of local clubs and ballrooms.

The ball will continue from 8 p. m. to midnight, with the highlight of the evening immediately after the pageant, when the Queen and her Court and guests make their appearance.

Local Resident Hurt In Crash

A Cumberland man was taken to Sacred Heart Hospital last night after his automobile careened from the highway, smashed through several guard rails, and was demolished.

James Hugh Hunter, 27, of 502 Bedford Street, was driving alone on Route 28 near the Wiley Ford intersection toward Fort Ashby when his vehicle skidded on the road which was slippery from a slight rainfall.

West Virginia State Trooper Charles Oliver, who investigated the accident, said the car, apparently traveling at a high rate of speed, spun completely around on the highway.

Charles Oglebay, of 604 Hill Street, arrived at the scene of the accident shortly after it occurred and took Hunter to Sacred Heart Hospital.

Attaches at the hospital reported Hunter complained of chest pains and also sustained injuries to his left leg and lacerations about his body.

Golden Says Park Signs Are Stolen

Robert R. Golden, superintendent of Constitution Park, reports that some unique "rustic effect" signs placed in the park to "dress it up" for visitors, have been removed and it is suspected vandals did the work.

Old English lettering has been put on the signs placed in the entrances to the park and they are in a series of three.

One of the signs denotes the speed limit, another that alcoholic beverages are not permitted and the third a reminder not to park on the grass.

With the placement of the signs in the park other signs were eliminated, Golden added. Last year three sets of two signs were removed from the park and this year one set of three has been taken from the premises, all valued at about $35.

The signs are sturdily built and placed on a post and arm and hooked with heavy screw eyes. A heavy instrument had to be used by the vandals in order that they could be pried off, Golden added.

Golden said he is personally offering a reward for any information leading to the identity of the persons who have removed the signs.

Breaking, Entering Is Being Probed By Authorities

Local police detectives and West Virginia authorities are continuing an investigation into the breaking and entering of a restaurant in Ridgeley during the early morning hours yesterday.

Chief of Police Harry Detrick said that he is being assisted by City Police Detectives Lt. James E. Van and Thomas J. See and Trooper Charles Oliver of the West Virginia State Police at Keyser.

Chief Detrick said the restaurant, located on Potomac Street, is attached to a service station and that entry was made after the station closed at approximately 1 a. m. and before the restaurant opened at 6 a. m.

The culprit or culprits, Chief Detrick said, broke open the money boxes on shuffleboard and pinball machines and practically demolished a cigaret machine in an effort to get money. Efforts were also made to break into the receipts of a juke box, it was reported.

An estimated $40 to $50 was reported taken and damage to the machines was set at $125, Chief Detrick stated.

Dress Rehearsal For Pageant Is Rescheduled

The final dress rehearsal for the Fort Cumberland Bicentennial Pageant, "Redcoats and Redskins," has been rescheduled for 7 o'clock tonight, according to French Sensabaugh, the director.

Originally planned for last night, the rehearsal had to be deferred because of rain, Sensabaugh urged all participants to be present at 7 o'clock with their costumes.

Old Brick Home Soon To Become Motor Court

Turkey Flight Manor Changed

Historic Turkey Flight Manor, reputedly the oldest brick house in the Cumberland area, is in the process of transformation to a modern motor court.

According to Mr. and Mrs. George C. Fey, present owners of the home at Baltimore Pike and Nave's Crossroad, the structure which is steeped with American history will become the "Colonial Manor Motor Lodge" on or about September 1.

Fey originally hoped to have the motel finished in time for the Fort Cumberland Bicentennial observance. Building delays have caused a postponement of the initial finishing date.

The building was erected in 1785, two years before the birth of Allegany County and nine years following the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is now celebrating its 170th birthday and its straight stone walls indicate that it is as solid and substantial today as it was when Col. William Lamar, a hero of the Revolutionary War, selected his tract of land, granted by General George Washington, to erect his manor house and develop a plantation.

America's Civil War furnished added tradition when a skirmish, popularly called the Battle of Folck's Mill, was fought on the grounds near the house.

During the battle a cannonball hit a side of house, tore off a section of the walls and became imbedded in the sides. When the building was mended, the ball was left in the wall.

Fey, who has owned the home for the past 15 years, is erecting guest rooms on either side of the main building facing Route 40. In addition to the motel rooms, which resemble old-fashioned servants quarters next to the Colonial building, Fey also is putting columns in the front to add to the beauty of the structure. He also plans to construct a recreational area for children near Evitts Creek.

Mrs. Fey said that the furnishings are also all in the colonial style, featuring "colonial maple, and spool, spindle, and poster beds." Each room will have ample room and its own shower and bath facilities.

B. Beneman and Sons is supplying the furniture.

Fey stated that total construction and redecorating is evaluated as an approximate $100,000 investment.

Weather

Cumberland area residents, wary of former Hurricane Connie, weathered a cool, humid, overcast day with mid-afternoon and evening showers. The temperatures during the entire 24-hour period did not vary more than five degrees. The high reading was 72 and the low was 67 degrees. At 7:30 p. m. the mercury measured 67. The humidity at 6 p. m. was a very high 95 per cent and a total of .20 inches of rain was recorded.

Bicentennial Events Open Here Tomorrow

Governor McKeldin To Be Guest Speaker

The Queen City of the Alleghenies, which this year is marking the 200th anniversary of the establishment of Fort Cumberland, will be buzzing with activities all next week in observance of the Bicentennial.

Tomorrow will see the beginning of the week-long program and has been designated as Americanism Day. Special Bicentennial programs are being planned in area churches during morning worship services.

Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin will deliver the main address Sunday evening during an outdoor service for all faiths which will be held at Fort Hill Stadium.

Band Concert

At 7:30 p. m. tomorrow the Cumberland Municipal Concert Band will present a concert of classic and old-time songs at the stadium.

W. Valgene Routch, supervisor of music for Allegany County Schools, and director of the concert band, last night said that one of the highlights of the program will be a baritone solo, "The World Is Waiting For the Sunrise," by Joseph Trenton, who is president of the band.

Several selections with community singing will be part of the program as a dedication to the Bicentennial celebration. "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," will be sung by a group of Bicentennial Belles to the Brothers of the Brush.

Outdoor Service

The concert will be followed at 8:30 p. m. by an outdoor service for all faiths at the stadium. At this time a combined choir of 80 voices consisting of students of Allegany High School, Fort Hill High School and Carver High School will sing a number of selections, according to Routch.

Miss Dorothy Willison, director of music at Allegany, will lead the choir in singing, "America The Beautiful," as arranged by Fred Waring. "God of Our Fathers," will then be sung by the choir under the direction of Charles Sager, music director of Frostburg State Teachers College.

"Faith of Our Fathers" will be sung by the combined choir under the direction of Miss Annetta Yates, Fort Hill High music director.

The audience will join in the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner," and "America," and will be led by Miss Mary Robb, music director of Carver High School.

Governor McKeldin will give the main address and brief remarks will be made by area clergymen during the outdoor service.

Hagerstown Girl Wins Md. 4-H Dress Review

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Aug. 12 (AP)—Sylvia Bounds of Hagerstown, an 18-year-old sophomore at Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pa., won the Maryland 4-H dress review today at the University of Maryland.

Miss Bounds, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Bounds, modeled a dress of Black Watch plaid which she made from an original pattern. She said it cost her $11.50.

She was among 58 Maryland 4-H girls taking part in the review, a feature of Visitors' Day at 4-H Club Week. Some 1,500 club members have been attending club week on the university campus. It ends tomorrow.

Second place was won by Jacqueline Dorsey, 16-year-old Frederick girl. Elaine Williams, 16, of St. Leonard, was third, and Marie Bowman, 16, of Oakland, fourth.

All counties were represented in the contest except Baltimore County.

Participants were judged on the basis of construction of their garment, its becomingness to the girl, their choice of fabric, the fit, and the value for money spent.

Miss Bounds won the right to take part in the national dress review at the National 4-H Congress in Chicago this fall.

The winner, a veteran of six years in 4-H work, said she sews for other members of her family and is teaching her mother to sew.

Tractor-Trailer Strikes Hydrant

Considerable damage to a fire hydrant at 220 Greene Street was caused yesterday evening when it was struck by a tractor-trailer driven by Richard L. Simmons of Roanoke, Va.

Simmons was en route from Altoona, Pa. to Salem, Va. and said he missed Route 28 and was traveling on South Lee Street to Greene Street to get back on his route.

As the driver rounded the corner the rear wheels of the trailer hit the hydrant and bent it over to the curb. However the hydrant apparently did not snap. Firemen at West Side station notified the City Water Department.

Officer Kenneth W. Morrissey investigated the mishap. The Fleetmaster Motor Lines tractor-trailer is owned by Thomas Anderton of Salem and is leased to the Rowe Furniture Company of that community.

Police said that the driver will pay for the damages.

Mary Joe Bedinger Named Bicentennial Little Queen

Little Miss Mary Joe Bedinger was named the winner in the Little Queen Contest of the Bicentennial as a final tabulation of votes was completed last night.

In the final tabulation, Cindy Lou Cage moved from fourth place to second, and Vicki Jean Cubbage advanced from seventh to fifth place. Teddy Baer Shriver went from second to third, while Marie Juliana Indolfi moved from third to fourth place in the finals.

The winner of the contest will be formally recognized as the "Little Bicentennial Queen" and will have a part in the festivities of the celebration. The other contestants will make up her court as princesses. In addition, the winner will receive a "Back-to-School" wardrobe from a local children's store, along with other awards and honors.

Youth Day Slated Here On Tuesday

Street Parade Will Be Held

Tuesday is going to be a big day for the children of Cumberland and area as Youth Day will be observed here in conjunction with the Bicentennial celebration.

Robert E. Pence, director of the Cumberland Recreation Department, announces that a program of outdoor activities for the children of the 16 playgrounds of the city has been arranged.

And one of the highlights of the day will be a huge street parade which will be held in downtown Cumberland. The day's activities will get underway at 10 a. m. at Constitution Park.

All Children Invited

Pence pointed out that all children of the city and surrounding area are invited to participate in the day's events. He will be assisted in the program by the leaders of the playlots.

From 10 a. m. to noon a picnic will be held and also a series of games, relays, contests and tournaments. At noon the children, who are requested to bring their own lunch, will take a breather and eat their dinner.

After lunch, Pence added, a treasure hunt will be held and also free swimming at the park pool. Various games and contests will be held in the pool. Meanwhile table games, card games will be held in the casino located near the pool for those children uninterested in swimming.

The afternoon events will come to a close at 4 p. m. Pence said that some 148 prizes will be awarded to the children during the course of the day.

The children will be separated into age groups for the contests in order that the competition will be equalized, and no participant will be given over two awards.

The big seven-unit parade will begin at 5:30 p. m. In the various units there will be children with their favorite pets; children with decorative hats; children carrying favorite dolls; an assorted costume group; a flower show group; children with stuffed animals and favorite toys and also a "wheels on parade."

Pony And Cart

The parade will be led off with a pony and cart driven by Edward Hare. Efforts are being made to have Arizona Donn and Dusty Shaver of two local radio stations to be in the line of march on horseback dressed in full cowboy regalia.

Children in the parade will represent the participants in the different contests held on the playlots during this season.

The parade will form on Salem Street and march up George Street to Baltimore Street. Then it will turn left and march down Baltimore Street to Centre to Bedford to North Mechanic Street.

The marchers will proceed on Mechanic Street to Baltimore Street and up the "main stem" to Liberty and down South Liberty to Harrison and disband at the Armory.

Surplus Foods Demand Shows 13% Decrease

Program Will Run Through December

The first week of distribution of surplus foods in the county this month, shows a 13 per cent decline over last month on requests for the commodities, County Roads Supervisor J. Walker Chapman said last night. This indicates, he suggested, that more people are finding employment and the need is gradually decreasing.

In the meantime, however, it was learned, he said that surplus commodities will be available through December, and if the registrations indicate that the food is required here, the program will continue until that time.

Distribution for August started Monday in Westernport where 146 families of 458 persons received 665 pounds butter, 488 pounds cheese, 342 pounds dried milk and 54 pounds shortening.

At Barton on Tuesday, 183 families of 533 persons obtained 743 pounds butter, 567 pounds cheese, 320 pounds milk and 57 pounds shortening.

On Wednesday at Lonaconing, 267 families of 805 individuals were given 1,145 pounds butter, 947 pounds cheese, 752 pounds milk and 126 pounds shortening.

In Midland on Thursday, 165 families of 544 persons got 736 pounds butter, 578 pounds cheese, 396 pounds milk and 75 pounds shortening.

At Frostburg yesterday, 345 families of 1,214 persons appeared for 1,665 pounds butter, 1,248 pounds cheese, 995 pounds milk and 216 pounds shortening.

On Monday, distribution will be resumed starting at Eckhart. On Tuesday the food trucks will be at Mt. Savage. On Wednesday they will appear at Cresaptown, and on Thursday and Friday distribution will be made in Cumberland.

Registration for the October allotment of surplus foods will begin August 31, and continue through September 1 and 2 at all agencies except the Red Cross Branch in Midland where the registration will be conducted only on September 1 and 2, and at Westernport where one of these three days, probably August 31, will be the only day to register.

The earlier registrations dates have been made necessary because of the Labor Day holiday, Chapman explained.

Initial Alarm Unit Installed At Local Store

Rosenbaum Brothers Inc., 118-26 Baltimore Street, is the first retail store in Cumberland to have direct contact with the City Police and Fire Department in the event of a burglary, fire or other emergency.

A unit has been installed at the police station which will notify authorities that the store is being burglarized. Over at Central Fire Station a similar receiving unit was put into operation yesterday, and will be a direct contact with firemen should a fire or other emergency occur in the store.

Chief Virgil A. Parker said the store has a transmitting unit, and the work was done by the American Dispatch Telegraph Company.

In the event a fire occurs in the store and the sprinkler system goes into action, the firemen at Central will also go into action when they receive their call on the receiver unit.

At Fire Headquarters an annunciator, bell, buzzer and small lights let the firemen know immediately that there is trouble at the department store.

The units are connected from the store to the two police and fire department by telephone wires. In the event something happens to the wires, even though there is no emergency at the store, lights in the unit will go on and the telephone company will be notified that something is wrong with the wiring system.

Diane Wilson Rumored Queen

Miss Diane Claire Wilson, sponsored by Labor's Bicentennial Committee, was rumored as the successful aspirant for the title of Fort Cumberland Bicentennial Queen but Bicentennial officials refused to make any statement about the final result.

Miss Wilson moved into first place a week ago after trailing in second place for some time.

Tree Catches Fire

Firemen from the West Side Station were called to 429 Cumberland Street late last night when a tree caught fire, apparently from a short circuit in wiring near the tree. They were out about 15 minutes.

Garrett County Gas Controversy Gets Emphasis

Legislators Step Into Dispute

The Legislative Council members visited Garrett County's natural gas fields yesterday and promptly stepped into a controversy of the young Maryland industry.

Sen. Clifford Friend, (R-Garrett) wants to do away with the present lease system which he says is paying farmers only partial royalties, while tying up the rest of the land from drilling or leasing it to other firms.

Joseph T. Singewald Jr. director of the Department of Geology, Minerals, and Water Resources, says there has to be control over spacing of wells for economic production.

Excessive Concentration

He said there was an excessive concentration of wells in areas of gas strikes, after the industry was launched in Garrett county in 1947.

A special council sub-committee headed by Sen. Anthony D. DiDomenico (D-Baltimore 2d) decided last night to hold public hearings on the question at the Garrett County Court House in Oakland September 13 and 14.

Friend sponsored legislation at the last session to take matters of gas regulations out of the hands of Singewald's department, which he says has "dictatorial powers," and place it under a three-man gas and oil board.

Two such bills passed the Senate only to die in House of Delegates committees. The Garrett senator said he would try again next session.

"Unfair" Leases

He said he himself owned 300 acres in the gas area and farmers were being victimized by "unfair" leases under the present setup.

He said John H. Bowman, of Accident, leased 174 acres to the firm of Snee and Eberly of Uniontown, Pa. The lease stipulated Bowman would receive royalties only on 18½ acres which were pooled with other farm land for gas production, Friend said.

He added that Bowman was prohibited from drilling on the rest of his land or leasing it to other firms. This, the Garrett senator contended, eliminates competition.

Visit Wells

The touring legislators who will end their four day trip to Western Maryland today, visited two producing gas wells and saw one in the process of being drilled.

They went to Garrett County from Frostburg where they visited the State Teachers College and Miners Hospital earlier in the day.

At the State Teachers College they were urged to give high priority to a request for a new laboratory school and dining hall-student activity building which school officials say are needed by the rapidly-growing enrollment.

See Dormitories

They saw two new dormitories under construction at the college as a result of recent legislation appropriations, and at Miners Hospital, the only state supported general hospital, toured $300,000 additions.

The additions increased the bed capacity from 45 to 75 but the legislative council was told only 30 patients were presently being treated.

Some of the council members made separate excursions to Savage River Dam, Deep Creek Lake, and Swallow Falls to inspect the state property in those areas. The group will return to Baltimore today.

Council Faces Task Of Raising Taxes 12 Cents

Problem Is Aired At Budget Session

At least a 12-cent increase in the tax rate of the City of Cumberland appears almost inevitable, it was disclosed yesterday afternoon at a budget meeting of the Mayor and City Council.

Mayor Roy W. Eves, all members of the Council, City Attorney Thomas B. Finan, City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson and City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum, reviewed the problem at considerable length in a two-hour session.

Gibson explained to council that requests for pay raises by city employes, a lower surplus than the previous fiscal year, and the possibility of inclusion of city employes in the Social Security program, creates a need for a great amount of money.

Pay Raise Effect

Broken down roughly at the meeting, Gibson said a ten per cent pay raise as requested by many city employes, would amount to almost an 11-cent increase on the tax rate. Inclusion of Social Security would call for another 2½-cent increase, and loss of surplus amounts to about 3½-cents on the tax rate.

After some discussion, Mayor Eves asked the effect of a five per cent increase for all city employes and Gibson said this would amount to about 5½ cents on the tax rate.

While nothing definite was decided, it was understood that a 12-cent increase in the rate is considerable, but Gibson was told to work toward that point.

If such a plan materializes, the city employes stand to get a five per cent pay raise rather than the ten percent requested. Social Security coverage can be included in the budget, and the loss of income from the smaller surplus will be made up.

Other Factors

Council members pointed out, however, that such a plan is based upon the assumption that there will be no increase in any departmental budgets over last year, and there will be no marked change in debt service.

While the council must sign its new levy and budget August 25, it was evident that considerable work remains to be done before the new tax rate can be definitely ascertained.

No member of the council wants to raise taxes. Commissioner John J. Long said "no tax raise is desirable and 12-cents seems like an awful lot."

Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz also stated that a tax rate of this proportion is high, but the cost of government, like the cost of everything else keeps mounting. He said he is not in favor of any raise in taxes, anymore than anyone else, but he believes the city employes are entitled to a pay increase, and should come under Social Security if they want it. He could find no way out of the situation.

Mayor Eves said that city employes are entitled to some consideration and he too thinks any tax increase is not desirable. He suggested that every individual department budget be gone over carefully again, to see if any economies can be made. Gibson and Finance Commissioner Long, agreed that this would be done.

Meeting Preliminary

Mayor Eves pointed out that this meeting is preliminary and informal and that nothing conclusive could be drawn. He said, "we do not want to give the city employes the opinion that they are going to get a five per cent raise until a final decision is made." He did suggest, however, that council consider the budget on that basis for further study.

Gibson went into considerable detail about receipts and expenditures. He estimates the income from all sources in the new fiscal year, at $1,511,000 at the present tax rate, which falls far short of the funds needed to finance the city's program in 1955-56. He termed several factors in the higher budget "mandatory," and made it clear to the mayor and council that over six cents increase will be necessary without any pay raise for any city employes. If they are given a five per cent boost, this will mean a tax increase of about 12 cents, he said.

The city's tax rate this past fiscal year which ended June 30, was $1.36. The year before it was $1.28 and the year prior to that it was $1.32. The projected boost of 12 cents will make the rate for

Mayor Greets Mayor

Bicentennial Queen's Ball To Be Held Monday Night

As the Bicentennial Celebration gets under full swing next week, among the social attractions is the Queen's Ball to be staged at the Queen City Hotel Monday night after the pageant.

According to Mr. and Mrs. Bernard G. Renz, co-chairmen of this phase of the celebration, arrangements have been completed for a colorful affair with the Queen and her court as guests of honor. Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin, who is coming here to crown the Queen, will also be among the celebrities present.

The Queen City Hotel ballroom for many years was the site of many gala and colorful social events. Many residents recall the annual New Year's balls held there, as well as countless other dances, banquets, and social gatherings. For many years, the Queen City Hotel ballroom was considered the showplace, and the proper place for the best in social functions.

In keeping with tradition of the site itself, and to provide a proper setting for the Queen's Ball of 1955, the entire ballroom has been repainted, refurbished and the floor renewed. This work was speeded to complete, in time for this gala event.

The ball is not an invitation affair, and all persons in the community who wish to attend are privileged to do so. Members of the Brushes and Belles, town officials, visiting notables, and many visitors here for the homecoming and celebration, are expected.

Original plans to hold three such affairs in three parts of the city, in order to accommodate the huge number of guests expected to participate, were cancelled because of the unavailability of local clubs and ballrooms.

The ball will continue from 8 p. m. to midnight, with the highlight of the evening immediately after the pageant, when the Queen and her Court and guests make their appearance.

Local Resident Hurt In Crash

A Cumberland man was taken to Sacred Heart Hospital last night after his automobile careened from the highway, smashed through several guard rails, and was demolished.

James Hugh Hunter, 27, of 502 Bedford Street, was driving alone on Route 28 near the Wiley Ford intersection toward Fort Ashby when his vehicle skidded on the road which was slippery from a slight rainfall.

West Virginia State Trooper Charles Oliver, who investigated the accident, said the car, apparently traveling at a high rate of speed, spun completely around on the highway.

Charles Oglebay, of 604 Hill Street, arrived at the scene of the accident shortly after it occurred and took Hunter to Sacred Heart Hospital.

Marine Reservists Reported In No Danger

Word has been received here that members of the Sixth Special Infantry Company, USMCR, who have been undergoing summer training at Camp LeJeune, N. C. are in no danger due to Hurricane Connie, which has lashed the Carolina coast.

Major Patsy Algieri, commanding officer of the local company, notified personnel of the U. S. Naval Reserve Training Center, McKaigs Hill, that the reservists came through the hurricane safely and are in no danger whatsoever.

Golden Says Park Signs Are Stolen

Robert R. Golden, superintendent of Constitution Park, reports that some unique "rustic effect" signs placed in the park to "dress it up" for visitors, have been removed and it is suspected vandals did the work.

Old English lettering has been put on the signs placed in the entrances to the park and they are in a series of three.

One of the signs denotes the speed limit, another that alcoholic beverages are not permitted and the third a reminder not to park on the grass.

With the placement of the signs in the park other signs were eliminated, Golden added. Last year three sets of two signs were removed from the park and this year one set of three has been taken from the premises, all valued at about $35.

The signs are sturdily built and placed on a post and arm and hooked with heavy screw eyes. A heavy instrument had to be used by the vandals in order that they could be pried off, Golden added.

Golden said he is personally offering a reward for any information leading to the identity of the persons who have removed the signs.

Breaking, Entering Is Being Probed By Authorities

Local police detectives and West Virginia authorities are continuing an investigation into the breaking and entering of a restaurant in Ridgeley during the early morning hours yesterday.

Chief of Police Harry Detrick said that he is being assisted by City Police Detectives Lt. James E. Van and Thomas J. See and Trooper Charles Oliver of the West Virginia State Police at Keyser.

Chief Detrick said the restaurant, located on Potomac Street, is attached to a service station and that entry was made after the station closed at approximately 1 a. m. and before the restaurant opened at 6 a. m.

The culprit or culprits, Chief Detrick said, broke open the money boxes on shuffleboard and pinball machines and practically demolished a cigaret machine in an effort to get money. Efforts were also made to break into the receipts of a juke box, it was reported.

An estimated $40 to $50 was reported taken and damage to the machines was set at $125, Chief Detrick stated.

Dress Rehearsal For Pageant Is Rescheduled

The final dress rehearsal for the Fort Cumberland Bicentennial Pageant, "Redcoats and Redskins," has been rescheduled for 7 o'clock tonight, according to French Sensabaugh, the director.

Originally planned for last night, the rehearsal had to be deferred because of rain, Sensabaugh urged all participants to be present at 7 o'clock with their costumes.

Old Brick Home Soon To Become Motor Court

Turkey Flight Manor Changed

Historic Turkey Flight Manor, reputedly the oldest brick house in the Cumberland area, is in the process of transformation to a modern motor court.

According to Mr. and Mrs. George C. Fey, present owners of the home at Baltimore Pike and Nave's Crossroad, the structure which is steeped with American history will become the "Colonial Manor Motor Lodge" on or about September 1.

Fey originally hoped to have the motel finished in time for the Fort Cumberland Bicentennial observance. Building delays have caused a postponement of the initial finishing date.

The building was erected in 1785, two years before the birth of Allegany County and nine years following the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is now celebrating its 170th birthday and its straight stone walls indicate that it is as solid and substantial today as it was when Col. William Lamar, a hero of the Revolutionary War, selected his tract of land, granted by General George Washington, to erect his manor house and develop a plantation.

America's Civil War furnished added tradition when a skirmish, popularly called the Battle of Folck's Mill, was fought on the grounds near the house.

During the battle a cannonball hit a side of house, tore off a section of the walls and became imbedded in the sides. When the building was mended, the ball was left in the wall.

Fey, who has owned the home for the past 15 years, is erecting guest rooms on either side of the main building facing Route 40. In addition to the motel rooms, which resemble old-fashioned servants quarters next to the Colonial building, Fey also is putting columns in the front to add to the beauty of the structure. He also plans to construct a recreational area for children near Evitts Creek.

Mrs. Fey said that the furnishings are also all in the colonial style, featuring "colonial maple, and spool, spindle, and poster beds." Each room will have ample room and its own shower and bath facilities.

B. Beneman and Sons is supplying the furniture.

Fey stated that total construction and redecorating is evaluated as an approximate $100,000 investment.

Weather

Cumberland area residents, wary of former Hurricane Connie, weathered a cool, humid, overcast day with mid-afternoon and evening showers. The temperatures during the entire 24-hour period did not vary more than five degrees. The high reading was 72 and the low was 67 degrees. At 7:30 p. m. the mercury measured 67. The humidity at 6 p. m. was a very high 95 per cent and a total of .20 inches of rain was recorded.

Hagerstown Girl Wins Md. 4-H Dress Review

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Aug. 12 (AP)—Sylvia Bounds of Hagerstown, an 18-year-old sophomore at Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pa., won the Maryland 4-H dress review today at the University of Maryland.

Miss Bounds, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Bounds, modeled a dress of Black Watch plaid which she made from an original pattern. She said it cost her $11.50.

She was among 58 Maryland 4-H girls taking part in the review, a feature of Visitors' Day at 4-H Club Week. Some 1,500 club members have been attending club week on the university campus. It ends tomorrow.

Second place was won by Jacqueline Dorsey, 16-year-old Frederick girl. Elaine Williams, 16, of St. Leonard, was third, and Marie Bowman, 16, of Oakland, fourth.

All counties were represented in the contest except Baltimore County.

Participants were judged on the basis of construction of their garment, its becomingness to the girl, their choice of fabric, the fit, and the value for money spent.

Miss Bounds won the right to take part in the national dress review at the National 4-H Congress in Chicago this fall.

The winner, a veteran of six years in 4-H work, said she sews for other members of her family and is teaching her mother to sew.

Tractor-Trailer Strikes Hydrant

Considerable damage to a fire hydrant at 220 Greene Street was caused yesterday evening when it was struck by a tractor-trailer driven by Richard L. Simmons of Roanoke, Va.

Simmons was en route from Altoona, Pa. to Salem, Va. and said he missed Route 28 and was traveling on South Lee Street to Greene Street to get back on his route.

As the driver rounded the corner the rear wheels of the trailer hit the hydrant and bent it over to the curb. However the hydrant apparently did not snap. Firemen at West Side station notified the City Water Department.

Officer Kenneth W. Morrissey investigated the mishap. The Fleetmaster Motor Lines tractor-trailer is owned by Thomas Anderton of Salem and is leased to the Rowe Furniture Company of that community.

Police said that the driver will pay for the damages.

Tuesday is going to be a big day for the children of Cumberland and area as Youth Day will be observed here in conjunction with the Bicentennial celebration.

Robert E. Pence, director of the Cumberland Recreation Department, announces that a program of outdoor activities for the children of the 16 playgrounds of the city has been arranged.

And one of the highlights of the day will be a huge street parade which will be held in downtown Cumberland. The day's activities will get underway at 10 a. m. at Constitution Park.

All Children Invited

Pence pointed out that all children of the city and surrounding area are invited to participate in the day's events. He will be assisted in the program by the leaders of the playlots.

From 10 a. m. to noon a picnic will be held and also a series of games, relays, contests and tournaments. At noon the children, who are requested to bring their own lunch, will take a breather and eat their dinner.

The afternoon events will come to a close at 4 p. m. Pence said that some 148 prizes will be awarded to the children during the course of the day.

The children will be separated into age groups for the contests in order that the competition will be equalized, and no participant will be given over two awards.

The big seven-unit parade will begin at 5:30 p. m. Surplus Foods Demand Shows 13% Decrease

Program Will Run Through December

The first week of distribution of surplus foods in the county this month, shows a 13 per cent decline over last month on requests for the commodities, County Roads Supervisor J. Walker Chapman said last night. This indicates, he suggested, that more people are finding employment and the need is gradually decreasing.

In the meantime, however, it was learned, he said that surplus commodities will be available through December, and if the registrations indicate that the food is required here, the program will continue until that time.

Distribution for August started Monday in Westernport where 146 families of 458 persons received 665 pounds butter, 488 pounds cheese, 342 pounds dried milk and 54 pounds shortening.

At Barton on Tuesday, 183 families of 533 persons obtained 743 pounds butter, 567 pounds cheese, 320 pounds milk and 57 pounds shortening.

On Wednesday at Lonaconing, 267 families of 805 individuals were given 1,145 pounds butter, 947 pounds cheese, 752 pounds milk and 126 pounds shortening.

In Midland on Thursday, 165 families of 544 persons got 736 pounds butter, 578 pounds cheese, 396 pounds milk and 75 pounds shortening.

At Frostburg yesterday, 345 families of 1,214 persons appeared for 1,665 pounds butter, 1,248 pounds cheese, 995 pounds milk and 216 pounds shortening.

On Monday, distribution will be resumed starting at Eckhart. On Tuesday the food trucks will be at Mt. Savage. On Wednesday they will appear at Cresaptown, and on Thursday and Friday distribution will be made in Cumberland.

Registration for the October allotment of surplus foods will begin August 31, and continue through September 1 and 2 at all agencies except the Red Cross Branch in Midland where the registration will be conducted only on September 1 and 2, and at Westernport where one of these three days, probably August 31, will be the only day to register.

The earlier registrations dates have been made necessary because of the Labor Day holiday, Chapman explained.

Initial Alarm Unit Installed At Local Store

Rosenbaum Brothers Inc., 118-26 Baltimore Street, is the first retail store in Cumberland to have direct contact with the City Police and Fire Department in the event of a burglary, fire or other emergency.

A unit has been installed at the police station which will notify authorities that the store is being burglarized. Over at Central Fire Station a similar receiving unit was put into operation yesterday, and will be a direct contact with firemen should a fire or other emergency occur in the store.

Chief Virgil A. Parker said the store has a transmitting unit, and the work was done by the American Dispatch Telegraph Company.

In the event a fire occurs in the store and the sprinkler system goes into action, the firemen at Central will also go into action when they receive their call on the receiver unit.

At Fire Headquarters an annunciator, bell, buzzer and small lights let the firemen know immediately that there is trouble at the department store.

The units are connected from the store to the two police and fire department by telephone wires. In the event something happens to the wires, even though there is no emergency at the store, lights in the unit will go on and the telephone company will be notified that something is wrong with the wiring system.

Diane Wilson Rumored Queen

Miss Diane Claire Wilson, sponsored by Labor's Bicentennial Committee, was rumored as the successful aspirant for the title of Fort Cumberland Bicentennial Queen but Bicentennial officials refused to make any statement about the final result.

Miss Wilson moved into first place a week ago after trailing in second place for some time.

Tree Catches Fire

Firemen from the West Side Station were called to 429 Cumberland Street late last night when a tree caught fire, apparently from a short circuit in wiring near the tree. They were out about 15 minutes.

Garrett County Gas Controversy Gets Emphasis

Legislators Step Into Dispute

The Legislative Council members visited Garrett County's natural gas fields yesterday and promptly stepped into a controversy of the young Maryland industry.

Sen. Clifford Friend, (R-Garrett) wants to do away with the present lease system which he says is paying farmers only partial royalties, while tying up the rest of the land from drilling or leasing it to other firms.

Joseph T. Singewald Jr., director of the Department of Geology, Minerals, and Water Resources, says there has to be control over spacing of wells for economic production.

Excessive Concentration

He said there was an excessive concentration of wells in areas of gas strikes, after the industry was launched in Garrett county in 1947.

A special council sub-committee headed by Sen. Anthony D. DiDomenico (D-Baltimore 2d) decided last night to hold public hearings on the question at the Garrett County Court House in Oakland September 13 and 14.

Friend sponsored legislation at the last session to take matters of gas regulations out of the hands of Singewald's department, which he says has "dictatorial powers," and place it under a three-man gas and oil board.

Two such bills passed the Senate only to die in House of Delegates committees. The Garrett senator said he would try again next session.

"Unfair" Leases

He said he himself owned 300 acres in the gas area and farmers were being victimized by "unfair" leases under the present setup.

He said John H. Bowman, of Accident, leased 174 acres to the firm of Snee and Eberly of Uniontown, Pa. The lease stipulated Bowman would receive royalties only on 18½ acres which were pooled with other farm land for gas production, Friend said.

He added that Bowman was prohibited from drilling on the rest of his land or leasing it to other firms. This, the Garrett senator contended, eliminates competition.

Visit Wells

The touring legislators who will end their four day trip to Western Maryland today, visited two producing gas wells and saw one in the process of being drilled.

They went to Garrett County from Frostburg where they visited the State Teachers College and Miners Hospital earlier in the day.

At the State Teachers College they were urged to give high priority to a request for a new laboratory school and dining hall-student activity building which school officials say are needed by the rapidly-growing enrollment.

See Dormitories

They saw two new dormitories under construction at the college as a result of recent legislation appropriations, and at Miners Hospital, the only state supported general hospital, toured $300,000 additions.

The additions increased the bed capacity from 45 to 75 but the legislative council was told only 30 patients were presently being treated.

Some of the council members made separate excursions to Savage River Dam, Deep Creek Lake, and Swallow Falls to inspect the state property in those areas. The group will return to Baltimore today.
